MORE FATAL THAN AUTO

Animal-Drawn Vehicles Cause Many Deaths in Massachusetts.

Animal-drawn vehicles caused more deaths in Massachusetts during the past year than did automobiles.

The annual report of the state industrial accident board, just issued, states that there were 43 fatal accidents, of which 23 were caused by vehicles drawn by horses and 20 by those self propelled.

Flirting Not Patriotic.

The flirt is not a patriot in these times, according to Doctor Crossdale, who addressed a gathering of the Seattle Women's Business club recently. "Young women should be taught," said Doctor Crossdale, "that the most valuable thing they can give to men in service is wholesome comradeship."

New Dollar-a-Year Man.

Knoxville city schools now have the proud distinction of having a "dollar-a-year" man in the person of A. W. Fisher, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A. He had agreed to serve as physical director for 16,000 pupils at that salary.

New Whale Catch Record.

Whaling operations in the north Pacific this year have broken all previous records since 1911. Almost 1,000 whales have been taken since the opening of the 1918 season.

Work to Cease Temporarily

At a called meeting of the executive board of the Red Cross held this afternoon a motion was passed unanimously that the Red Cross work room be closed and all meetings of Red Cross workers be discontinued during the influenza epidemic and advocating that there be no gatherings, social or otherwise, in the city.

Bousier Dies in France

Mrs. Lela Falvey, of Merlin, has received word from her mother, of Oakland, Cal., stating that Mrs. Falvey's brother, Clinton Bousier, had died in France on October 31 of bronchial pneumonia. Clinton Bousier was 22 years of age and had been in the service one year and three months and in France about ten months at the time of his death, leaving this country for France January 1, 1918.

Returns From Irrigation Congress

Mrs. John Dubuis returned this morning from Portland and will attend to her husband's business until his return in a couple of weeks. They went to Portland to attend the irrigation convention. During the session on Thursday Mrs. Dubuis was assistant to Secretary Fred N. Wallace. Saturday's Portland Telegram publishes a photo of Mrs. Dubuis with other prominent members of the congress. Fred N. Wallace, the former secretary, was elected chief engineer of the Tumalo irrigation project.

Dr. Jackson Locates

Dr. Bert R. Elliott has decided to seek a new location when he is released from the army and has disposed of his business, office and fixtures to Dr. C. E. Jackson, of Grant county. Dr. Jackson is a graduate in dentistry from the North Pacific college and has had an excellent training with years of experience as a general practitioner. Dr. Jackson is remodeling his office and expects to be ready for work in the near future.

WARDEN SAYS PRISON NOT FIT FOR HUMAN BEINGS

Salem, Jan. 12.—Vile, unsafe and insanitary conditions at the state penitentiary, with the lives of more than 300 convicts in constant jeopardy because of the rotten structure and its worse arrangement, Warden Stevens declares, will cause him to disavow all responsibility for the lives of the convicts and to put this responsibility squarely up to the legislature.

HELEN LISTER TAKES COLD WALK IN SLEEP

Helen Lister, the little 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lister, took a cold walk this morning about 3 o'clock. She was ill with influenza and had a fairly high fever. Being slightly troubled with somnambulism, she arose from her bed, quietly passed out the door, and proceeded to the courthouse, presumably in search of her father. After trying the doors of the courthouse and being unable to enter, she awoke Wm. Schroder, who was sleeping in the basement. Mr. Schroder immediately saw the trouble and knowing the girl's illness, telephoned to her parents. In the meantime putting her to bed and building a hot fire. Not until this time did the girl realize what she had done.

Mr. Lister thought he heard the door of their residence open and immediately started a search, in his bare feet. The cold compelled him to put on his shoes and to partly dress, when he continued the search and did not return to the house until about a half hour after Mr. Schroder had notified Mrs. Lister by telephone.

Dr. Loughridge, who was called, is of the opinion that the girl will not suffer severely from her experience, possibly due from her high fever. Mr. Lister reports this afternoon that she is getting along as well as could be expected. Her feet, however, are somewhat bruised from walking over the frozen ground.

TELEGRAPHED WITH HUGE TRIP HAMMER

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—An interesting story of enemy spy work is told by Frank H. Gaskill, assistant chief of the Protective League, which rendered service during the war.

The organization, Mr. Gaskill relates, was responsible for the interception of a man caught spelling out dangerous messages with a trip hammer he was operating in a big industrial plant on the Delaware river. The messages were first detected by a telegraph operator in Palmyra, N. J. He caught the hammer spelling out:

"Troop ship moving tomorrow morning."

The telegrapher notified the government authorities who caught the trip hammer operator signalling:

"Raid on fishing fleet complete surprise."

This was several hours before the news dispatches brought word of the sinking of a fishing fleet by German submarines off New England. The trip hammer expert was found to be a former telegraph operator. Mr. Gaskill said the mystery of where the operator got his news or to whom he was signalling was never solved.

BLINDED YANKS WILL RECEIVE SPECIAL CARE

Baltimore, Jan. 13.—Seventy-one of the 200 men of the American fighting forces who were blinded in the war now are being sheltered, treated or educated in the Red Cross institute for the blind at Baltimore. The institution has been designated as a United States general hospital and is called "Evergreen." Colonel James Bordley, director of the institute said that all the Americans blinded in the war would be brought here for a course of training as this was the only training school for the blind maintained by the government. He described the morale of the blinded men as wonderful.

The men are first treated in the hospital, says Colonel Bordley in a statement, after which they are taught to use a typewriter and read and write Braille—raised type for the blind. Then they receive special training to develop the sense of touch.

"After this fundamental hand training, the men are given special education to fit them for the calling in which they are interested and are qualified successfully to follow," says the statement.

"While a man is being prepared for this future career, the position for which he is being fitted is being secured. In a word, he is helped to help himself—he is encouraged to equip himself to be a good citizen."

Life's Greatest Handicap.
It is a sad thing to begin life with low conceptions of it. There is no misfortune comparable to a youth without a sense of nobility. Better be born blind than not to see the glory of life.—Theodore T. Munger.

"Secret Strings"

I CLAIM this is a bear of a film. The lightings and atmosphere are truly artistic, the handling and direction excellent; the cast, without exception, fitted their respective roles perfectly, keeping this human and real all the way, and the story certainly held your attention all the time you were watching it. The excellent combination of all the elements that go to make a good production, such as this, certainly don't come often and my hat is off to Metro for the way this has been put over.—Wid.
