Little Ladies' Summer Dresses

LABOR with what zeal they may, something still remains for mothers to make for their little ones, but the work is not much of a task when the matter of material and style are decided on. In materials we find plain chambray, small plaid and checked gingham, light and dark satens, dotted swisses, voiles, organdies and taffetas, all in pretty, live colors (with a spice of black and navy blue) make up the color story as told by the shops; chambrays, gingham and satens for utility clothes; organdies, swisses and taffetas for special occasions.

For the small fry, from two to six years old, rompers divide favor with dresses and the latter are provided with bloomers or short pants to match. Nothing is in greater favor than amusing little peg-top bloomers of plain chambray, in blue, green, light brown or other colors, made with round neck and elbow sleeves. Very simple stitchery is the usual finish for them. Dresses with bloomers to match are cut either in the smock pattern with small yoke, or with a short bodice and knee-length skirt. A pretty model appears at the left of the two shown above, made in this way. White lawn is much used for collars and cuffs and colored floss provides cross stitch or outline embellishment and sometimes quaint, small flower motifs. Odd-shaped pockets are featured on all sorts of dresses.

The pretty dress at the right might be made up in white or light colors. A strap decoration on the shoulders and at the front and back at the waist line invites an embellishment which appears in a little simple embroidery. Button-holed slashes at the ends of the waist straps allow a sash to slip through them, tied in a buoyant bow, with loops and ends at the left side.

The very young ladies' spring and summer frocks, for dress-up wear, are most enticing when made of organdy in gay colors. Little ruffles of organdy trim them but their chief glory is found in small clusters of organdy flowers, in several colors, posed on each pocket, or on the girdle. There are many long-waisted frocks and gay ribbons add their enchantment to the other delightful details of organdy, swiss or batiste dresses. Dark blue or black taffetas have allurements in embroidery as clusters of red silk cherries or cross-stitch patterns in colored silks.

HAD BROUGHT ANOTHER LOAD

Colored Tobacco Grower Knew What Was Expected of Him, and Had Come Prepared.

A colored man from Kentucky drove to a loose leaf tobacco sales warehouse in one of the Indiana cities on the Ohio with a load of tobacco.

When he received his sales slip and weights he noticed the customary bank check was missing.

Approaching the cashier he said: "Look here, boss, where is my money for this here tobacco?" The sales sheet was consulted.

"It's like this: the expenses for weighing, unloading and commission for selling your tobacco amounted to more than the tobacco was worth. You still owe us just 50 cents," explained the cashier.

"Well, that's all right, I guess, but I ain't got a cent with me."

"Then next time you are coming over the river, just bring along a chicken with you and we will call the deal square."

Within a week the colored man appeared in the office with two chickens, one under each arm.

"Here are the chickens."

"Sure—but you didn't have to bring two of them, one would have paid the bill."

"Yes, boss, but I've brought another load of tobacco."—Indianapolis News.

STRUGGLES ALONG ON $80,000

University of Pennsylvania Law Student Who Receives Huge Income Lives in Modest Fashion.

"Wanted, a stenographer of unimpeachable character, experienced in shorthand and taking dictation, who will be willing to devote her Sundays to indexing and preparing the cases of a struggling law student at the University of Pennsylvania."

This is the model of stenographic ability required by the university's richest student, John Jeffries V of England, who is "struggling" only in so far as his law work goes, for he came to this country with the mere trifle of $80,000 a year on which to live, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Jeffries, who is a second-year student, already has one stenographer, but his earnest delving into the intricacies of Blackstone and his lik require more assistance and he is now looking for a suitable young woman to add to his staff.

The young Englishman, who is the fifth direct descendant of John Temple, governor general of Ireland, and has three cousins in the house of lords, is popular among his classmates, who declare that he is quite democratic, in spite of the burden of his wealth. He lives quietly and unpretentiously, and nothing in his mode of living seems to indicate that he spends every a half of $80,000 allowed him.

Japanese Remain Buddhists.

