MITCHELL DESCRIBES TWO GRIDIRON PLAYS

Talks of Two Formations Developed in the East.

Harvard Saved Itself From Defeat in Oregon Game by Play Not Much Seen on Western Fields—Yale Was Slow in Awakening.

Fred Mitchell, newly appointed manager of the Boston Braves, is a football fan. He was talking recently of two plays by eastern teams which might be brought into more general use in the West. He had talked with the Harvard coaches since the game in the West last year with Oregon, and the Crimson team, it appeared, broke training after the Yale game and was out on the far western field in anything but good shape for such a gruelling contest.

The westerners rushed Harvard hard in the center of the field, but Harvard soon discovered its forward passing game was a joke. Harvard was backed up to its 20-yard line, when it began to use defensive line formations. Two of the backfield men were sent into the line to re-enforce it. That gave a line of nine men. Two men playing wide stayed back for the forward passes. This formation stopped Oregon and Harvard won the game, 7 to 6.

Princeton one time was playing Yale. The Tiger end, on defense, walked way out wide. He came back briskly toward his tackle, giving signals and talking numbers rapidly, in the midst of which came the snapping of the ball. At the snap of the ball this end, which was well up by this time, took a run, crossed the line of scrimmage and hit the Yale tackle amidships and rolled up the Yale line. This play was worked four times, including one forward pass, before the Yale end awakened to bump the signal giver on his inward journey, at the snap of the ball.

RODGERS AT WEST VIRGINIA

Famous Mountaineer Athlete Selected to Succeed Kemper Shelton as Baseball Coach.

Ire E. Rodgers, famous mountaineer athlete, was elected to coach the West Virginia university baseball team for 1921, succeeding Kemper Shelton. Rodgers led all mountaineer teams in football, basketball and baseball, both as player and captain, but has never played professional baseball or football.

YALE BUILDS NEW BOATHOUSE

Structure to Be Erected on Its Housatonic River Course Above Derby, Connecticut.

Yale will construct a new boathouse on its Housatonic river course above Derby, Conn. It will be the Blue's home course. It is an ideal stretch of water and has a railroad on one side of the bank and a fine automobile road on the other, which aids spectators in following races.

ANOTHER JOB FOR HINCHMAN

Man Who Has Played Second Base on Different Teams Has Signed to Manage Chambersburg.

Harry Hinchman of Toledo, O., who for 18 years has played second base on various teams of different leagues, has been signed to manage the Chambersburg team of the Blue Ridge league in 1921.

HIGH PRICES WILL NOT RULE AT BIG CONTEST

The Dempsey-Carpenter fight for a purse of $500,000 probably will be held July 4 near New York in a stadium with a seating capacity of 100,000.

This last development in the biggest bout of all times comes with the announcement of Charles B. Cochrane and Tex Rickard, two of the promoters.

"I am going to surprise the public that has been led to expect prices running up to $200," Rickard said. "If my plans come through the tickets will range from $5 to $40—no more."

Rickard said an immense stadium will have to be built for an open-air fight.

CROOKED GAMES ARE NOT POSSIBLE, SAYS YOUNG

One thing has been brought out, says old Cy Young, and that is you can't make baseball crooked. One player or half a dozen players, can throw a game or two or three games—and then the whole world gets wise to it, no matter how clever the cheats may be in trying to cover up their dirty work. And Young goes on to make a remark that will strike home to every pitcher and every catcher when he says: "I do not think a pitcher can throw even one game without falling under the suspicion of his catcher. If a catcher is honest he will know in an inning or two whether the pitcher is trying to win or not. Besides that, the catcher will, or should, see every play made on the field and if he is any kind of a catcher he can tell mighty quick if a player is trying to make a play or not."

PUPILS BECOME TOO ADEPT FOR MASTERS

Champion Boxers Develop Their Own Successors.

Jim Jeffries Entered Corbett's Training Camp as Awkward Sparring Partner—Mike Gibbons Taught O'Dowd Fine Points.

Some pupils become too adept for their masters. Take boxers, for example. Many champions developed their successors without often realizing it.

Jim Jeffries entered Jim Corbett's camp as a big, lumbering, awkward sparring partner when the latter was heavyweight champion of the world. Less than three years later the former sparring partner dropped his teacher for a full count when the latter tried to regain his title, which he had lost to Fitzsimmons, who in turn was beaten by Jeffries. It was Corbett who trained Jeffries for his championship go with "Baby" Robert. A year later, when Mike O'Dowd.

Corbett met Big Jeff, the tricks that he had taught his former pupil were used against him.

Mike Gibbons taught Mike O'Dowd much that the middleweight champion knows of the fighting game today. The two Mike's met in Minneapolis some time ago and O'Dowd defeated his old instructor.

Willie Jackson used to be a sparring partner of Johnny Dundee. Willie studied Johnny's jumping-jack style, and finally got a chance against the Italian. He knocked him out in the first round, and since then Jackson has been a topnotcher in the lightweight division.

Kid McCoy knocked around for a couple of years in the camp of Tommy Ryan when the latter was middleweight champion. The Kid learned all of the tricks in Ryan's bag and then met the champion. He knocked him out in 15 rounds.

MUST SCRAMBLE FOR BERTHS

Signing of Buster Catton by Dodgers Causes Much Speculation as to Infield Jobs.

With Buster Catton added, there's going to be some scrambling for berths on the Brooklyn infield next spring. Chuck Ward thinks he is about right for regular employment, and Pete Kil-duff and Ivan Olson are sure of it. Then there's Jimmy Johnston, Ed Koney, Ray Schmandt and a few others, all infielders. The Brooklyn fans and critics already are beginning to speculate on what layout Manager Robinson will select.

WHITE SOX SIGN JORGENSON

Chicago Team Secures Services of Star Pitcher for Iowa State Teachers' College.

Peter Jorgenson, star pitcher of the Iowa State Teachers' college nine for several seasons and captain in 1919, has signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox and will join the team when it leaves for the Southern training camp next spring. Jorgenson is now located at Guttenburg, Ia., where he is superintendent of schools.

THE DEERE is the "play" without a "peer".

ST. LOUIS 1904

Has won highest award every year for 60 years.

"You Can Trust the People"

That's what Abraham Lincoln said, and he was right. The People always know what they want and what is best for them. And when the Farmers of the World agree through their judges at every World's Fair since 1867 that the Highest Award of Merit rightly belongs to the

JOHN DEERE PLOW

It puts the Official Stamp of Quality on a product that has held first rank for over 60 years. If you are not now a John Deere Plow Man, you should "trust the people" and try one the next time you buy. Isn't it worth a little more to you to own a "Deere" than to pay your money for a plow less reliable, less durable and less satisfactory, even at a little less first cost?
