THE CAVES ROAD SITUATION

The matter of the highway to the Oregon caves is still very much up in the air, judging from the best information that can be obtained from Portland. In the building of this highway the cooperation of three branches of official government is necessary. Primarily, the state forestry department has jurisdiction, and the bureau of roads has already approved the building of the caves highway, having made surveys from both sides of Grayback, with the intention of ultimately having the highway constructed as a loop road. But the state, through its highway commission, and the county, through the county court must cooperate, and until the machinery of the three groups can work in unison there will be no road to the caves. The financial stress of the times has brought the state commission to a point where, for the present, only the main thoroughfares, such as the Pacific highway, can receive immediate attention. This no doubt means that the public must possess its soul in patience and await the time when the market for bonds is stronger. In the meantime, however, there is work to do. The county has its end of the work to meet, but before this can be advanced, the forestry department should make definite announcement of its plan for the building. The route should be definitely located, for while there have been various reports as to the route to be first constructed, it has not been officially and definitely decided upon. During the past week the local chamber of commerce through its board of directors has been active in promoting the caves road, and through its influence a delegation from the Portland chamber appeared before the highway commission

Tuesday. The following extracts from a letter just received from the Portland body shows the present status of the caves road situation:

"Following your telegraphic request, a committee from the chamber consisting of J. O. Elrod, Mr. Price of Ladd and Tilton Bank, Mr. C. C. Chapman and the writer, appeared before the state highway commission today. Supporting this committee was Mr. E. N. Strong, president of the Portland Ad Club and Mr. Dater of the road section of the forestry department. The matter was presented by Mr. C. C. Chapman followed by casual talks on the part of other members of the committee. It received very close attention from the board, of which all members were present.

"Mr. Booth put the following motion to the board: 'That the forestry department which has at present three surveys of possible locations through the forest reserve to the caves, designate finally a definite route and present this route to the county court of Josephine county, with the request that the court do everything in its power to aid the construction of this road. In the meantime the state highway commission and the forestry department have the construction of the road strictly in mind and as soon as funds are available, it will receive attention.' The thought behind Mr. Booth's motion was that with the road definitely decided upon, preliminary work might be commenced such as the construction of culverts, necessary bridges, etc., which the county court could well afford to carry out.

"Altogether the committee felt that a step forward had been taken in the advancement of your road to the caves. We fully appreciate how desirable it would be to have this road completed but everyone must face the cold facts, namely, that it requires money to construct roads in these days and that the main arteries must first of all be completed."

Men Who Travel on Their Face.

"BEHIND THE DOOR" HAS THRILLS AND ACTION

The men screamed with horror. For behind the door they saw something that robbed them of speech, a nameless terror that chilled their blood.

What was it? Well, that would be telling. It's all in the picture. "Behind the Door" is the title. Gouverneur Morris wrote it. A Thomas H. Ince special with Hobart Bosworth of "The Sea Wolf" and other masterful pictures starring "Behind the Door" is a story of the sea. Bosworth is the captain of the ship.

It will keep you on the edge of your seat during the entire showing. And you'll be as surprised as anyone at the amazing finish.

In the cast are Jane Novak, Wallace Beery, James Gordon, Dick Wain, and other Ince favorites.

It's a big picture, one you don't want to miss. We're showing it at the Oregon theater today and tomorrow only.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL

Mrs. Allen Underwood returned to her home at Brookings today after a week in the city.

Charles Horn, of Crescent City, is a local visitor for a short time on business.

Leonard Martin returned last night from Klamath Falls where he has been spending the past few months.

Roy E. Fox, of Blue Mound, Ill., and Dell Lewis, of Hoquiam, are making a trip into California. They stopped last night at the Josephine.

Douglas Ingram was registered at the Josephine today. Mr. Ingram is in the forest service and registers from Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tilley, of Tiburon, California, are making a trip to the coast at Crescent City. They will continue down the coast to their home.

"Mary Garden" Powder. Sabin has it.

W. L. Suddarth, now of Umatilla county but at one time resident of Josephine county, is back in the city for a few days attending to business. Mr. Suddarth still owns his ranch a few miles from Merlin.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Flannery and son, Wilbur, of New Castle, Penn., who have been visiting the past three weeks with Mrs. T. M. Stott, sister of Mrs. Flannery, left last night for a visit with relatives in Oakland and Los Angeles before returning home. They were delighted with the Southern Oregon country and thought Crater Lake alone worth the trip to the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Almeter, of Los Angeles, are among the residents of the southern state who have heard of the wonders of Crater Lake. They are making a trip there to see if all of the reports are true.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, of Springfield, are visiting in the city with friends and relatives for a few days. Mr. Davis was transferred to Springfield from here several months ago. They are on their way home from a trip south.

Misses Gretchen Cordsen, Pauline Stauch and Emma Schmidt are here from San Francisco visiting with the Claus Schmidt family. Miss Cordsen being a niece of Mr. Schmidt. The young ladies were in a party that visited the caves and are expecting to make the trip to Crater Lake.

Even Salmon Take the Fly—

The hopes of local fishermen were raised to the highest pitch this morning when it was seen that rain could be expected. A large number were out on the better riffles and reports are that nearly everybody who went out made a killing. One man brings back a very exceptional story of catching two salmon, both taking a large fly. This is very rare as salmon do not generally take anything but a runner in the upper river. A large run of fish is expected up if the river cools down several degrees during the cool spell.
