

BRIBES TAKEN BY BOLLING IS CHARGE MADE

SHIPPING BOARD TREASURER IS NAMED IN ACCUSATIONS OF GRAFT IN DEALINGS

THREE OTHERS ARE IMPLICATED

Former Washington Banker Says the Money Was to Be Split Four Ways

New York, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—R. W. Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson and treasurer of the Shipping Board, was named in connection with the $40,000 bribe alleged to have been paid by a Staten Island Ship Building Company to procure unusual favors from the board, in testimony before the congressional committee investigating Shipping Board affairs. Tucker E. Sands, former Washington banker said he understood the $40,000 was to be split four ways between himself, Bolling, Lester Sisler, former Shipping Board secretary and a man named Kraner.

Washington, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—"Not a grain of truth in it," said Bolling after reading Sands' statement concerning the alleged bribes of the Shipping Board.

Body Arrives Here—The body of J. S. MacMurray, who died several days ago at San Jose, arrived in Grants Pass Friday night from California. Funeral services will be held Sunday at the Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at the Masonic cemetery.

Interesting Meeting Held—Another interesting meeting was held by the Ladies Progressive Circle Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wilmarth on West H street. The Circle enjoyed a real treat by having the pleasure of listening to some of the most beautiful thoughts of our best poets. Four new members were received. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bureau on West G street, Wednesday afternoon, December 1st, at 2 o'clock. "American Citizenship" has been under discussion by the Circle for some time, but the first actual work on the subject will be at the next meeting.

LEND A HAND
Everett Earle Stanard

Many a funeral dirge we sing for soldiers passed away. Our tributes to the grave we bring where fallen comrades lay. And it is meet that we should come with sorrowful slow tread, with flags a-furl and muffled drum in the city of the dead. But how is it that we forget the heroes with us still, the veterans who are not yet touched by grave-damp's chill? The veterans of many a fight are with us day by day, and these are the men who put to flight the Kaiser's legions gray. Not only where a soldier lies should we our tribute give. Remember all the sacrifice of him who fought, but lives. O what a wan and useless gift is a lily on a tomb. Let's help the living love and lift, plant joy instead of gloom!

INTERNATIONAL ARMY IS ASKED FOR LEAGUE

Belgian Delegate Asserts World Not Ready for Total Disarmament; Advocates Army to go to Relief of Armenians; Dutch Balk at Registration of All Treaties

By Henry Wood (United Press Staff Correspondent) Geneva, Nov. 20.—(U. P.)—"The hour for universal disarmament has not yet arrived," M. La Fontaine, a Belgian delegate, declared in addressing the assembly of the league of nations in a public session today. La Fontaine maintained that the economic situation was the most important confronting the world, insisting upon the right of the league to "rest upon the strength of national armies," which are at its disposition. "Then it will be at the mercy of no one."

As the situation now stands La Fontaine said, discussing disarmament, the league is composed of 42 states with armies numbering millions, yet is unable to save Armenia. He demanded the formation of an international general staff, and the immediate employment of an international force, under the league, in behalf of Armenia, "thereby demonstrating to the world the effectiveness of the league." "Disarmament not being possible now, the armies and navies of the members should be placed at the disposal of the league to form the basis for an international force under the league," La Fontaine said. His remarks were greeted with tremendous applause.

Geneva, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—The first formal step looking toward the revision of the covenant of the league of nations was taken by the league assembly today. The Dutch minister of foreign affairs introduced a resolution for a reconsideration of article 18 relating to the registration of treaties. An international military force, with an international staff, was proposed by Senator La Fontaine of the Belgian delegation, who declared that the world is not ready for disarmament.

FRENCH GENERAL IS PLEASED WITH U. S.

Paris, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—General Fayolle said upon his return recently from his three weeks stay in the United States, "I have just discovered America and America has conquered me. It is a wonderland."

"It has been a hard fight, those three weeks in America," the general went on with the usual humorous twinkle in his eye. "I come back on the verge of collapse with grim dyspepsia holding me in its grip. Without taking back anything that I have said about American Expeditionary force cooks being rank amateurs, I must take off my hat to American chefs. There were many banquets, luncheons, I survived them all."

To the suggestion that most of the chefs at the leading hotels were French, General Fayolle replied: "They may be but they certainly have undergone an evolution for they had strange dishes of their own."

"Did you miss your wine with your meals," he was asked.

"I never missed my wine," Fayolle replied.

