KILLS HIS PARTNER

The jury convened for the request of Henry Miller, who was shot and killed last Sunday morning near Reedsport by John W. DeVoe, his hunting companion, brought in a verdict of accidental death, states Coroner Ritter, who has returned from the scene of the tragedy.

Every evidence pointed to the shooting as entirely accidental, says Mr. Ritter, and the story told by young DeVoe was so straightforward and convincing that there was never a doubt in the minds of the jurors as to the nature of the accident. According to Mr. DeVoe, he, with Henry Miller, went out Saturday evening to hunt deer. In the middle of the next morning, he continued, they separated. Miller was to stay at a certain spot on Dean's mountain, on which they were hunting, until DeVoe should join him. DeVoe left Miller at that spot and started away. A little later he saw a big buck and shot at it. He thinks the bullet must have grazed the deer this first shot, for the buck shook his head and started to run. He shot three more times in rapid succession, and then ran to the place where the deer had been, only to find the dead body of his hunting companion. The deer, which he was certain would be found dead at or near that place, has never been located. He did not mistake Miller for the deer, for, states Mr. Ritter, the man could not have possibly been seen from where DeVoe fired the shots. He was so completely concealed by the underbrush that it was impossible that DeVoe could have seen him at all, either moving or standing still.—Roseburg News.

CHIGGER GRASS ENTERS
BRAIN AND KILLS HORSE

Dr. R. J. Bestul reports the death of a horse which occurred in rather a freak manner this week. The animal belonged to Sam Stewart, residing about five miles from this city. The doctor states that the horse for the past few weeks would not keep the road, acted foolish, and at times would stop eating rather suddenly.

Finally the animal died and Dr. Bestul went to the farm yesterday and held an autopsy. He found that the horse had been eating chigger, or jigger grass, and the sharp heads and worked their way up through the roof of the animal's mouth, through the flesh and solid bone, and into the brain. This resulted in an abscess, which was the cause of death. The doctor states that he could see where the sharp barbs had worked their way through the bone.
