THE RIGHT MEDICINE

Many writers and people of national prominence, including President Wilson, have often asserted that the only successful way to meet bolshevism and stamp it out is to give the people an abundance of food and keep them well clothed; in fact the president said that was the only way Russia could be won over from the Red terror.

Recent developments have proven the assertion a fallacy. Bolshevism is not a condition produced by hunger; it is a condition of the mind—all the fault is in the head—and Ole Hanson of Seattle has shown the people how to meet the menace. Those Seattle Reds were not hungry. They had fat jobs. And over in Russia where looting, arson and wholesale murder are the daily pastimes with the Reds, there is an abundance of food among the bolshevik forces in most of the districts—food stolen from the helpless—there being so much butter in some localities that soldiers are using it for boot grease. The way to wipe out bolshevism is to give their teachings and acts pitiless publicity and follow Mayor Hanson's example. The disease is in the head, not the belly.

Seattle boiler-makers have given notice that they are going to demand a six-hour day. Thus the government ownership bug is cultivated and thrives under the delusion that the killing off of all private industry means short hours and fat salaries. The country will not forge ahead until this bug is killed and capital and labor concede that their interests are mutual.

Why should we negotiate peace terms with Germany? Speed the day when peace is enforced. If Foch had had his way, peace would have been signed up before the first of the present year.

Turkey is in the hands of the soviets. Here is one place where we wish the Reds the best of luck. Lenine, send your most expert throat-slitters south and let the work overtime on the Turk.

"SPORTING LIFE" IS THE COMPANION TO "WHIP"

Maurice Tourneur, famous through his production of "The Whip" for the screen, is also the creator of "Sporting Life." Mr. Tourneur, in fact, looks upon "Sporting Life" as a sort of companion play to "The Whip."

While the stories are distinctly different, both are Drury Lane melodramas. Cecil Raleigh, the author of "The Whip," is one of the authors of "Sporting Life," and both melodramas revolve around a famous race horse.

"I believe that 'Sporting Life' is the greater melodrama," says Mr. Tourneur. "It was probably the most popular melodrama ever staged at the famous Drury Lane, largely due to the fact of its extreme novelty of scene and situation. The thrills of 'Sporting Life' are absolutely unhackneyed. The big scene, in fact, is a reproduction of the epic of the English turf, the Derby."

ENGLAND'S GRANARIES BULGING WITH GRAIN

London, Mar. 20. (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The British farmer is suffering from the fact that the government had stacked the granaries of Great Britain with wheat in preparation for a great spring offensive against the Germans this year. Now that the offensive is not to be undertaken, the farmer is having difficulty in selling his crop of last year's wheat.

Explaining the situation at the annual dinner of the Land Union recently, Lord Ernle, formerly Robert E. Prothero, president of the board of agriculture, said, "I do not know that I am revealing a secret when I say that the government intended, if the war had not finished in November, to make its great 'push' about this time. In this month or next month we should have tried to place on the western front the whole force of the allies we could command and should have tried to bring the war to a conclusion this summer."

"For that purpose we wanted the absolute control of all the tonnage we could get. We wanted every ship to be free to bring over munitions, food and everything else the army required. For that reason we brought into this country a large quantity of food supplies. If our shipping was to be engaged in bringing over food to this country in the middle of that military push we should have been hampered.

"The consequence was that we filled the granaries of this country with wheat in order that we should be free for this great military enterprise. You cannot alter your plans in a few hours. The wheat is now being passed into consumption 'as quickly as possible.'"

BAD MEN'S NAMES WERE POSTED ON BIG STUMP

El Paso, Tex., Apr. 21.—When El Paso was an adobe frontier town and an irrigation ditch meandered down the main business street, the stump of a cottonwood tree stood at the intersection of the two unpaved streets. On this stump were posted notices for "bad men" of that day to leave town overnight or be lynched next day. The stump became historic because of the notices and is now preserved in the museum of the Pioneers' association.

AGED MINER INJURED WHEN RIFLE BURSTS

The bursting of a rifle in the hands of Charles Holmes, aged 16, seriously injured Joe Campbell, aged 61, and a widely known Coffee creek miner, who was brought here last night and admitted to Mercy hospital suffering from a severe wound in the head, says the Roseburg Review.

Ed Lough, who rushed the injured man to this city by automobile, stated today that young Holmes, an orphan lad who was making his home with Mr. Campbell, found an old 30-40 rifle about the house and loading several cartridges with black powder the lad retired to the front yard to "try out" the weapon. Placing the barrel along the edge of a cider press, the boy pulled the trigger and with a loud detonation the gun exploded. A piece of the breach about three inches in length and quite thick, flying like a shot, passed through a window pane, striking Mr. Campbell, who was in a stooping position in the act of washing dishes. He was hit under the right eye. Ranging downward the steel slug passed through the nostril and lodged in the roof of the mouth, inflicting a most painful and ghastly wound. Neighbors hearing the shot rushed to the scene and were horrified to find Mr. Campbell lying on the floor in a pool of his own blood, a gruesome hole in his head. A stretcher was immediately improvised, a doctor phoned for and the injured man was made as comfortable as possible for the four miles that must be traveled over a mountain trail to town of Tiller, where Mr. Lough was waiting with an automobile.

The unfortunate accident occurred at about 8:30 Sunday morning and by the time the injured man reached this city at 9:30 Sunday evening he was exceedingly weak from the loss of blood. It is feared that his wound, complicated by the general ill health, may prove fatal. Dr. K. L. Miller is in attendance.

Strangely enough young Holmes was practically uninjured. However, the explosion was so terrific that he was knocked down and rendered unconscious for a time. When he came to he was sitting on the porch of the Campbell home and remembered nothing of what had transpired.

Mr. Campbell has resided in the Coffee creek vicinity for the past 30 years, where he has been engaged in mining. So far as known he has no relatives.

WILSON SAYS

London, Apr. 23.—The peace conference have passed the Japanese problem along for future adjustment. The Italian difficulty is still pressing. Some suggest that the Italians may listen to a compromise, giving up their claims to Dalmatian hinterland if given Fiume on the Dalmatian coast and the coastal watershed.

Straighten Up

THE man or woman afflicted with backache, swollen muscles, stiff joints, rheumatic pains or other symptom of kidney trouble is entitled to sympathy and should have help.

Nature gives early warning of kidney trouble by puffiness under eyes, spots before the eyes, dry mouth, biliousness, weakness and pale, waxy, dry skin.

It is unwise to neglect the slightest symptom of kidney trouble. Give the kidneys the help they are calling for.

tone up weak, inactive, sluggish kidneys and help rid the body of poisons. With kidneys and bladder properly functioning, appetite is restored, refreshing sleep is possible and health, strength and energy come as a natural result.

C. F. Reynolds, Elmira, N.Y., writes: "Three months ago I was sick in bed with kidney trouble. My back ached so severely I could not get up. We read of Foley Kidney Pills so I sent for some and commenced taking them. In a few days I was up out of bed and upon keeping the treatment up for some time I was able to go to work. Since then I have had no more back-aches and no trouble with my kidneys."
