INTEREST IN OHIO VOTE

One of the most interesting features of the present presidential campaign is the fact that two of Ohio's sons are making the race for the chief office of the nation. Interest centers in this because of the rivalry that exists for the Ohio vote, and democrats are insisting that Cox has a chance for the state. They base the claim upon the fact that Cox has been elected to the governorship by the people of Ohio, maintaining that this indicates that Cox can carry Ohio now. A study of the elections which have resulted in success for Cox show that he is far from being the vote-getter that his party would have us believe, but has succeeded by reason of outside forces that worked to his benefit. The state central committee has supplied the Courier with a resume of the elections held in Ohio in which Cox was a candidate, and this shows how slender is the thread that has brought victory to Cox. Here is the Cox gubernatorial history:

He first wormed into the executive chair in 1912 as the choice of a minority of the electorate on account of the progressive split in the republican party.

When Cox came up for re-election in 1914 two years later he was decisively defeated, although the progressives still polled a strong vote for their gubernatorial candidate.

In 1916 Cox profited by the duplicity and deceit of Wilson's slogan, "He kept us out of war" and so he again sidled into the governor's chair by a thin-ice plurality of 6,616.

In 1918 Cox managed to slip into the governor's chair by a plurality of less than 12,000. Those who have an intimate knowledge of politics know that Cox's election in 1918 was nothing more than a fluke. It was due to the disaffection on the part of a special interest in a single county which normally republican went for Cox.

In 1914 when Cox lost the state by 29,270 votes, Harding, candidate for the United States senate, carried Ohio by 102,373. This does not begin to give a fair idea of Senator Harding's personal and party strength in Ohio because while Cox was losing the state by 29,270 votes and Harding was carrying the state by 102,373 votes, Senator Harding not only had Hogan, the democratic candidate for senator to take care of, but also had to stand the loss of 67,509 votes which went for Garford, progressive candidate for senator.

Epworth League Picnic Tomorrow—Epworth Leaguers and their friends are planning a picnic supper in the park Wednesday evening. Entertainment will be provided in the form of tennis, volley ball, horse-shoes, and bon fire and new institute games. All members are invited to attend and to bring their friends.

Ashland Boy Signs With Giants—"Ken" Lilly of Ashland, well known to a large number of local sporting enthusiasts through Rogue valley sports, has been signed by the New York National team and is now in the east. Lilly was noticed through his work on the Stanford university baseball team, which he captained, and it is understood was signed up at about $500 per month. Lilly does not expect to turn "pro," but will finish his post-graduate law work at Stanford next winter.

It Happened at Medford—In the thunderstorm at Crater lake late last night a sea gull had a brain storm and followed down one of the lake buses apparently under the impression that it was a boat bound for the sea. It came as far as the S. P. depot, settled down on the gravel walk and started to have a breakfast off geological grape nuts. In the midst of its meal the forest patrol airplane circled over the city and started on its regular flight to Alturas, whereupon the dippy gull started in pursuit and was last seen going east over Roxy Anne.—Mail Tribune.

MUST USE THEM HIMSELF
 The manager of a certain minor league club in the middle West wired Manager Gavy Cravath of the Phillies:
 "Have you a pitcher to spare who could win in class B?"
 Cravath answered:
 "I have six or eight class B pitchers, but I have to use them myself."

COOK TWIRLS PERFECT GAME
 Pitcher of Aspinwall Team of Pittsburgh Does Not Allow a Hit or Issue a Single Pass.

"Depend" Cook, pitching for the Aspinwall team of Pittsburgh, an amateur nine, twirled a perfect game the other day. Only 27 batters faced him. He did not allow a hit or give a pass and was faultlessly supported.

Sunshine Somewhere.
 A plant growing in a cellar picks out the distant spot where the sunbeams come through the little window, and pushes its way through the half-darkness, stretching its pale stalk to an amazing length, to reach the patch of sunshine. Why shouldn't we do as much? If there is nothing cheerful close to us, let us reach ahead in our thoughts to the pleasure that is coming, or back to some joy that is past.
