OREGON WEATHER

Rain, moderate southerly winds.

THEY WILL SOON BE WITH US

With the ending of the war it will soon be in order to say, "we have with us tonight the well known and eminent Mr. Hobo and his illustrious co-partner, the Hon. I. W. W., who will engage the attention of the great American audience for an indefinite period."

Arise, with much gusto, the two "Hons" above mentioned, and the great show is on; the stage in the United States is always set. The hypothesis becomes a cold, concrete fact—and it will be a fact.

The hobo has entirely disappeared. He has not, for months, answered "present" at the back door for his daily handout. But he will return—we cannot lose him. He was not quite so hard to manage as his partner, the ever recalcitrant I. W. W., but the latter has, through the enforcement of stringent laws, been held in leash—been partly subdued. But like the Spanish influenza bug, although invisible, the spirit of these two "Hons" is marching on and at various points has appeared in the more virulent form, that of the American Bolsheviki. This is the last stage of the disease and it either kills the patients or else is crushed—and the United States courts must be the weapon with which to do the crushing.

While the typical American hobo is not generally considered a dangerous character, so long as he can be restrained from assembling with many of his brethren, his first cousin, the American Bolsheviki, is the real red-fire element the United States has had some dealings with and may be compelled to deal with for months following the close of hostilities on the western front. He is the loaded stick in the woodpile, the poison in the water, the wrench in the cogs of governmental machinery and his eradication will require more stringent measures than have ever been enforced in America. Short prison terms only augment his temper and increase his venom. He is the genuine anarchist and needs only the exhortations of a soap-box orator to start the fuse attached to his warped and diseased brain to set him off on a mission of arson and murder. He is a leper, a canker on civilization and when convicted in the courts only a long term in prison, or the gallows, will curb him.

The Bolsheviki now attempting to gain a foothold in the United States are not producers of anything—unless it is hell. They are the disturbing element among organized labor. They have bright visions of changing the government for the better, but one has only to look at the chaotic situation in that part of Russia where they are now in power to perceive the final results of their teachings. The path they point out leads to murder, arson and degradation.

During the past few weeks the United States courts have been handling these inciters of rebellion in a satisfactory manner, but only by a continuance of the same treatment, and even a more drastic course can the Bolsheviki element be eliminated.

It is up to the courts.

Here is the way the Oregon Journal explains its big blunder in announcing that the war had ended: It lays the blame for the false report on Admiral Wilson, commander of the American naval forces in French waters. And then the Journal adds editorially: "The country celebrated peace yesterday. Whether the celebration was premature or not, Germany is gone—Berlin knows her doom." Any old day the Journal can't "slide out from under" it's a colder day than it ever gets in Oregon.

The Oregon Journal, possibly in an attempt to soothe the sensitive and injured feelings of Wilson's admirers, is calling the republicans some bad names, such as "unscrupulous, autocrats, Prussians, jingoes, imperialists, reactionists, bat-like like Senator Lodge, damnable like Roosevelt, villainous, shrewd and Hun-like in their methods, junkers," etc., etc. Go to it, Jackson, we know you feel like it.

It is reported from Berlin that the famous Hindenburg idol—the wooden statue erected in the days of his glory—has to be guarded from the people. To keep them from biting the nails they once drove in so worshipfully?

The Germans say they want peace "consistent with German honor." Fair enough. That will be sulphur and brimstone for every last Boche who has been committing those crimes which have been shaming the devil.

Germany has broken diplomatic relations with the Bolsheviki. Possibly they were jealous of the long-whiskered gentry because the latter vied with the Hun army in brutality.

The real squealing will come when the Germans, having had the "steenth" "victory loan" squeezed out of them, begin raising their first indemnity loan.

Good news for defeated candidates: A dispatch says that whiskey prices are at the lowest level.

There is one fine thing about this armistice business: Everybody has confidence in Marshal Foch.

The Watch on the Rhine is thoroughly awake, getting ready to run.

Henry Ford, as a fillyver, wasn't in it with a real car.

MOTHERS and sisters of America, there are a thousand girls over there who are representing you. They are the girls of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and the lassies of the Salvation Army. Boys come back to them at night hungry for a woman's voice in a language they can understand. They bring your letters; and the pictures of you—their sisters and their mothers over here. Have you ever stopped to think that this is the first war in which the influence of good women followed the boys straight up to the front? It's worth a lot to you to keep that influence strong and permanent. Keep it so through the

4 MINUTE SPEECH 4

(Owing to the ban placed on public gatherings due to the Spanish influenza, the Four Minute men will deliver their messages through the press instead of at the theatres.)

Rev. Melville T. Wire

We have come to feel that the war is about over, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey are out of it and Germany is begging for peace terms. The Kaiser and his unspeakable pirate crew, otherwise known as the German high command, are vainly bolstering a tottering autocracy. Victory for democracy is within our grasp. It is a time for rejoicing, but also a time in which no effort should be slackened in our support of the war and all the enterprises connected with it. We must not—we dare not stop now. The Kaiser always launches his peace offensives at the time Americans are organizing some campaign for war funds. We are now on the eve of the United War Work drive. If peace should be declared tomorrow these organizations would have important work to do for a year yet.

The period between the cessation of fighting and the actual demobilization of our troops will be, for the average soldier, the most trying period of his enlistment. The incentive of actual fighting will be gone; it will be a period of comparative inactivity. Such times are the most trying on the morals and morale of soldiers. The Y. M. C. A. and allied interests will be needed more than ever. We should oversubscribe the amounts asked. To slacken our efforts would be to invite disaster for the organizations which our government has commissioned to look after the welfare of our boys abroad. We cannot now pause to argue the wisdom of combining all these organizations in one big drive. If we withhold our dollars our boys abroad will suffer. Differences of opinion can await the actual close of the war for adjustment. Remember that our army in France is vastly larger than it has been. If more boys are overseas that means more welfare equipment. More welfare equipment means more dollars. Let us give them.

Somewhere in France there is an American boy fighting for you. Have you proved yourself worth his wonderful effort by finishing his socks on time?

FARMERS ATTENTION

Experimenting costs money. We are doing business on a solid basis, as we have our trade established—no experimenting. I learn that some parties were in the county last week explaining their company's operations. The fact is that the same company tried to break the market and lower the butter prices to 61 cents. You ask them—they cannot deny it. The Hazelwood Company has kept the price to what it is and we are paying 65 cents now.

Producers can help themselves by sending butter fat to the company that has a market for all their goods and always pay the top prices.
