ANOTHER MAN IS AFTER HALL, CHECK ARTIST

C. M. Hall, the man who was taken to the state penitentiary from Grants Pass recently for passing worthless checks, appears to be a much-wanted man. Hall is now serving out an unfinished term at the penitentiary. Besides being wanted at Lakeview and a few other places, so Sheriff Lewis states, he is now wanted at Woodland, Wash., by a man named Dyck, who this morning telegraphed the sheriff here as follows:

"Advise if C. M. Hall has deposited $600 at the bank at Lakeview, Oregon, or what has he done with my two stallions?"

"D. DYCK."

It is almost positive that Hall has not deposited the $600, nor are the local officers able to trace the said stallions. According to the many allegations made against him, Hall is right now where he belongs, in the warden's care at Salem.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES ARE STRAIGHTENED OUT

Sunday night Chief of Police McLane received notice from Ashland to be on the lookout for a man and two children who were headed north in an automobile. The man's name was Armstrong. It seems that the Armstrongs were at Yreka for a short time, according to Armstrong's own story, and while there he imbibed too heavily in the fiery liquid. As a result, he and his wife agreed to disagree and by the time they reached Ashland on their way north in the car, Mrs. Armstrong decided to stay at Ashland while Mr. Armstrong had other arrangements mapped out and with two children came on north, leaving Mrs. Armstrong and the two other children stranded at Ashland. Chief McLane put the state police on his trail, or rather on the Pacific highway to head him off, and they took the man and two children in just south of this city. After some arguing Armstrong agreed to return to Ashland and patch up his domestic difficulties.

Alleged Slacker—Jas. C. Whittle was arrested here Sunday by Chief of Police McLane. Whittle is supposed to be a slacker, but the fact has not yet been proven. He is a marine engineer and is 29 years of age. Sheriff Lewis has tele-

Waists That Would Represent Good Values at $1.50 are Still Priced Here at $1.00

All lines of reputable Blouses that formerly sold at $1.00, with one notable exception, have long since because of advancing material and labor costs, advanced their prices to $1.50.

That one exception is the Wirthmor.

Back of the Wirthmor name stands a high ideal of Blouse making, that insists on giving to the consumer the very ultimate in genuine value.

It is that ideal, that never failing policy that still enables you to buy these wonderful Blouses at $1.00, when the materials and labor entering into their construction have advanced so exorbitantly as to warrant a price of fully $1.50.

When the makers present stock of materials is exhausted, an advance in the price of these splendid Waists will be inevitable. Until that time arrives the price will remain $1.00, permitting our patrons to share in the large savings that come as a result of the economies of the Wirthmor Plan.

The Golden Rule

phed to San Francisco. Whittle's former home, for information in regard to the matter.

Go To Bremerton—Mr. and Mrs. Amos M. Williams, who have been conducting the dry cleaning parlor known as "The Wardrobe," expect to leave this afternoon or tomorrow for Bremerton where they will engage in the same business and where Mr. Williams is in the U. S. service. They will drive through in their car. Their business will be continued for a time by Messrs. A. W. Clapp and Earl Larson. At present dry cleaners are in the non-essential list, but Mr. Williams states that a committee at Washington is busy trying to get dry cleaners placed on the essential list of workers.

To Employ Girls—I. A. Robie states that with the opening of school, which will take away some of the boys he now has working at the box factory, he will probably be compelled to employ girls and women at the factory. Mr. Robie is not anxious to make the change, but help is scarce and he will be obliged to do so.

Boys Can't Sell Junk—Due to the fact that some boys have been in the habit of "swiping" articles and selling them to junk men, a law has been passed prohibiting boys under 21 years of age from selling anything to junk dealers, without the consent of the boys' parents. It would be well for all junk dealers to remember this.

Machinery for Golconda—R. J. Rowen has returned from a two weeks' trip to San Francisco. Mr. Rowen states that $15,000 has recently been spent for additional machinery to be installed at the Golconda mine, near Holland, and a large force of men will be put to work at once. He also says it is the intention to operate the mine all winter.
