Edward Little Tackles a Big Job

All of the federal statutes are being assembled into one book by order of congress. The laws that are at present scattered through 36 books are going into one volume, if Representative Edward C. Little of Kansas fulfills his task, and there is no reason to believe that he won't. This picture shows Mr. Little at work on his big job.

BITS OF INFORMATION

The French state railway is using demobilized war-trained dogs to guard goods in transit.

The streets of Greater New York, if extended in one continuous line, would reach almost across the American continent.

A member of the British parliament is unable to resign unless his application is agreed to by a majority of the members.

A half-million dollar fund is being raised in St. Louis to finance two hotels for the accommodation of women in industry.

Asphalt was first used as a road material in Paris some fifty years ago, but has attained its greatest usefulness in America.

Spain irrigates only 6 per cent of its cultivated land, but the irrigated sections produce about one-fourth of the country's crops.

Crows, when at rest in the treetops or when foraging in the fields, invariably have sentinels out to give warning of danger.

The world's largest oil carrying steamship, launched recently in England is equipped with four pumps, each capable of transferring 300 tons of oil an hour.

FARM STOCK

CLUB WORK PAYS BOYS WELL

Many California Members Repaid Loans for Purebred Animals Out of First Litters.

Agricultural club boys in Eldorado county, Calif., borrowed $502 in March, 1918, from local banks to start their pig club projects. In August, 1919, an inventory showed that these boys owned or had sold $5,826.25 worth of swine. Eight gilts, exhibited by the Eldorado boys at the State fair brought an average price of $56.50. They were from the first litter out of the original sows.

Owing to the high prices of pork last year, 63 per cent of the 1919 enrollment in the California agricultural clubs went into either the sow and litter or the pig feeding contests. Many club members in the State paid high prices with borrowed money for purebred animals, and in most cases have more than repaid the loans out of the first litters, says the United States department of agriculture.

Occasionally the purebred pig clubs in California have found difficulty in securing adequate prices for the stock they raise. To eliminate this trouble they have resorted to the means used by other purebred breeders, and have organized auction sales. Two were held in the past year, one at Lemoore Kings county, and one in Fresno county. At Lemoore 38 animals brought a total of $2,751, or an average of about $72 a head, which is about the market price for purebred animals in California. In Fresno county 29 head of purebred Poland-Chinas brought a total of $981.50, or an average price of $33.80.

LOOKING THE FAMILY OVER

Woman Writer Made Some Suggestions That Are Worth More Than a Passing Thought.

A suggestion by Celia Caroline Cole in the Delineator, on how to live in accord with others and eliminate the jangles offered the following as one item. In solving the problem she said:

"If you'd step out this minute from the habit of looking at your family as the family and take a new look at them as human beings, individuals, struggling, dreaming, failing just as you do—oh, yes, this applies to your father and mother, too; they're not things especially equipped just because they happen to be your father and mother; they're trying even harder than you are to do something and be something—look at them, the whole family, as people you can do things for, but they needn't do anything for you so far as you are concerned (that's their affair), people you can learn from, every one of them, blessed, brave, marching, hoping human beings groping into life and trying to find the right road to walk on. And then take a look at yourself and see if you are the kind of person you'd like to have for a best friend, and why not. Take a walk in the country every now and then, where there are hills or moors or wide fields if you can get them, something patient and serene and strong."

GREAT POET LOVED TOBACCO

Tennyson's Devotion to the Fragrant Weed Can Only Be Described as Intense.

Tennyson's passion for a "long pipe" is well known. The story that he never smoked the same pipe twice can be dismissed, for, like all smokers, he detested new pipes. He entertained the liveliest hatred of Florence because he could not get any decent tobacco there, and on this account promptly returned home. Carlyle, describing Tennyson, said: "Smokes infinite tobacco." His devotion to the herb became so intense that literally he could not exist without it. On one occasion, at a soiree of the Royal society, he declared he must have a pipe. A friend said he should smoke up the chimney of the library or on the roof. Tennyson chose the latter, and with his body thrust half way through the skylight puffed away in peace, descending in a quarter of an hour greatly refreshed. Wherever he went he must be allowed to smoke. Accepting an invitation to visit Gladstone in 1876, he wrote: "As you are good enough to say you will manage anything rather than lose my visit, will you manage that I can have a pipe in my room whenever I like?"

"Strad" Violin Poor Investment

From a contemporary we learn that: "Cervetto, an Italian musician in London in the eighteenth century, is said to have received a number of Stradivari violins for sale. He was instructed to ask £4 ($20) each for the violins, but failed to sell them at this exorbitant price, and had to send them back to Italy. With these same violins selling at the present day from $10,000 to $20,000 each, this seems almost incredible, but we must remember that at that time Stradivarius was not known as the premier violin maker of the world. However, it would have been a very poor speculation for anyone to have bought the violins at even that nominal sum at that time and hoarded them away for his heirs to sell at the present day. The sum of $20 invested at compound interest at that time would have amounted to far more than $20,000 at the present day. Such is the power of money to breed if kept steadily at work at compound interest."

Anatomy Among the Ancients.

It has been pointed out that the statues and plaques carved in stone and wood to be seen in the Gizeh museum prove that the priest mummifiers of Memphis 6,000 years ago possessed a profound knowledge of anatomy. Science, therefore, as Lockyer remarked, is as old as art, and they have advanced together.

Another remarkable fact in this connection is that excavations in Italy have brought to light scores of finely finished surgical instruments for certain operations, which are in almost every particular of form like those reinvented in modern times and used by the most advanced surgeons of today.

Attest: EDWARD S. VAN DYKE,

Clerk. 02

There is not much danger that healthy, vigorous fowls will become too fat, if compelled to exercise by scratching for the grain part of their ration.

It is necessary to provide the hens with some reason for exercising in winter because they have no incentive to exercise naturally, as they do in summer hunting for bugs and worms, etc.