"Don't ask me to talk local American politics," General Fayolle went on when requested to explain whether he meant that he had his wine twice a day as is his custom or that he did not miss it temperamentally.

"I have had a grandiose reception that I shall never forget although I am certain that it was not for me personally but because I represented Marshal Foch and the French Army." "I lived through it," concluded the general, "but even the organizers of my tour had to admit that it was a record for endurance."

ATTEMPTS TO CLOSE SALOONS DEFEATED

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—The "dry" elements in the Mexican government have just suffered defeat in an attempt to close the cantinas, or saloons, on Saturday nights and Sundays. The "wets" comprising some 2,000 cantina owners and their patrons are rejoicing.

The government has strong "dry" leanings, the chief executive being alleged in favor of prohibition and E. Plutarco Calles, minister of war, being known throughout the republic as a "bone dry" advocate.

Several weeks ago a presidential decree closed all places where liquor was sold from Saturday night at 6 o'clock until Monday morning at 7. This edict had a depressing effect upon Saturday night revelry.

More than 2,000 local vendors of liquor signed a request that the government be legally restrained from enforcing the decree. After the question was violently agitated in the newspapers, the supreme court handed down a decision which virtually granted the request of the "wets" by naming several hundred cafes and cantinas where liquor might be sold over Sunday. This order was later expanded to include all cafes and cantinas and the "estado seco" (dry state) is a myth so far as the capital is concerned.

President de la Huerta's "dry" decree was the subject of much satirical comment in the newspapers. Handbills and placards were distributed on the main streets ridiculing the measure by burlesquing it. For instance, one bill carried a purported decree stopping profanity from sunset Saturday to sunrise Monday.

They have enough geese on cold storage now to last them all winter, the birds having arrived a few nights ago.

YALE LOSES IN ANNUAL CLASH WITH HARVARD

HARVARD SCORES THREE FIELD GOALS IN GRIDIRON CLASSIC AT NEW HAVEN

CROWD AT GAME LARGEST YET

Thousands Turned Away From Hotels, Accommodations Depleted Weeks Before Big Game

New Haven, Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—Harvard defeated Yale nine to nothing today. They scored three field goals.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 20.—(A. P.)—The varsity football eleven of Yale and Harvard close their season with the annual game here today, playing before the largest assembly of spectators that ever gathered in the Yale Bowl. The entire seating capacity of the Yale football arena, which will accommodate more than 70,000 persons, had been sold for weeks and tickets, even at many times their face value, are unobtainable. It has been estimated that the attendance would have exceeded 100,000 had it been possible to provide seats for all those who made application for tickets.

The extreme interest in the game and the unusual popularity of football in general this season are reflected in the marked revival of the night-before gathering and the activity of alumni of both universities. It has been a number of years since this city experienced the uncertainty and excitement regarding the outcome of a Yale-Harvard football contest that prevailed here last night. Hotel accommodations are not available at any price, several of the leading hostilities having been booked to capacity weeks in advance and later arriving automobile parties were directed to neighboring towns and villages for temporary lodgings.

The attendance at the game established the season's record, if not a national figure for a single intercollegiate football game. The majority of the spectators, however, did not arrive until this forenoon, for scores of special trains had been engaged to transport thousands of graduates and their friends, including feminine football enthusiasts, from New York, Boston and other eastern cities. Other thousands motored to the scene of the game and with sufficient garage space out of the question arrangements were made for public parking in many sections of the city. Every car that entered New Haven last night bore the crimson banner of Harvard or the blue of Yale and the city itself was decorated with the colors of the contesting colleges from center to suburbs.

Both football squads had their final practice yesterday and rested last night in seclusion, far from the excitement incidental to the closing game of their season. Predictions of victory made by both camps are tempered with forecasts of an unusually hard and closely contested game in which the breaks of the play will probably bear an important part. Yale has installed a somewhat revised coaching policy this season with "Tad" Jones in the position of head coach and the success of the system hinges, to a considerable extent, on the outcome of today's struggle. Harvard with "Bob" Fisher at the helm is continuing the methods established by Percy Haughton almost a decade ago and the game will be as much a test of coaching systems as individual and team competition.

Since 1877 these two universities have been represented by teams in 38 gridiron battles, the continuity of annual games having been broken seven times. To date Yale has won 23 times while Harvard is credited with only 10 victories and five times the contests ended with the teams tied. Yale has a big lead in the points scored since 1883 with a total of 116 to Harvard's 198.
