NEWSPAPER IS FARMER'S TRAVELING SALESMAN

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Dec. 9.—The short course on using the home newspaper to sell farm produce, which will be offered at O. A. C. Farmers' Week, December 29 to January 3, is receiving widespread attention from the farmers and valuable support by the newspapers over the state.

"The value of such a course to the farmers cannot be emphasized too strongly," says Homer L. Roberts, formerly a news writer for the Malheur Enterprise, and now a student in industrial journalism. "The home press offers the quickest and cheapest route to a reasonable market. The newspaper is the farmer's traveling salesman."

"I know of a farmer who had a new strain of wheat peculiarly adapted to his locality, which he desired to introduce to his neighbors. He advertised, and the supply of seed was quickly exhausted. The stockman who raises purebred stock will find that the home paper will place him in touch with just the buyer with whom he wants to deal."

Fruit growers will find these advertising lectures of immense practical value, Mr. Roberts predicts. He has seen the plan worked out in the Brogan peach section of Malheur county. The grower advertises his fruit, prices and the time the fruit will be ready, with the result that much of the crop is sold in his own neighborhood.

The art of writing ads that sell, preparing copy for the press, and the distinction between reader and display advertising, are points which will be considered in the course of farm advertising which will be conducted by C. J. McIntosh, of the department of industrial journalism.

THE KEWPIES XMAS TREE
 O' dear me I am so happy
 'Cause Santa has found the way
 He has lit right here amongst us
 I know he has come to stay.
 Me, being Queen of the Kewpies
 I must stand close by his side
 The rest of you must act pretty.
 'Cause in you we take great pride.
 I hope that all little children
 Every little girl and boy,
 Will wak right up here and see us,
 For I am just ful of joy.
 'Merry Xmas,' 'aHappy New Year.'
 We must each sink out, with glee,
 When children come up to see us,
 And look at our Xmas tree.

NIGHT TIME IS QUIET IN MEXICAN CAPITOL

Mexico City, Dec. 9.—Mexico City is a quiet place after dark. Business of practically every sort stops promptly at 7 o'clock at night when doors are bolted and heavy steel curtains are drawn over the entire front of the building. Avenida Francisco Madero, the main thoroughfare, dimly lighted at the best, looks like a blind alley after midnight, the theater crowds hurry home. There is but little after-theater life here. Saturday night offers an exception for two cafes are open then for dancing and drinking with foreigners for the most part the patrons.

The human owls of the United States who turn night into day, will find it difficult to believe that Mexico City which has a population approximately of 1,000,000 has no all-night restaurants and that after 2 o'clock in the morning it is next to impossible to buy so much as a cup of coffee. The "Open Day and Night" cafe is unknown here and early risers or late retires face the alternative of carrying a pocket lunch or of finding one of the two outdoor lunch stands that cater to that distinctive class of night workmen, the newspaper printer. These two "pueblitos," as they are called, consist merely of makeshift tents which cover a few boards serving as tables and chairs. They open for business at 3 o'clock a. m. and by 7 o'clock are hauled down. Here one may buy coffee, tamales, tortillas and meat highly flavoured with chili.

Mexico City is not what might be termed a "good restaurant town." Although the capital of the republic it is not as well supplied with places to eat as Vera Cruz which has only one-twenty-fifth the population. The commercial lunch is almost unknown here for the reason that all business closes from 1 o'clock to 3 o'clock p. m. and everyone that has a home goes to it for the midday meal which is the heaviest of the day.

Ford
 THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Sedan, with electric self-starting and lighting system and demountable rims with 3 1/2-inch tires front and rear, for every day in the year has no equal as a family car. Just as popular on the farm as it is in the city. In fact, it fits the family demands in every vocation of life. Large, roomy seats, finely upholstered, plate glass windows make it an open car in pleasant weather, while in rainy and inclement weather it becomes a closed car, dust-proof and rain-proof. It is not only comfortable, but really cozy, and above all, economical in operation and maintenance, and has all the Ford merits of strength and durability.
