GAVE LIFE FOR HONEY

Bear, Through Love of That Sweet, Came to Untimely End.

Because a 200-pound bear had a decided penchant for honey he came to an untimely end at the hands of Pierce Kitchen and William Keller of Benton, Pa. Kitchen made the discovery the other morning that during the night bruin had been around and overturned a number of his beehives and stolen the honey.

With gun loaded Kitchen kept watch one night, but failed to locate the bear. Morning, however, disclosed the fact that the visitation had been made and two more hives toppled over and the honey stolen. Kitchen and Keller got on the job early the next night and about 8:30 o'clock were rewarded with the sight of bruin lumbering toward the hives. Keller pumped six loads from a repeating rifle into him and Kitchen finished him off with a load of buckshot. William Temple, caretaker of a large herd of heifers in the North mountain, killed a 300-pound bear when he came upon the animal feeding upon the carcass of a heifer.

FOE TO RESUME TRADE

Germans Perfect Plans for Regaining Pre-War Prestige.

Germany is preparing for a super-human attempt to regain her former industrial and economic prestige, according to Edward C. Worden, an American who recently returned from German industrial centers.

Mr. Worden stated that the Germans are in a position to resume manufacturing as soon as raw materials can be obtained. Since the armistice, the plants have undergone a thorough overhauling.

ALASKA SALMON PACK WAS 6,605,835 CASES

Valued at $51,041,949—Total Investment for the 135 Canneries $65,901,397.

Complete reports from all the salmon canneries in Alaska show a total pack last season of 6,605,835 cases of all species of salmon, weighing 430,000,000 pounds, and valued at $51,041,949.

Other details of the report disclose a total investment of $65,901,397 in an aggregate of 135 canneries. Persons employed locally in the industry numbered 26,502. The detailed increases over the preceding season are approximately 36 per cent in investment, 14 per cent in number of canneries, 13 per cent in number of persons employed, 31 per cent in output, and 30 per cent in value of product.

The ratio of increase in the output and its value, as compared with the increase over the preceding season in investment, number of canneries operated, and number of persons employed, indicate a marked decrease in the average net profits of the industry.

The output of king salmon shows a marked decrease, which is explained by the greatly increased demand for these fish in a mild-cured condition.

The figures show greatly increased packs of coho, chum and humpback salmon in central and western Alaska, and of chum salmon in southwestern Alaska. The pack of red salmon shows a slight increase for the whole territory, but a decided falling off in central Alaska, where the largest packs of red salmon are usually made.

Confectionery of Ancient Egypt

The invention of confectionery, an English writer guesses, is due to Noah, who "first bit on the idea of boiling down the starch of the wheat and the juice of the grape. The result was a paste, said to be the original of our present day Turkish delight." Among the ancient Egyptians whole fruits, particularly figs and dates, were used for flavoring purposes, the latter especially for preserves and cakes. In old tombs date sweetmeats have been found, also records of honey jellies. The making of confectionery, in fact, goes back 3,400 years, proof of which is to be found on the walls of Egyptian tombs.

Ancient Battle Standards.

It is probable that the first flag was carried by the Saracens in their battles with the Crusaders, the latter adopting the idea, which thus spread over Europe. Long before that there had been national standards, however, as the ancient Egyptians carried before their hosts the figure of a sacred animal on a spear. A stuffed cat impaled on a stick was the forerunner of the banners now used. In the days of the old Persian empire a blacksmith's apron was carried aloft at the head of the army, while the standard of the Turks was a horse's tail.
