CAMP LEWIS WANTS $200,000 WORTH OF CANDY

That the government realizes the usefulness of candy in the diet of our soldiers is shown by the immense order for $200,000 worth of candy, which has just been placed for the men at Camp Lewis. Half of this order will be filled by a Seattle and half by a Tacoma candy manufacturer. It is the largest candy order ever placed in the northwest and probably the largest yet authorized by the government for the soldiers.

It is estimated that it will take three months to fill the order and that the supply will be sufficient to last the five exchanges at Camp Lewis for a period of three to four months.

This war has done more than anything else to demonstrate that candy is of tremendous food value. A soldier after a hard day's work needs candy, his system craves it. Likewise, shipyard workers, loggers, men and women doing all kinds of heavy work crave candy because it supplies the need for something sweet to supply bodily fuel. Growing children require the sugar in candy to supply them with carbohydrates.

The candy which is being made today is manufactured with the sugar authorized for this purpose by the food administration. You can patriotically eat the candy which you now see on sale. If you wish to forego it, you can send it to your soldier. A comparison of the food value of candy with other articles of diet tell an interesting story. Chocolate creams have a value of 2,092 calories per pound. Compared with this are:

- Whole milk, 315 calories.
- Cream, 881 calories.
- Whole eggs, 695 calories.
- Beefsteak, 1,090 calories.
- Corn, 1,685 calories.
- Rice, 1,629 calories.
- White bread, 1,186 calories.
- Corn bread, 1,175 calories.

Many people used to wonder what would be the substitute for drinking to supply heat for the system. People have found that sugar is the real source of bodily fuel, supplying carbohydrates. Sugar is most enjoyed by many people when made up into a food product, mixed with fruit, nuts, etc.—all high in food value.

We recognize sugar as a food product—and milk as a food product—and cocoa as a food product—and nuts and fruits and raisins as food products—those are the chief in-

PEOPLE ASKED TO CONSERVE PAPER

Washington, July 26.—A general publicity campaign will be launched shortly by the war industries board to educate the public to the importance of conservation of paper of all kinds.

War conditions, it was stated, demand a radical change in the habits of consumers, as the government's needs for chemicals and other materials made it necessary to prevent as much waste as possible.
