

In 2000 Counties This Month

The Forces of the Church of Christ Will Gather To Face the Facts

IN 2000 counties in the United States the pastors and laymen of 30 great denominations will meet in conference this month.

It is the kind of conference that generals hold before a critical engagement; that business men hold before entering a new market. A conference of judgment, not emotion; a clear-eyed facing of the facts.

A Survey that Business Men Must Admire

For more than a year hundreds of workers have been quietly engaged in making a scientific survey of the mission fields, and of America county by county.

The facts developed are startling. No such picture of America's religious situation has ever before been drawn.

On the basis of these surveys thirty Protestant denominations are uniting in a

Nation Wide Cooperative Campaign

Each of the thirty denominations has its own "Forward Movement" organized and officered. The Interchurch World Movement is the clearing house for all of these.

It is the agency which the churches have created to avoid duplication, to foster cooperation and make sure that every man and dollar render the utmost service possible.

The month of April will be devoted to making the facts of the survey known to America; in the week of April 25th-May 2nd, will come a united simultaneous financial campaign.

Whether You Are Inside the Church or Out

To every man and every woman who loves his country, these 2000 county conferences are vitally important.

For the facts developed by this great survey show vividly what forces are at work in America—and what kind of a country this country is to be.

See that the pastor of your church appoints delegates. Any pastor can tell you the conference place and date. Or write direct to the

TORNADO SWEPTS OUTSKIRTS OF CHICAGO

This telegraphed picture shows only one of the countless devastation scenes left by the terrific wind which swept the suburbs west of Chicago Sunday afternoon. Coming like a thunderbolt and unannounced, the tornado crushed everything in its path. A four story building was thrown into the cellar of another that had just left its foundation. Automobiles and street cars were overturned and tossed around like toys. Business blocks as well as smaller structures were whipped into the air, crushed into bits and strewn over the surrounding country. A church in which a minister had just finished a benediction in which he said, "We must always be prepared since we know not when our time is coming" was wrecked, killing two and injuring a score of others. The above "picture by wire" shows the home partially wrecked by the storm, flames finishing the work of destruction, of Fred Blackford, 701 N. 16th, Melrose Park, Illinois. The tornado had just passed when this picture was snapped. Many of the buildings in this vicinity were completely swept away leaving only the bare holes within their foundations.

WATER SPOUT SEEN

INLAND AT TAHITI

Papeete, Tahiti, Apr. 3.—While water spouts are fairly prevalent in the South Seas especially during the rainy season, it is seldom that one comes inland. On January 23 one of these swept over the barrier reef into Papeete harbor and struck the steamer wharf, carrying away a part of the roof of the sheds. The water spout broke up after whirling about the roofing-iron for a minute or two.

DIPLOMATIC LETTERS SENT

of gold for him, and to give him the satisfaction of feeling that his dignity and reputation in the face of the world were safe.

"In other words, where I have had to take part of the kernel from him, I have been anxious that he should have all the shell possible, and have that shell painted any way he wished. At the same time I have had to speak with express emphasis to him on more than one occasion; and on one occasion (that of Venezuela) have had to make a display of force and to convince him definitely that I would use the force if necessary."

Mr. Bishop declares that in spite of the Venezuela incident of December, 1902, which must have been "a humiliating check," the former emperor cherished no resentment and subsequently wrote Roosevelt the most friendly letters. He also sent the colonel a number of photographs showing himself and Roosevelt astride magnificent horses at a manoeuvre of the German army. On the autographed pictures he had written: "The Colonel of the Rough Riders lecturing the Chief of the German Army." "Total agreement about the general maxims of life and policy between America and Germany." "On the Muhlberg, a grave discussion; Carnegie look out!" and "The Chief of the German Army Thanking the Colonel of the Rough Riders for the honor of inspecting his troops." Mr. Carnegie, by the way, once had credited a rumor that Germany was building a strong fleet to attack the United States.

A letter he wrote to Edward VII of England on April 25, 1906, contains a reference to the Algeiras conference of that year, an international parley which at the time was said to have averted a general European war. The biographer states that "the secret history of this conference, which stands revealed in Roosevelt's letters and which is too long for publication in the magazine conference and which is far too long for publication in the magazine, shows conclusively that it was arranged by Roosevelt at the insistent request of the Kaiser that Roosevelt drew up the terms of settlement which were adopted, and that he fairly compelled the Kaiser to give his unwilling consent to them."

Roosevelt's impatience with the ceremonies and etiquette of courts found vigorous expression, Mr. Bishop says, when he exclaimed, after describing his experiences with potentates of various kingdoms at the funeral of King Edward, at which he represented the United States: "I felt if I met another King I should bite him!" Amused and irritated by the fussy anxiety displayed by the ruler of a petty kingdom about his prerogatives and the precedence to which he was entitled, Roosevelt at another time said, drawing upon his bird lore for a simile: "He is nothing but a twittering wagtail."

Writing again to King Edward of England, for whom he professed a high regard, he said in 1908: "I feel very strongly that the real interests of the English-speaking peoples are one, alike in the Atlantic and the Pacific; and that, while scrupulously careful neither to insult nor to injure others we should yet make it evident that we are ready and able to hold our own."

This prevents rim cuts and blow outs just above the rim.

Thousands of Federal users are proving this every day.

Federals could be economizing for you, but not unless you have them on your car. Let us tell you more about Federal Tires and why they save money.
