RENDER UNTO ENGLAND WHAT IS RUSSIA'S

News dispatches of the day carry the report that the Russian soviet government has refused to recognize as legal indebtedness any debts incurred after the revolution, and that the English are nearing acquiescence in that view.

It has long been known by those "on the inside" of the Russian affair that the great obstacle to peace for Russia was not the objection to soviet government so much as the objection of Russia's unwillingness to shoulder the entire Slav financial indebtedness for years back.

At the same time, free-thinking Americans are often tempted to lose patience at the spectacle of a supposedly advanced and progressive government of the Old World, hiding behind a world policy that a pseudo-humanitarian and yet deliberately barring the road to world-peace with a sordid and colossal greed for the payment of a debt that is not owed.

Lord Northcliffe personally made the remark to a number of American journalists in Paris at the time of the peace conference—although not for publication—that the insatiable demands of British capitalists who would lose their Russian obligations otherwise, forced the attitude taken by the allies toward Russia, incidentally costing a number of American lives any one of which is of infinite more value to America than twenty Russian debts.

So far as the debt of Petrograd is concerned in the peace problem, several million Yankees can not see why the revolutionary government in Russia should be called upon to make good Czar Nicholas' promises any more than our government under George Washington or Thomas Jefferson should have been held liable for the indebtedness incurred by George III.

It appears at present that the Russian government is willing to pay that part of the indebtedness which it incurred itself, and that British capital, finding itself in an untenable position and no chance of doing better, accepts that good old American doctrine that half a loaf is better than none, determined at least to glean a few crumbs.

If today's news dispatch means that the British moneyed interests have adopted a new course of action, it very probably marks the approach of world-peace. America long since discovered that she was being duped and withdrew her support from a questionable enterprise, and now we may look for and swallow with plus regard for British feelings a statement emanating from somewhere near the Greenwich meridian that England once more bestows peace upon a harassed people—by giving to them that which is their own.

La Juanta, Colo., June 15.—Two persons were killed and 50 injured today near Reno, Colo., when the eastbound Santa Fe train "California Limited" was wrecked. Relief trains carrying doctors and nurses have been dispatched to the scene.

BULGARIA HAS NEED OF BRIDGE BUILDERS

Constantza, Rumania, June 15.—Owing to the general destruction of bridges during the war there is an exceptional opportunity in Rumania for American bridge builders.

In addition, the great bridge over the Danube at Cernavoda, in many respects the greatest structure in Europe, must be reconstructed. This bridge, known as the King Carol bridge, is 1260 feet long and 114 feet above high water.

IRON AND STEEL ARE NEEDED IN RUMANIA

Jassy, Rumania, June 15.—Rumania is badly in need of iron and steel. For nearly seven years steel and iron imports have been far below normal.

Hitherto the German and Transylvanian furnaces have furnished most of Rumania's steel. However, all of Rumania's needs could be met if Americans developed her iron mines. There are rich undeveloped deposits both in old Rumania and in Transylvania, especially along the Carpathians.

and then by prospective bidders immediately following the bond election to be held next Saturday. That the land owners and others interested may know the details of these plans previous to the bond election, and also that they may inform themselves upon any points involved in the building of the project, the directors of the district have authorized the calling of a meeting to be held in the court room at the courthouse Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

FEW AMUSEMENTS TO BE HAD BY ITALIANS

Rome, June 15.—Hard work and few amusements must be the portion of patriotic Italians during the next few years in the opinion of former Premier Nitti. The taxes on theaters and concerts already somewhat heavy, have been considerably raised, while the proprietors of hotels who give balls, dances and other entertainments must pay to the state from $50 to $500 a time.

There are to be no more automobile rides on Sunday, as cars may not be used between Saturday afternoons and Monday mornings. No one may motor between 8 o'clock in the evening and 8 o'clock in the morning all the week, and cars of more than 35 horsepower are forbidden at all.

As the trolleys and trains which go out on Sundays to Frascati, Tivoli and the other outing places are greatly reduced in numbers, it will be necessary for the average Roman to invent some other mode of passing his Sunday.

HOME OF GALILEO TO BE MADE A MONUMENT

Rome, June 15.—A movement has been started to make the house at Arcetri, called "Jewel," where Galileo lived from 1631 to 1642 a national monument and to collect there all Galileo relics. While Galileo lived at Arcetri he was called to Rome to answer a charge of heresy before the inquisition.

On his return he witnessed the death of his daughter who was a nun. In this particular house he dictated "dialogues of new sciences" which he considered was his masterpiece. It was there also that he received the poet Milton and was presented by Holland with a golden chain in acknowledgement of his services to science.

BE SURE AIR VENT IS OPEN

This is to Allow Gasoline to Flow into Carburetor From Bottom of Supply Tank.

In the cap on the filler hole in a gravity feed tank you will usually find a small hole. This is to allow air to enter at the top so that the gasoline can flow into the carburetor from the bottom.

"Silhouettes"

The silhouette derives its name from Etienne de Silhouette, who was the French minister of finance in 1759. His extreme economy in matters of finance was caricatured by all classes, and any cheap mode or fashion was sarcastically called by his name.

FARMERS NOT SATISFIED WITH REPUBLICAN PLANK

Washington, June 15.—Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary of the Farmer's National Council, who clashed with members of the resolution committee at the republican national convention last week when he attacked the transportation act as "un-American" issued a statement here today declaring that the section of the republican platform on agriculture, "does not contain a single declaration to reassure the farmers of America."

Montreal, June 15.—The American Federation of Labor, in today's session of its annual convention, pledged its support to the striking longshoremen on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, "in their fight for recognition and their opposition to the open shop policy."

Do It Now!

Who would imagine that Sir Walter Scott, the great Scottish poet could sometimes feel lazy? Yet he says that he often found the beginning of the day's labour as distasteful as "plunging into cold water."

Pays to Give One's Best.

There is a great difference between going just right and a little wrong—between superiority and mediocrity—between the fairly good and the best. And there is something in the determination always to keep up the standards in thought, or in whatever we do in life, whether it is hoeing corn, mending shoes, or making laws for a nation—something that gives an upward tendency—an inspiring quality that is lacking in the character of the groveling man with low ideals.
