When it's over, over there, Molly darling.
Mummy mine.
My dream girl.
When the eagle flaps his wings and calls on the kaiser.
I hate to lose you.
Forget me not.
Memories.
Aurevoir but not good bye soldier boy.
My wonder dream of you.
Keep the trench fires going.
You made me cry for you.
You may hold a million girls in your arms.
You never can be too sure about the girls.
You never can tell.
Young America, we're strong for you.
You-oo just you.
Your country needs you.
You're breaking my heart with good-bys.

EARLY CELEBRATION

The glad tidings that the great war had ended came to the Courier office at about 6:45 this morning. Immediately the church bells were rung, the fire department got busy, a locomotive ran shrieking up and down the track, and pandemonium broke loose in general. People shouted, automobiles and bicycles raced the streets with bells and cans trailing behind and everything that would make a noise was brought into play.

Prussianism is crushed—America and the allies have won—the kaiser is down and out. We have license to celebrate—everybody get busy.

FARMERS ATTENTION

Experimenting costs money. We are doing business on a solid basis, as we have our trade established—no experimenting. I learn that some parties were in the county last week explaining their company's operations. The fact is that the same company tried to break the market and lower the butter prices to 61 cents. You ask them—they cannot deny it. The Hazelwood Company has kept the price to what it is and we are paying 65 cents now.

Producers can help themselves by sending butter fat to the company that has a market for all their goods and always pay the top prices.

FIND NEW COPPER MINE SQUAW CREEK DISTRICT

A new copper property on Squaw Creek, 25 miles from Medford, is attracting considerable attention among mining men in the city. The 14 claims in the property are owned by J. Dixon and L. W. Ross, mining engineers who came to Medford about a year ago from Tonopah, Nevada. According to reliable reports the copper assays from 5 to 25 per cent, with considerable gold and silver as a by product. There are six veins of ore, ranging from 75 to 100 feet in width and three tunnels from 100 to 150 feet have been dug. At present there are six men at work on the property but the owners will put on a larger crew as soon as conditions warrant. Jacksonville will be the shipping point for the mine.

HILL INTERESTS MAY JUNK THE P. & E.

The P. & E. railroad from Medford to Butte Falls is going to be junked or sold in the very near future, says the Medford Tribune. This information from a reliable source was received in Medford yesterday.

A conference was recently held in St. Paul between Louis Hill and other directors of the Hill lines and at this conference it was decided to adopt the plan above. The P. & E. has been operated at a loss of approximately one thousand dollars a month for the last eight or nine years. Not being taken over by the government the owners of the road have decided to get rid of the property along with all other properties which are not paying operating expenses.

The only alternative to dismantling the road will be a sale probably to the large timber interests in the Butte Falls region. It is probable that rather than see their timber lands isolated entirely these timber owners would join together to secure the road and maintain operation, but as far as known no definite progress toward this end has been made as yet.

Some of the timber owners claim the Hill lines will not be allowed to junk the road and cut off the Butte Falls district from communication with the outside world, but others point to the fact that small roads in all parts of the country are being dismantled at the present time and sold for junk. It is probable the people of Butte Falls and southern Oregon will join in a vigorous protest against any move to tear up the P. & E. tracks and destroy communication between the two places.

URGES STRONG SUPPORT TO UNITED WAR DRIVE

Henry P. Davidson, chairman American Red Cross, following five weeks inspection trip of Red Cross in England, France and Italy, sent the following telegram calling upon Red Cross members throughout the United States to support the United War Work campaign. Davidson's telegram reads:

"Having spent nearly five weeks among our men along back of lines in England, France and Italy I have had opportunity to observe work of seven relief organizations. Certainly every chapter of the American Red Cross within the United States, and indeed in all other parts of the world, and all citizens of the United States, would contribute to work of the seven organizations if they could appreciate its importance. Our nearly two million men are far from home, in strange lands, and need as men never needed before just the things the seven organizations supply. I am, therefore, confident the entire Red Cross, conscious of its obligation, will cooperate with enthusiasm and zeal on the coming campaign.

Out o' Luck—and In Again!

THREE soldiers who had been cut off from canteen supplies for many days left the trenches for a brief respite.

"Oh, for a smoke!" said one.

"And something sweet—some chocolate or cookies!" said another.

"I need a tooth brush and some soap worse than anything," said the third.

They came into a desolated village. Not a soul was in sight.

"We're out o' luck!" they said. And then they turned a corner.

"There it is!" they cried. It was a sign on the only building left standing in the place. It was the canteen run by one of these seven recognized organizations.

"Who said we're out o' luck?" they shouted. "We're in again!"

More than 500 tons of supplies leave our ports every week under the direction of these seven agencies—just so that wherever the American soldier happens to be, he will find good cheer and comfort waiting for him. A splendid army of uniformed workers are now engaged in this work and General Pershing asks that at least a thousand more be sent each month.

Nothing is too much to do for those who are bearing the brunt of this war. What will you give for those who are giving everything?
