THE refinement and delicacy of American women is our national pride. With active minds and warm hearts, our women feel most keenly the trials of "hard times" and they deserve all the best fruits of prosperity. Building up LOCAL PAY. ROLLS is the straight road to LOCAL PROSPERITY. And the women, themselves, who do so much buying for our homes, can most powerfully speed up this movement.

ENGINEERS HAD NO EASY TIME SAYS JOHNSTON

Private Lloyd B. Johnston, who returned home yesterday from France, was one of the American soldiers who experienced shell-shock. His case, however, was not serious and he has recovered.

Private Johnston entered the service on June 17 and was returned to New York from France on December 24. He was mustered out at Buffalo, having been a member of Co. D, 104th Engineers, 29th Division. He was on the Alsace front for about 70 days, at Altamont wood 10 days, and from there went to Dead Man's hill, near the Meuse river. He remained at that place for about a week, being in close proximity to the American artillery.

The 104th Engineers, says Private Johnston, had some heavy and rapid road building in the Argonne Wood, and often the roadbuilders were compelled to throw down their tools and use their guns. Every roadbuilder was armed with a rifle and was liberally supplied with ammunition. The fight in the Argonne, he states, was the worst battle he witnessed, but the American troops could not be checked for any length of time. He left the Argonne sector about the 6th of November and went to the city of Verdun, where he was stationed when the armistice was signed.

"During the week we were in the Argonne sector," says Private Johnston, "we had no time to wash or shave and were fairly covered with whiskers and crotches. Often we would no sooner get one part of the road repaired—over which to take the big guns—than a German shell would blow it up and we would have to do our work all over again. It was constant work and fighting. For about five months the engineers were within the shell-exploding area."

Private Johnston is only 23 years of age and is the son of C. H. and Annie Johnston of this city. He will remain in Grants Pass.

At Grants Pass he closed in on the consignment, but as usual the owner did not claim the goods, which consisted of 10 bottles of claret, two bottles of whiskey and one bottle of gin. It was taken back to Medford by Mr. McDonald.

GIRL "SHINING" HER WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 14.—"Sunny Jim" could not do it better!

This is the verdict of co-eds at the college whose shoes are shined regularly by "one of the bunch" who is working her way through school. A war price is not asked either—five cents is all.

This is just one of many ways in which young women are working their way through college. Originality has been shown by girls who have discovered that profits can be made through manicuring, hair dressing, fine laundering and sewing. Waiting on tables and cleaning halls is done by several girls.

J. Warren Kerrigan

"A Prisoner of the Pines"

Underlying the story of adventure in "Prisoners of the Pines" is the world-old story of ambition. It is the ambitious desire to possess a huge gold watch chain, and to make enough money that he may win the prettiest girl in the French-Canadian town in which he lives, that sends J. Warren Kerrigan, in his role of Hilaire Lafour, into a logging camp and away from his customary traps and hunting trails.
