MORE ABOUT SOLDIER INSURANCE

"War risk insurance is a good thing gone wrong; it has suffered much in reputation by association with the bureau of the same name."

This is the substance of the American Legion's investigation of the bureau of war risk insurance, as presented in the American Legion Weekly, the official magazine of the veterans' organization. The Legion, however, appeals to ex-service men to continue their insurance.

"With all its faults of red tape, incompetence and unprecedented growth," it says, "war risk insurance is too valuable to be turned in with rifles, packs and mess kits. You may be disgusted now, and probably are, but the thing to do is to look ahead. If you let your insurance slide now you will regret it later, if you ever feel the need for insurance; and in a year from now it will be too late. If you want good insurance, pay up and get back in. Bad as the situation was, improvement has become marked. The Sweet bill has added many decidedly attractive new features to government insurance."

The American Legion Weekly has sought an explanation of this situation. It has studied the war risk insurance bureau in an effort to answer these questions:

1. Is war risk insurance a good thing?
2. Are the affairs of the bureau being competently administered?
3. Should the faith of the veteran be restored in war risk insurance, and should he be urged to keep up his insurance, and, if he has fallen behind, pay up, convert and carry as much insurance as he can afford?

"Our answer to the first and third question is: Yes.

"Regarding the second question this may be said: The bureau's affairs have not been competently administered in the past; and C. G. Cholmeley-Jones, the present director, has not seen fit to give sufficient figures from his records to enable us to frame an unqualified answer as to the efficiency of the present administration, which dates back to May of 1919. Progress has been made, however, and a situation that once was the despair of the treasury department has now cleared up.

"It is entirely at the option of the man in the service or the ex-service man whether he retains his insurance, or permits it to go by the board. The figures prove that he has largely permitted his insurance to lapse, and this is not because the insurance is not good, for it is the best in the world, and not because it is not cheap, because it is cheaper than any privately organized life insurance company ever can offer. It is largely because red tape and inefficiency have disgusted the veteran with his transactions with the bureau.

"The great improvement which has come about in the administration of the bureau, and particularly of its insurance division, ought to result in an increased faith on the part of the ex-service man that his government not only will pay his insurance when it is due, but that it will also render him, relatively, as good service as a privately organized life insurance company with regard to his insurance premiums and other transactions about his insurance."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PEPTOMISMS

By the Secretary

"ADD-A-MEMBER"
 The coming week has been designated as "Add-A-Member" week in the Chamber of Commerce campaign for new members. Every present member will be furnished a prospect and an application card and instructed to secure that prospect's application.

Community progress is synonymous with community effort. Let's make it 300.

Nature has smiled upon Josephine county where "It's the Climate"—now let's help Nature by developing Josephine county as it should be. You can help by joining the Chamber of Commerce.

Be pleasant every morning until 10 o'clock, the rest of the day will take care of itself.—Hunter.
 Another good motto—"Join the Chamber of Commerce before 10 o'clock."

Opportunity knocks at everyman's door. Now is your opportunity to join the Chamber of Commerce and do your mite for a "Greater Josephine County."

Sabin says we need more ginger in this community. Gee whiz, Geo., what we do need is a good charge of TNT. Then if the dose was multiplied several times it might loosen up some of us to join the Chamber of Commerce and help the good work along.

—Add-A-Member—
 Let's make it 300 or bust!

SHOWS REST HOW TO GAIN CONTROL OVER MEN

Constance Talmadge proves that a woman can get anything she wants if she only knows how to go about it, as you will see in "Two Weeks," a picture taken from "At the Barn," Anthony Wharton's play, which will be shown at the Oregon theater on tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Talmadge, as Lillums, a show girl, flees from an escort who has been rude and winds up at the home of three crusty bachelors. The grave, old butler is horrified at her appearance and tells her no women are allowed on the premises. Nothing daunted, she shows him a slight thorn bruise and pretends to be suffering.

The butler falls at once and in his sympathy takes her to the bath room, to bathe and bind up the wound. Then Lillums is caught by the owners, who are shocked at the very thought of her intrusion. But a flirty smile and a toss of her pretty head wins two of them to her cause and she settles down for a visit. And the third bachelor? Well she vamps him plenty before her two weeks stay is finished.

PLAN EIGHT MEMORIALS TO CANADIAN VALOR

Sites Picked on Battlefields in France and Belgium—Total Cost $1,500,000.

Canada will erect permanent memorials on eight historic battle-sites in France and Belgium to mark the exploits of the Canadian forces, if the recommendation of a special committee's report to parliament are carried out.

The sites selected by senior officers who fought in the battles to be commemorated are: (1) St. Julien, (2) Passchendaele, Crest Farm; (3) Hill 62, Observatory Ridge; (4) Hill 145, Vimy; (5) Drury Cross Roads, (6) Bourlon Wood, (7) Courcellette, and (8) Hospital Wood, between Calix and La Quesnel. Each name recalls heroic events with which the Canadian corps is imperishably associated.

The three sites in Belgium (1, 2 and 3) were donated by the Belgian government. Of those in France four were purchased from private owners at a total cost of $1,500. The fifth at Bourlon Wood, was presented to Canada by Count de Francqueville, mayor of Bourlon, as a token of gratitude and appreciation of the Canadian corps' gallant work. Titles to all these properties have been obtained and the deeds are in the office of the high commissioner in London.

As four of these sites are at a distance from the main highway, about three miles of permanent roads must be built to enable material to be hauled and to provide permanent and suitable access to the memorials.

Construction of these roads and competition in design require immediate attention and the committee recommends that $250,000 be included in the supplementary estimates at this session of parliament in order that this work may be carried on.

The total estimated cost of these memorials is about $1,500,000. The committee recommends that competition for the design of the memorials be open to all Canadian architects, designers, artists and sculptors.

Wanted to Remain Awhile.

Betty was looking rather poorly after several weeks' illness. Aunt Edith, who had not seen her since she was a tiny baby, after kissing her, turned to her mother and said, rather thoughtlessly: "My, how thin she is! She looks as if a whiff of wind would blow her away." This must have worried Betty all day, for that night when she had finished all the customary "God blesses" in her prayer she added this earnest postscript: "And, please, God, make me thicker, for I don't want to be blown away."

"Blue Nose."

Blue Nose is a popular name for a native of Nova Scotia. Haliburton, in "Sam Slick," gives the following account of its origin: "Pray, sir, said one of my fellow passengers, 'can you tell me why the Nova Scotians are called Blue Noses?' 'It is the name of a potato,' said I, 'which they produce in the greatest perfection, and boast to be the best in the world. The Americans have in consequence given them the nickname 'Blue Noses.'"

"Electoral College."

Properly speaking, there is no such institution as an electoral college. The electors, who are voted for by the people, meet in their respective state and cast their votes for president and vice president. These are sealed and sent by special messenger to the vice president of the United States, acting as speaker of the senate. He delivers them to the speaker of the house, who in the presence of both houses of congress assembled, opens the vote and declares the result.
