GRUMBLING VOLCANOES THREATEN ERUPTION

San Francisco, Feb. 28.—The greatest activity in 45 years is reported from Kilauea, Hawaii, one of the world's greatest volcanoes, in a letter received here from L. W. de Vis-Norton, secretary of the Hawaiian Volcano Research association.

"I have returned from a prolonged stay at Kilauea volcano," he wrote. "The lava column is undergoing an unprecedented rise and is overflowing in all directions from the fire pit into the main crater. There now are five lakes instead of one. I have walked, with Professor T. A. Jagger Jr., the observatory director, over the whole of the area of the fire pit, on the surface of the lava column, and came away with a sort of bewildering kalaidoscope of white hot caverns, plashing fountains, and seething turmoil, impossible of connected description. It is a wonderful experience to stand at the side of a glowing cone ten feet high, and look down through a kind of window into a roaring inferno beneath, while the ground rocks and heaves under one's feet.

"As the lava will continue to rise until March 31, we are in for some very wonderful displays, and it is 45 years since we have had such intense activity at the crater. Mauna Loa, (on Hilo island) is becoming restless and four great columns of smoke and incandescent gas have been rising for some days, but the absence of earthquakes, and of night-glow from the summit, appear to indicate that no immediate eruption is to be feared."

GIVE DAIRY BARN ATTENTION
Good Ventilation and Drainage Should Be Provided—Good Water Supply is Necessary.

The dairy barn should have plenty of ventilation and a well drained concrete floor. Keeping the barn clean necessitates a good supply of water with pressure. The stanchion method of tying the cows aids greatly in comfort and cleanliness. Many dairy barns nowadays have an automatic device for watering the cows. The usual method is by a water cup which is filled automatically, and which is placed between the cows. A lid on the cup keeps the water from getting dirty and the cows soon get used to raising it. This keeps on hand a large supply of clean water which remains at practically the same temperature.

ENRICO CARUSO in "My Cousin"

ENRICO CARUSO

"My Cousin"

WHAT THEY SAY

N. Y. EVENING MAIL

"Gala," that favorite word in the opera chronicler's lexicon, will have to be borrowed for the description of Caruso's debut as a photoplay star. With skill and grace that were nothing short of amazing, the great tenor yesterday negotiated the distance from the operatic stage to the motion picture screen.

Caruso can act; yesterday's audience cheered his film work with enthusiasm that robbed that subject of any doubt. But above the revelation of his pantomimic talent there was projected through the camera lens the essence of personality that makes the man something more than just a great singer.

N. Y. AMERICAN

There are those who said that Caruso wouldn't. And there are those who said he would. The "Ayes" have it. The Metropolitan tenor makes a hit as a screen actor.

N. Y. EVENING POST

Enrico Caruso made his initial appearance on the screen at the Rivoli Theatre yesterday afternoon in a delightful photoplay entitled "My Cousin." Should the famous tenor lose his voice and fortune, he need never worry over the future, as he could command a great salary as a moving picture star, so successful is his first film. His acting and that of the supporting cast was of a high order.
