COUNTY CONFERENCE SHOWS WORLD'S NEED

Foreign Plague Spots Threaten America, Say I. W. M. Speakers.

During the county conference held in this city by the Interchurch World Movement, much time was devoted to results of the home and foreign surveys made during the last two years. For these surveys, according to speakers at the conference, the Interchurch World Movement was able to call to the work a larger staff of competent investigators than ever before has been used for such an undertaking. In addition to hundreds of men specially qualified and trained for the work, the Movement was in a position to call on missionaries of all the Protestant denominations associated with it, in every part of the globe.

The facts secured in the world surveys were declared startling by the speakers at the county conference, and were used to show the vital need for the greatly increased missionary effort which is planned by the Christian bodies associated with the Interchurch World Movement.

DR. A. J. CULLEN

District Superintendent of Congregational Extension Society, now touring Oregon for the Interchurch World Movement.

"Not alone is the need for increased missionary activity necessary for the well-being of foreign lands," declared the team leader at the conference here. "Leprosy, anthrax—a whole Pandora's boxful of ills—have been let loose in Asia and Africa, and as long as they race unchecked the Pacific Coast nor any other part of our own country will be safe."

"With improved methods of transportation yearly making the world smaller, we in the United States are coming into uncomfortable proximity with the most virulent and the most deadly diseases known to man. And you can't put an embargo on disease. You can bar the Oriental or the Hindu or the savage African himself, but his diseases will elude the sharpest of port officials. For its own protection, if for no other reason, the West must teach the East what it knows concerning the fighting and curing of disease."

Already the activities of medical missionaries, according to conference speakers, have been of great good. Much work has been faithfully and scientifically done, many sacrifices made and many perils faced, since the first medical missionary started work in India 100 years ago.

REV. GEORGE H. YOUNG

Baptist pastor, long known in Oregon, now speaking for Interchurch World Movement.

"To mark the centenary of medical missions the Evangelical churches of America are planning a year's campaign to increase the number of medical missionaries in foreign fields. According to the budget of the churches and organizations cooperating in the Interchurch World Movement no less than 655 medical missionaries are wanted by the various mission boards for work during the coming year."

IGNORANCE ISLAM'S ALLY

That Christian education can best provide the leadership which will regenerate North Africa is the finding of the Interchurch survey, according to speakers at the county conference here. Ignorance has always been and is Islam's strongest ally. Not more than five persons in every hundred of North Africa's population can read or write.
