OREGON WEATHER

Tonight and Wednesday fair, moderate northwest winds.

JOSEPHINE MINING

Josephine county has become famous for her mines and for the variety of minerals lying in the mountains. These minerals are awaiting only the development of the industry, which will bring increased prosperity to Southern Oregon. Mines cannot be developed without capital, the distance of the mines from the railroad, and in many instances from a highway, making the cost so high that they cannot be more than scratched. The necessity of inducing men with money to become interested in this section is realized.

Recently a mineral exhibit was sent to Portland and entered as a feature of the Portland mining congress. The showing attracted much attention, especially a number of gold bars, which excited the curiosity of even well known mining men. The Josephine exhibit was pronounced a great success and did much to direct attention to the wonderful mineral resources of this part of the state. An exhibit in Chicago is planned during the convention there of mining men of the world. An invitation has been extended to mining men of Josephine to send enough minerals to make a showing. The director of the exposition, who saw the Portland exhibit, said that the local showing was as good as any that can be sent in. This means much, for there will be exhibits from Mexico, Canada, Alaska and other great mining centers. If Josephine county can be represented at Chicago, it would be a great boost for the Southern Oregon mining industry.

TEST EGGS AT LEAST TWICE

Make inspection on Seventh and Fourteenth Days for Those Infertile or With Dead Germs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

It is of little profit for a hen to sit patiently for 21 days if the eggs over which she fluffs her feathers are infertile or if the germs in them have died. Neither does it pay to run an incubator for three weeks, with its attendant care and expense, if the eggs in it are not fertile.

All poultry owners who raise chicks should be thoroughly familiar with the method of testing eggs. An egg, whether it is fertile or not, has a small grayish spot, known as the germinal spot, on the surface of the yolk. As soon as a fertile egg is placed under a hen or in an incubator the development of the germ begins. All eggs should be tested at least twice during the incubation period, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. This is done preferably on the seventh and fourteenth days. The infertile eggs, and those with dead germs, should then be removed. White-shell eggs can be tested on the fourth or fifth day, whereas the development of eggs having brown shells often can not be seen by the use of the ordinary egg tester until the seventh day.

A satisfactory home-made egg tester or candler can be made with a shoe box or any other box large enough to hold the lamp. Cut a hole a little larger than a 25-cent piece in the side of the box, so that when the lamp is placed inside the box the hole in the side will be opposite the flame. Make a hole also in the top of the box large enough to prevent the top from catching fire from the heat of the lamp. When the chimney is long enough, allow it to extend through the top of the box. This permits the heat to escape and avoids the risk of fire. Special care should always be exercised in using kerosene lamps in candleing to prevent fire. To prevent further possibility of fire, a wooden box may be used in place of a pasteboard one, and, if desired, the opening through which the chimney extends may be lined with tin or asbestos.

Electric or gas lamps may be used in a box with a hole in the same way that the kerosene lamp is used. The hole which is in the side of the box should be on the same level as the light. The eggs may also be tested by sunlight or daylight, using a shade or curtain with a hole in it for the light to shine through.

Testing with a tester or candler should be done in a dark room. Hold each egg with the large end up, so that the size of the air cell may be seen, as well as the condition of the embryo or germ. An infertile egg when candled looks perfectly clear, the same as a fresh one; while a fertile egg shows a dark spot known as the embryo, with a mass of little blood veins radiating in all directions. When the germ is dead, and the egg has been incubated for at least 48 hours, the blood settles away from the embryo toward the edges of the yolk, forming in some cases an irregular circle of blood, known as a blood ring. Eggs vary in this respect, some showing only a streak of blood.

All infertile eggs and those with dead germs, should be removed at the end of the first test. Eggs with dead germs soon decay and give off a bad odor if allowed to remain. The infertile eggs make good feed for young chickens.

At the second test, on the fourteenth day, the eggs containing strong, living embryos will be dark and well filled up, showing a clear, sharp, distinct line between the air cell and the growing embryo, while eggs with dead germs will show only partial development and lack this clear, distinct outline.

The period of incubation for hen's eggs is 21 days, but usually some of the eggs hatch the evening of the twentieth day. Sometimes it happens, however, that the hatch will run over the twenty-first day, especially during cool weather.

Water is Essential.

One dozen eggs contain about one pint of water. Clean, fresh, pure water should be kept constantly before the hens and should be renewed at least once daily, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

DOGS AND PONIES ARE TO FEATURE BIG CIRCUS

Saturday is to be circus day in Grants Pass when the famous Lew F. Collins dog and pony circus will present their show on the lots at the corner of H and Fifth streets on Saturday, July 30, and afternoon and evening show to be given.

"This is the first dog and pony circus to pay us a visit in some time," the advance agent said today. "And it goes without saying that it will be a welcome attraction."

"Children are always pleased to see the show, and it is claimed this show has more trained dogs, ponies, goats and monkeys than any similar organization entour." Aerial, rope-spinning and novelty acts will be offered in conjunction with the animal program, it is announced.

A big troupe of clowns will "cut-up" for the benefit of young and old, and make the affair a complete tent-show performance.

EXPERTS WILL INVESTIGATE SO-CALLED SEA LION MENACE

San Francisco, July 26.—(A. P.)—To settle a long standing controversy as to whether sea lions eat enough salmon to diminish materially the food supply of California, Professor E. C. Sparks of the zoology department of Stanford university has undertaken an investigation for the commercial fisheries department of the California Fish and Game Commission.

Fishermen show mutilated salmon bodies as evidence of their contention that when fish gather in schools around the mouths of rivers preparatory to ascending for spawning purposes, the sea lions gather and devour them in large numbers.

The work will be done mostly in Monterey Bay. If the investigation proves that the sea lions are a menace to the salmon industry, the commission hopes to obtain consent of the government to keep the sea lion population down to a safe total by regulated killing.