That 80 per cent of the Japanese living in the sugar plantation camps of Hawaii never have been touched by Christian propaganda, and that American plantation owners, managers and others who have helped support Japanese Buddhist missions, "did a foolish thing, if ever man did," were two of the statements made by Rev. Ulysses G. Murphy, representative of the American Bible society, in a recent address at Honolulu.

Rev. Mr. Murphy also, said that the elder generation of Japanese living in the plantation camps, owing to their isolation, are forty years behind their native country in thought and understanding of modern conditions.

Any attempt at Americanization of the Japanese in Hawaii which leaves untouched their home life and fails to recognize that the key to the problem is the Japanese language schools is foredoomed to failure, Rev. Mr. Murphy declared.

Almost Had It.

One of the Terre Haute ward schools was having a contest in seeing which children could learn the airs of a number of standard songs so they could tell their names when they heard a few bars of the melody played.

After "Home, Sweet Home" and "Old Black Joe" had been played several times the teacher put on the record "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms." It was played a few minutes and she began to look expectantly at the children.

Then a fair little youngster looked triumphantly up from the list of songs he had in his hand. "Oh, it's that believe me in tears all about your charms," he hazarded.—Indianapolis News.

Limitations.

As a general thing, when it comes up that a woman has to ask a man to guess her age she expects him to be at least a gentleman.—Dallas News.

BUICK

Beating the Southern Pacific's Fastest Limited

The kind of going Buick encountered may be deduced from this picture of a rear wheel of the Buick at one stage of the trip.

The Shasta Limited is the fastest train traveling over the 751 miles of magnificent track between San Francisco and Portland.

But Buick clipped 44 minutes off the best time ever made by this train.

A stock 1921 Buick Coupe on January 7th and 8th performed this remarkable feat. Conquering frozen roads and mud holes, winding mountain roads and rocky canyons, Buick once again demonstrated its characteristic inbuilt power, endurance and reliability.

The time of 29 hours, 16 minutes has never been equalled in a trip on land between these two Pacific Coast cities.

FIGURED IN NAPOLEON'S LIFE

Woman Set Down in History as One of the Most Beautiful of His Many Conquests.

Napoleon's life was one of fair women, but among them all few were more beautiful and more heartless than Marguerite Bellisle Foyes. Napoleon saw her in Cairo where she was honeymooning with Lieut. Foyes, having accompanied him in disguise on the transport. Napoleon promptly sent Foyes to Paris with alleged important dispatches and began to make love to the bride. He was successful, and she moved to a cottage near the palace. The English captured her husband and, knowing of Napoleon's acts in Cairo, they promptly sent Foyes back there, knowing he would seek revenge.

But he was a drop of water against the power of Napoleon. His wife was given a divorce, and he was sent to an obscure town in rural France. She then began to parade her capture, dressed in costly costumes, wore Napoleon's picture on a chain about her neck, and was with him constantly. His soldiers dubbed her "Cleopatra." When Josephine made up with Napoleon, and he was elevated to head France, he left the fair Marguerite, although he gave her a small fortune. He also arranged a marriage for her with Henri de Ranchoup. Her husband was out of town much of the time, and she entertained with more brilliancy than discretion. She ended up by running away to Brazil with a young officer, where she lived happy and content until she was ninety-two years old.—Detroit News.

SUNSET TO MIDNIGHT ELECTRIC SIGNS

You quit selling goods at 6 o'clock (or thereabouts.) So do your clerks.

But the rent does not quit.

And your taxes do not quit.

And your insurance does not quit.

Moreover the people do not go to bed at 6.

Why not let an electric sign and brightly lighted windows, illuminated with electricity, go on selling goods for you after 6?

All through the evening in fact.

Why not—

The very people you want to reach—the purchasers—have no time to be on the street except evenings.

That is the time they roam about, looking, seeing, formulating and deciding on their purchases.

People do not have to hunt up your electric sign. It hunts them up like a search light.

It is seen from afar.

It talks to folks all along the street.

They do not have to decipher it, either.

It burns its message into them quickly, pleasantly, deeply and surely.

And mark you, they will remember it, and you and your location, after they have gone home.

Once more then, we ask, "How about Sunset to Midnight?"—May we send our representative to help you decide?
