The Silk Fashion in India.

There are 1,000,000 people in India engaged in the production of silk. Caterpillars and moths of the mulberry silk industry of India are entirely domesticated creatures. The Indians collect the cocoons spun by caterpillars and allow them to hatch. The females are kept until they lay eggs, and when the caterpillars are large enough they are placed on trees to feed. When a tree is stripped a piece of cloth is hung from a limb and the caterpillars crawl into it and are moved to another tree. Tassar, or tussore silk, comes from China and Japan. Muga silk is a product of Assam. Eri silk comes from caterpillars which feed on the castor oil plant. Eri silk is of great value in India, because it is the only silk that can be spun from cocoons without killing the insects in the cocoons, and is therefore the only silk that can be worn by a strict Hindu, to whom the taking of life is forbidden.

Before bids are submitted, full information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale, and the submission of bids should be obtained from the district forester, Portland, Oregon, or the Forest Supervisor, Grants Pass, Oregon.

DON'T LET IT LINGER

A cough that follows a gripe or any other cough that "hangs on" from winter to spring wears down the sufferer, leaving him or her in a weakened state unable to ward off sickness and disease. Jos. Gillard, 148 Filmore St., Nashville, Tenn., writes: "I was suffering with a dry, hacking cough and a pain in my chest, but since taking Foley's Honey and Tar I have been relieved." It soothes, heals and cures cough, colds and croup. Good for whooping cough. Sold Everywhere. 6

OVERHEAD PIPE RACK GARAGE CONVENIENCE

Handy Place for Storing Spare Tires and Other Parts.

Contrivance is Quite Easily Put Together by Use of Old Pieces of Pipe and Few Bolts—Fasten to Beam Overhead.

The type of rack shown here provides a handy place to hang spare tires and other automobile parts, and is very easily constructed out of lengths of pipe and a few bolts. The main hanger is made from a piece of 1-in. pipe, with flanges at each end to fasten it to a beam overhead. To form the flanges, saw each end of the pipe to a depth of about 4 inches, bend the divided parts through a right angle, flatten them, and drill bolt holes through them. Then bend the hanger to form three sides of a rectangle, using the long side to support the crosspieces, which are short lengths of 3/4-inch pipe. Cut slots in the main hanger to admit the crosspieces, and cut corresponding slots in the latter, so that they will fit snugly. Then bolt the crosspieces in position and fasten the hanger overhead with screws or bolts of suitable size.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
