THE REASON FOR THE NEWS PRINT SHORTAGE

When you read the mammoth Sunday edition of some large city daily paper, do you ever pause to think that the size of that edition is one of the leading factors in the shortage of news print paper? It is quite so. The publishers of many of these big city dailies are greedy hogs.

They know that it is extremely difficult for the country press to secure sufficient print paper with which to put out their limited weekly editions. They know that if the country publisher cannot secure the necessary paper stock he must go to the wall.

Yet Sunday after Sunday they continue to issue editions so large that it becomes a physical impossibility to read them. Section after section is placed in the Sunday papers that contains nothing of a news element, and but little of any practical value whatever. Usually it is composed largely of sickening slush which a schoolboy would be ashamed to father. It is a useless waste of material which is already difficult to obtain. It reminds one of the hogs that root the bucket over in their greedy effort to get all of the slop.

Some of the city dailies have Sunday circulation as high as 400,000. One useless eight-page section omitted from such an edition would furnish the news print necessary for a week's supply for at least 200 country newspapers. One such section omitted from the New York and Chicago dailies Sunday alone would supply over 2,000 country papers.

One section omitted from these papers would hardly be missed. It would create no hardship whatever. The failure of 2,000 country papers to make their appearance on press day would create a furore.

The big daily newspapers would have the people believe that the shortage of newsprint is due to under production. As a matter of actual fact, it is due in great part to the hogghishness of the Sunday dailies.

Congress may not realize it, but the thousands and thousands of country editors have their eyes glued on Washington. They are waiting to see what Washington is going to do about it.

Congress can aid the situation very materially by placing a reasonable limit on the size of Sunday papers, varying according to population.

This will not infringe upon the legitimate rights of daily papers. It will protect the rights of the country press.

Already many country papers have suspended publication because they could not secure the paper necessary to print their editions. In the face of such conditions, to permit the daily news print to continue his present practice will inflict incalculable damage upon the country press.

MONTANA TRAPPERS ARE VIOLATING LAW

Missoula, Mont., Feb. 28.—That Montana trappers, given permission to work in the forests just across the Idaho line, are violating the game laws, is the charge of two officers who returned recently from a long chase on snowshoes, after suspects.

They followed one trapper several days and came upon a camp about which, they declare, chunks of moose meat lay. No trace of the occupants was found, however.

J. H. Clark, deputy supervisor of the Bitter Root national forest, and Andrew Hjort, a deputy game warden from Idaho, were the officers on the alleged poachers' trail. They have not given up hope of landing some of the game killers.
