Lookout mountain, My little service flag has seven stars. Old gray mare. Oh Johnny, Oh. Only a memory of bygone days. Poor Mary Ann O'Shea. Sillysonnets. When you dream of old New Hampshire, I dream of Tennessee. When you find you can't forget. When you play in the game of love. When you're away I'm lonely. When you're five times sweet sixteen. When you wore a tulip and I wore a big red rose. Where is my mama. Where do we go from here, boys. Where rolls the Oregon. Where the blackeyed Susan's grow.

DRASTIC ARMISTIC TERMS

right to sweep up all mine fields and obstructions laid by Germany outside German territorial waters, and the position of these are to be indicated.

Access to Baltic Given

25. Freedom of access to and from the Baltic to be given to the naval and mercantile marines of the allied and associated powers. To secure this, the allies and the United States of America shall be empowered to occupy all German forts, fortifications, batteries and defense works of all kinds in all the entrances from the Cattagat into the Baltic and to sweep up all the mines and obstructions within and without German territorial waters without any question of neutrality being raised, and the positions of all such mines and obstructions are to be indicated.

26. The existing blockade conditions set up by the allies and associated powers are to remain unchanged and all German merchant ships found at sea are to remain liable to capture.

27. All naval aircraft are to be concentrated and immobilized in German bases to be specified by the allies and the United States of America.

All Stores to Be Taken

28. In evacuating the Belgian coasts and ports, Germany shall abandon all merchant ships, tugs, lighters, cranes and all other harbor materials, all materials for inland navigation, all aircraft and all materials and stores, all arms and armaments, and all stores and apparatus of all kinds.

29. All Black Sea ports are to be evacuated by Germany; all Russian war vessels of all description seized by Germany in the Baltic Sea are to be handed over to the allies and the United States of America; all neutral vessels seized are to be released; all warlike and other materials of all kinds seized in those ports are to be returned and German materials as specified in clause 28 are to be abandoned.

Merchant Vessels Restored

30. All merchant vessels in German hands belonging to the allied and associated powers are to be restored in ports to be specified by the allies and the United States of America without reciprocity.

31. No destruction of ships or of materials to be permitted before evacuation, surrender or restoration.

32. The German government will notify the neutral governments of the world, and particularly the governments of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, that all restrictions placed on the trading of their vessels with the allied and associated countries, whether by the German government or by private German interests and whether in return for specific concessions such as the export of shipbuilding materials or not, are immediately cancelled.

33. No transfers of German merchant shipping of any description to any neutral flag are to take place after signature of the armistice.

Duration of Armistice Given

34. The duration of the armistice is to be 30 days, with option to extend. During this period, on failure of execution of any of the above clauses, the armistice may be denounced by one of the contracting parties on 48 hours' previous notice.

35. The armistice to be accepted or refused by Germany within 72 hours of notification.

Late changes have been made in the armistice terms, as follows: Instead of 50,000 railroad cars to be surrendered in evacuated territory, the number is made 150,000.

On the other hand the number of machine guns to be delivered by the Germans is reduced from 30,000 to 25,000; the German troops in East Africa are permitted to evacuated instead of being required to surrender; provision is made for considering food needs in Germany in the taking of means of transportation, and a specific reference to the regulation of repatriation of German prisoners of war at the conclusion of peace is added.

In response to the German fear of anarchy in occupied Russia provinces after evacuation, the time of evacuation is changed from immediately to "as soon as the allies, taking into account the internal situation of these territories, shall decide that the time for this has come."

Territories which belonged to Austria-Hungary before the war are added to those which must be evacuated.

Another additional clause provides for an armistice commission to which Germans will be admitted to carry out details under decision of the victorious military heads and in accordance with appended notes, which were drafted during the conference between Marshal Foch and the German delegates.

The additions and changes close with this:

"This armistice has been signed November 11, 1918, at 5 o'clock French time.

"F. Foch, R. E. Weymss, Erzberger, A. Oberndorff, Winterfeld, Vanselow."

When Soft Answer Doesn't "Go."

A soft answer turns away wrath except when little Willie's schoolteacher asks Willie what he has in his desk that is causing so much amusement and little Willie's answer is so soft the teacher doesn't understand the first time. There is very little wrath turned away in this case.

Opportunity to Be Seized.

Caught On to Sailors' Trick.

If a man's hat blew overboard while leaving port many British skippers would turn back and delay sailing until the next day. It was an omen that one of the crew would be lost over the side during the trip. This sign, however, became discredited, as wily deckhands, desirous of another day ashore with their wives and families, contracted the habit of going aloft and assisting the wind to foretell disaster.

"Gusher's" Day Never Long.

There is a certain class of people with whom the gushing person will get a hearing, but this is merely because that particular class enjoys flattery, an art in which the gusher is particularly skillful. But, taken on the whole, human nature appreciates frankness and sincerity. And these two qualities give to the eye an expression which is not to be overlooked in the seeker after beauty.
