BUSINESS MEN ON LAST LAP

construction in the county and asked that Portland use her influence in securing better highways for the southwestern part of the state and especially one leading to the Marble Hills.

W. L. Thompson, formerly a member of the state highway commission, gave some valuable hints on securing needed highways. He cited the fact that those districts which in the past have secured needed roads were the ones who repeatedly sent delegations to consult with the state highway commission.

After a few remarks by Geo. L. Lawrence, touching on business matters and urging better cooperation by the way stating that Portland stood ready to assist Southern Oregon in all matters pertaining to the general welfare of the state—H. C. Huntington, president of the Associated Industries of Oregon, announced the winners in the window display contest.

The Golden Rule Store won first prize, the Rochdale Store second prize, and the Peerless Clothing Co., third. Those who received honorable mention were: Helmer's Furniture Store, Demaray's Drug Store, Basket Grocery, Sabin's Drug Store, Holman's Furniture Store, Letcher's Jewelry Store, Pardee's Grocery and Kinney & Truax.

Frank Bramwell was called upon to tell a fish story and he chose one of the visitors for his victim. After narrating how this certain guest had bravely glided out into the swirling waters of the Rogue in a boat, in search of a wily steelhead, and had finally landed a "big one" after an exciting battle, he produced the fish to substantiate his story.

Much was added to the evening's entertainment by splendid music from an orchestra, composed of Mrs. Sabin at the piano, F. H. Applehoff, violin, Joe Wharton, clarinet, Bert Barnes, cello, Don Barnes, second violin, and Sam Ellis, viola.

Mrs. A. S. Barnes, James Lium and A. K. Cass favored the audience with beautiful solos and needless to say that each one received an encore. Mr. Cass's last song, during which Old Glory was brought into the room by one of the ladies, fairly brought down the house.

C. C. Chapman, of the Oregon Voter, was called upon for a speech, but he sensed a restlessness among those who were waiting for the dance music to begin, and instantly made a motion that all adjourn to the ball room, and the motion was carried with a rush. The dance was a very enjoyable one, a large crowd being in attendance. The jazz music was excellent and as an added attraction punch was served free during the entire evening.

In conclusion, the Portland business men's visit to Southern Oregon was a success, in that it created a better feeling between the north and south parts of the state, which it is hoped will lead to united cooperation in all undertakings for the state's advancement. Portland has shown her willingness to work hand in hand with the people of Southern Oregon. It is now up to Southern Oregon to extend her hand and say to Portland, "Let us build a great state."

PREACHER STANDS UP FOR MANLY SPORTS

London, Oct. 18.—Cries of approval greeted a defense of prize fighting made by the Rev. R. J. Anderson at the annual meeting the other day of the Cheshire Free Church councils. "Some people," he said "have been worrying lately over boxing and have been holding prayer meetings to try to put a stop to it. The church must learn to understand the needs of men—their physical and mental as well as spiritual needs. We must encourage fellowship and recreation. We must realize that we should treat men and women as human and alive and beings who live in the open and not in the convent."

will be deposited in the receptacle of the monument in Washington, and a like list of donors will also be deposited in the National Library in Washington city, in which the name, but not amount, contributed, will forever be a matter of record.

An important feature in the work of collecting the funds in Oregon for these memorials, and a matter which brings many inquiries is that every penny contributed for that purpose goes into the memorials themselves. Nothing is held out for expenses.
