Fence Built of Trees.
 So many years ago that nobody knows when it was, nor who was the labor-saving genius who did it, a fence was built in Michigan by forcing split boards between saplings. Then the trees grew.

They kept growing until today they are of immense size and deeply imbedded in them are the ends of those old rails. It is impossible to tell how far they extend into the tree trunks. They are weathered, yet they ring as true under a hammer as though just hewn.

If happened that the trees formed a boundary line for one of the old tracts. The rails were arranged five feet, and the growth of the trees around their ends has created one of the most substantial fences imaginable.

BELGIAN HEROES RE-ENTER NAMUR

No Belgian troops fought more heroically to stem the German onrush in the autumn of 1914 than did the Thirteenth regiment of the line of the Belgian army at Namur. This unusual photograph shows the survivors of that famous regiment re-entering the city of Namur in triumph. They were given a great welcome by the inhabitants. The cyclists covered with flowers are shown on the march through the city.

IMPROVEMENT ON SCRUB COW

Many Could Be Made Money Makers by Right Kind of Feed and Treatment in Winter.
 (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 Many so-called scrub cows, if freshened in the fall and given the right kind of feed and treatment during the winter before coming on grass for the latter part of their lactation period, would prove to be money makers. This seems to be supported fully by records of cow-testing associations.
