MEDICAL TERMINOLOGY

The Journal of the American Medical Association tells of a proprietary poultice advertised as composed mainly of "the finest anhydrous and levigated argillaceous mineral."

A proprietor who charged $2.50 an ounce for salt and sugar dissolved in hydrant water, without telling the composition of his nostrum, might have got away with it grandly and gloriously, the Journal suggests, by giving this truthful account:

"My preparation is composed of minimal quantities of a member of the disaccharid carbohydrates, derived from the hexoses and capable of yielding two hexose molecules by hydrolysis, having as a general formula C-12 H-22 O-11, and crystallizing in monoclinic prisms, together with an interesting chemical combination of sodium and chlorine, which, in its natural state, forms anhydrous, cubical, or octahedral white crystals. These are dissolved in a colorless, limpid fluid compounded of hydrogen and oxygen."

Thus anyone may see how easy it is to impress the public by making use of the verbal resources of the medical profession. Medicines, patent and otherwise, seem mysterious because of the high-sounding names doctors give them.

Why not sweep away all that jargon, except for use in technical publications intended only for physicians' eyes, and name medical materials in plain English?

Employers of foreign help are becoming enthusiastic over English classes in their factories. "They find that loyalty to the company goes hand in hand with loyalty to the country; and in addition a large amount of money is saved when employees can read: 'Open on this end; 'Do not tear; 'Be careful to cut with scissors; 'Use no hooks,' etc."

The Scotchman who said it would take 30 years to end this war, "one for the peace conference and 29 to roll up the barbed wire," is an optimist. He forgot about the miles of red tape.

SERBIA RECOVERING RAPIDLY FROM WAR

Nish, Serbia, Jan. 6.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Three months of unremitting industry, unhampered by Bulgarian and Austrian depredations or interference, have enabled the Serbian people to secure a new hold on life.

Large quantities of wheat and other staples, which the shrewd Serbian farmers hid from the enemy, have reappeared. At the moment the most pressing needs seem to be clothing, shoes, fuel and agricultural implements.

Apparently there is plenty of money in the country, some of it having come from Austrian and German soldiers, who, it may be said to their credit, paid for most of the articles they took from the Serbians during their occupation. However, the Bulgarians, who requisitioned almost everything they required from the already straitened population, often paid nothing for what they took.

USE BONES AND TREES TO KEEP OUT THE FLU

Kokrine, Alaska, Jan. 3.—(By mail)—At Horner Hot springs, 28 miles from Ruby, on the Yukon river, water cress grows in the water throughout the winter.

The Indians here have planted evergreen trees on the trail at either end of the village to prevent the influenza from entering the village.

These "medicine" or "cahonish" trees are decorated with bones to increase their powers of prevention. Over some of the doors and along the front of the village other "hahonish" trees are placed for further protection against the epidemic.

Why are there no meat markets at the North Pole?

Because they never had a cook there!

MONTANA BECOMING GREAT GRAIN COUNTRY

Missoula, Mont., Feb. 14.—Nearly $15,000,000 worth of wheat, $29,000,000 worth of hay, $16,000,000 worth of oats and upwards of $164,000,000 worth of livestock, are some of the high lights of Montana's war record as shown in the report for last year on the state's crop and livestock wealth that has been made public by Guy Fitzpatrick, Montana field agent of the United States department of agriculture with headquarters at Missoula.

The combined value of all crop and livestock production in the state as estimated by Mr. Fitzpatrick, for 1918, is $281,864,000 as against $162,000,000 which Charles D. Greenfield, state commissioner of agriculture and publicity, estimated as the crop and livestock production of the state in 1917.

VILLA PROVES HE IS STILL IN THE BIG GAME

MAKES BLOODY RAID ON MINING DISTRICT AND SHOTS ALL SENTRIES

CAPTAIN IN COMMAND EXECUTED

Captures Americans and Orders Them to Pay Higher Wages, on Penalty of Death

Chihuahua City, Mex., Feb. 14.—Francisco Villa's recent raid on Santa Eulalia, 16 miles from here and the center of a thickly settled mining district, was typical of his raiding methods. Dashing into the mining town at dawn he shot the sentries of the little federal garrison, executed the captain in command, and made prisoners of the remaining 30 guards.

The Americans were taken to a tramway support where they were forced to witness the hanging of Cabello, former mayor of Santa Eulalia. As his body was swinging from the rope, Villa told the Americans he had not then decided whether or not he would hang them. He told them he would postpone his decision until later.
