DAIRY FACTS

CHURN BUTTER ONLY

Cream alone should be churned. It may be skimmed as soon as it rises or may be separated by a mechanical separator. The latter plan is the more efficient, and though requiring a considerable initial outlay often will be profitable. The cream should be set aside in a clean place by separate milkings.

BALANCED RATION FOR COWS

Important to Furnish Various Nutrients in Proportion the Animal Needs Them.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is probably well to refer to the composition of feedstuffs as it relates to economical feeding of the dairy cow. The cow takes into her digestive system feeds which she utilizes for the production of body tissues, heating the body, performing bodily functions, such as digesting feed, moving from place to place, and for milk production. It is sufficient to say that the constituents or compounds and the relative quantities necessary for these operations have been determined; that is, we know that milk contains protein and energy or heat-producing constituents, the protein being represented by the casein and albumin and the energy and heat-producing constituents by the fat and sugar. In addition to the constituents or compounds necessary for the production of milk, she also must have the constituents necessary for performing the other functions mentioned. These, for convenience, have been classified into proteins, carbohydrates, and fats. Fats perform much the same functions as carbohydrates and are worth for production practically two and one-fourth times as much per pound as carbohydrates, and in the balancing of a ration are usually classed with them. This brings us to a definition of a "balanced ration," which is a ration containing these various nutrients in the proportion the cow needs them.

The economical importance of a balanced ration is evident. The cow can use only certain elements or compounds in certain proportions; consequently, if the ration supplies an excessive amount of any one, the excess is liable to be wasted. Not only is this true, but as the cow has to assimilate it even though she cannot use it, her capacity for production is reduced.

In making a ration, cost is one of the important factors. The best practice is to compound a grain mixture so that it will balance with the home-grown roughage. With this in mind, the separate grains should be selected to supply the necessary nutrients at the lowest possible cost. For this, not only the price per hundred pounds but also the relative cost of each constituent, especially protein, must be considered. For example, to determine the cost of a pound of digestible protein in a given feed divide the price of 100 pounds by the per cent of digestible protein in the feed. If this calculation is made for several feeds, the relative cost of protein in each will be apparent. Then the feeds that furnish protein at the least cost can be selected. The same can be done to determine the cost of the carbohydrates and fat, which are the heat-making or energy-producing part of the feed.

HOPPER IS BIG LABOR SAVER

Satisfactory Growth Secured by Giving Fowls Access to Balanced Ration of Grain.

A hopper capable of holding a large quantity of feed is a great labor saver. By allowing the birds access to its contents a satisfactory growth is obtained, and an opportunity is given them to balance the grain rations fed. This hopper should be large enough to hold several bushels of feed, sufficient for one or two weeks.

"MY COUNTRY" SOBS GOMPERS AS HE LANDS

"Victory Loan Forerunner of Happier State of Society," Declares Labor Head.

The press dispatches the other day carried a story telling of the return home of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, from Europe. The dispatch said:

"When Gompers set foot on American soil he broke down, sobbing, 'My country, my country.'"

It was a sincere display of emotion. Gompers was feeling beneath his feet the soil of the country that gave him asylum—the soil of a country that gave him opportunity to rise through his own unaided efforts from a humble cigar maker to the greatest labor leader in the world.

Gompers is behind the Victory Liberty Loan. He is behind it because it is for America. Here is what he says of it:

"Our great republic, the home of democracy, the land of the brave and the free, again finds it necessary to appeal to all our people for their loyal and patriotic support in launching and carrying to a successful conclusion the Victory Loan Campaign."

"No one familiar with the vast undertaking our nation has just completed with triumph and victory will question in any way the need and necessity of the Victory Loan."

"The Victory Loan is the forerunner of a happier state of society, a guarantee of peace and tranquility of the world, the hope of a better day and a brighter light. I heartily join with my fellow-citizens in urging every worker and every organization of workers to take part in this splendid effort to finance our democracy's peace with the wealth and savings of all our people."

"Invest your savings made safe by the victory of our arms in the Victory Loan."

HELP—WOMEN!

These are the last days of the Victory Loan—the last days of the last Liberty Loan. Yet there are some among us who have not seen the way of duty, whose ears have not heard the call of America.

Herein lies a great opportunity for women workers in the Loan—to search these out, to make their eyes see, and to make their ears hear. The argument of a sweet, noble woman is unanswerable.

Carter Glass, secretary of the treasury, says of woman's work in the Loan:

"Having demonstrated what they could do in time of war, the women of America have been quick to understand that the cessation of hostilities did not end the obligations incurred in actual warfare. It is with confidence that the Government asks every woman of the nation to become a teacher in the Victory Liberty Loan."

No man can refuse to take his share of the Victory Loan when a real woman looks him in the eye and says: "Your mother would want you to"
