MONEY ON THE FARM

Money, actual cold hard cash, is about as useful on a farm as a good disc harrow or a reaper and binder would be in a bank. Old Si Tuttle used to tell a tale about a farmer of the old school who always kept several thousand dollars around the house because it "might come in handy some day."

A bushel of seed corn is no earthly use to anybody if it is simply put in a bag and stowed away. To get results out of that seed it must be put where it will work—where it can grow.

You can't get results out of money by keeping it in your pocket, in a stocking, in a wallet, or in a bed. Money will work and money will grow but it will only work and grow when it is put in the proper place.

Money lying around the farm is a total loss. You can't spend it in the woodlot or the south meadow. Put it to work—Buy War Savings Stamps.

STEALING THE BACON

The Germans are up to their old tricks. Army officials have been finding American bacon in Germany districts where it could hardly have been procured in a legitimate manner. They have been discovering plots for the stealing of food from France and the American army.

One of the findings of the investigators was a German freight car with a false top concealing thousands of cigars. Other thousands were found at another time covered with a coat in a locomotive tender.

con and cigars, if only they can get away with it.

It will be the job of the allies for the next 40 years to see how low they can reduce the percentage of getting away with it.

The automobile tourists catch more of the spirit—as well as more dust—of the west than those who travel by train. It does those city chaps good to get out once in a while and chew a little old fashioned country dust, unadulterated by gas and oil.

A new way has been found to get rid of undesirable aliens. Thousands of them are returning to the old country because they can no longer get their booze in Uncle Sam's domain. The law is doubly good.

A. CARNEGIE PASSES

later extended similar benefactions to several foreign countries.

One of his latest and greatest ideals was the abolition of war, a hope that he cherished in the face of international conflicts. He gave $10,000,000 toward an international peace fund, and built the peace palace at The Hague, which was dedicated in 1913. He gave $750,000 for the bureau of American republics at Washington.

Labor, capital and business ability are the three legs of a three-legged stool; neither is first, neither is second, neither is third; there is no precedence, all being equally necessary. He who would sow discord among the three is an enemy to all.

"The day is coming, and already we see it dawn, in which the man-who dies possessed of millions of available wealth which was free and in his hands ready to be distributed, will die disgraced."

And along the same line he said: "Among the saddest of all spectacles to me is that of an elderly man occupying his last years grasping for more dollars."

There are two Carnegie "gifts" which will be generally forgotten, since they were never accepted. It was reported that he anti-imperialism prompted him to offer $25,000,000 to the United States government if it would turn over the Philippines to the natives for self-government.

ELSIE FERGUSON IN "THE MARRIAGE PRICE"

Elsie Ferguson the beautiful and talented Artcraft star was the featured attraction at the Joy theater last night in her latest photo play, "The Marriage Price."

Adapted from Griswold Wheeler's story of the same name it tells of the career of Helen Tremaine, a beautiful society girl, suddenly reduced from the greatest wealth to the most abject poverty.

The path that Helen chooses is far from the right one at first. Among her suitors she is unable to distinguish the dross from the gold and she only has it revealed to her after a sequence of highly entertaining episodes have been developed.
