THE PRICE OF ARMAMENTS

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, the appropriations made for the maintenance of the national government totaled nearly $6,000,000, of which one quarter went for the army and navy and 67 per cent went to pay for past wars. In other words, 92 per cent of the money raised by taxation in the United States by the national government went to pay for war or to prepare for it. As long as all the other nations are doing the same thing, the United States does not dare to cease, but must keep just ahead in the equipping of an army and navy.

With the increases in the outlay for armaments, no increases in proportion for education or the promotion of peace are noted. For the primary functions of government $181,000,000 was expended, or about 3.2 per cent of the whole. For public works of every description, the government paid out $168,000,000. For research and educational development, the nation lavished the sum of $57,093,660, or 1.001 per cent of the whole sum expended. For every dollar spent for the education of the youth of America, $93 was spent preparing for war or paying for past ones.

Americans are looking forward with hope to the disarmament conference called by President Harding. Many American statesmen assert that if the coming conference shall prove as successful as it is reasonable to expect the proportions of our future expenditures will be reversed; that for ordinary governmental functions, for good roads, public buildings, capacious harbors, irrigation projects, reclamation of swamp lands, pensioning the aged, educational work, scientific research, and the like, we shall expend 93 per cent of the whole, and for the armament of such a police force as may be decided upon, 7 per cent. It is recognized that this objective cannot be fully attained for many years.

however, for the wars of the past must first be settled for.

President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are indulging in no Utopian dreams as to what may be accomplished, but are proceeding about their task in a thoroughly practical and business-like way.
They know that complete disarmament is not possible in the present day and age, but they believe that if the great powers of the world get round a table and face the facts squarely they can come to some agreement which will make possible a material reduction in armaments, thus enabling the various governments to lift from the shoulders of the people a part of the enormous burden of taxation which they now bear.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL

C. L. Towers, of Roseburg, has been spending a number of days in the city visiting friends. He will return this evening.

C. D. Littooy has arrived from Tacoma to be present at a meeting of the directors of the Boswell mining company. Mr. Norden is on the way here from Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wharton came down Saturday evening from Roseburg to spend the day here with Mr. Wharton's brother, Joe Wharton. They were met here by their daughter, Miss Florence War-ton, who has been visiting in Klamath Falls. They returned home yesterday evening.

Deer Season to Open—

The opening of the deer season, Saturday, August 20, will find many hunters in the hills, a large number making preparations for the trip.
The deer are reported to be plentiful and appear to be in excellent condition, feed having been good throughout the county.

Committees Will Meet—

The committees having in charge the financing and building of the new community building to be constructed on the county fair grounds adjoining the Riverside and Auto parks, will meet at the courthouse this evening at 8 o'clock, and all interested citizens are also invited and urged to be present to make final plans for the campaign for subscriptions. Plans for the fair and for the character of structure to be built for the community building will be discussed. Much interest in the proposed building is being aroused.

Smoke Comes From Powers—

The thick fog of smoke over the valley today is being blown into the interior from Powers, is the belief of Forest Supervisor E. H. MacDaniels. There are no fires in the Sla-kiyou forest at the present time, the forest lookouts reporting that the smoke is apparently from the coast, coming from the direction of Powers.
It is thought that they may be burning slashings on the coast.

Children Fed Ether to Beat H. C. of Eating

Westfield, Mass.—As the result of investigation by the school authorities, who learned that young children are receiving sugar lumps, soaked in ether, to reduce their appetites, Superintendent Chester D.
Stiles took up the matter with state educational and health authorities.

Ether may be bought in any quantity by a child in any drug store. Children, when questioned, said that the ether was given them by their parents to lower the cost of living and also to quiet those who got holsterous.

Knitted Wear to the Fore

IT IS surprising that someone did not think of it sooner, now that knitted skirts, suits and one-piece frocks have supplemented the indispensable sweater and scarf. The knitted cape made its entry this season and bids fair already to divide honors with the sweater. These capes are made in both quiet and high colors, with deep collars of angora wool, in white or colors and are worn as sweater and sweater-coats are, by young and old.
They are a distinct asset in the wardrobe, and have come to stay for some time. The introduction of accordion pleating in these knitted garments means a great deal, in additional beauty and "class," to them.

One of the new models in knitted suits is shown in the picture above, which succeeds in being so explicit that words are hardly needed to describe it. The skirt and coat are bordered with narrow stripes knitted in a contrasting color. The scarf and the belt are not plaited and are knitted in a plain stitch without the dropstitch crossbar which elaborates the skirt and coat. Detachable scarfs to match, or attached collars that are extended into scarf ends, as in the suit shown here, are among the late offerings in suits of this kind. The coat contrives a practical pair of inconspicuous pockets and serves as a sweater-coat with other skirts.

These knitted clothes are made for outdooring and have caught the attention of women everywhere. They are smart and dependable and are already being made in silk and silk fiber, which will land them among the best-liked of summer belongings. They have the informal character in company with elegance and beautiful color which has made the sweater-coat a universal favorite.

WAS UNABLE TO PLACE
VATICAN ON WAR BASIS

Rome, Aug. 6.—(A. P.)—Colonel Repond, who was called to be commander of the Swiss Guards at the Vatican during the pontificate of Pius X and who gained considerable distinction because of his efforts to place the 70 soldiers who compose the guard on a "war footing," has resigned. Pope Benedict has appointed Colonel Hirschbuhl, the next senior officer of the corps, to succeed him.

Colonel Repond was an officer of the Swiss regular army and came to the Vatican under the impression that he could give the pope's body guard a more martial spirit. They were put on strict military discipline, aroused at 4:30 o'clock in the morning and put through drills in the most rigid fashion. The 70 men were taken out on the Belvedere court inside the Vatican gardens and given maneuvers.

One day, Colonel Repond had an audience with his holiness Pius X and laid before him plans for the fortifying of the Vatican. These included the placing of cannon on the roof of St. Peter's. The holy father looked upon the colonel, smiling one of his benign smiles, and said:

"Cannon? What far Not to shoot!"

"No, your holiness," replied the colonel.

"Well, then?" interrogated the venerable pontiff.

The colonel did not answer and he was excused.

Colonel Repond had also issued to the Swiss Guards a certain amount of ammunition. One day a guard began shooting near the barracks.
The reports stirred the whole Vatican. The issue of cartridges was ordered prohibited and the guards deprived of those they still had.

This was the last attempt of the colonel to institute war tactics. The guards continue to use the 15th century halberd when on duty.

Aliens Try to Evade

sengers, eight big trans-Atlantic liners due late in July calmly delayed their arrival in New York until the first of the month. One, the Megali Hellas, a Greek liner, with 130 Americans aboard, arrived off Fire Island July 29 and, despite the rage and hair tearing of the United States citizens dropped anchor and stayed there, just outside the three-mile limit, until August dawned.

Several other liners, one big one from Italy among them, followed suit. On the strike of midnight, when July became August, there was a grand rush across the line. With a tooting of whistles the immigrant-bearing cavalcade swept down upon Ellis Island. Their passengers would have been in excess of the first month's quota, but this was August now, and that was another matter.

It is reasonable to suppose, immigration officials say, that this performance will be repeated around September 1 and again the first of each month until at midnight, November 30, the last grand rush begins.

AMUSEMENTS

"Scrap Iron" at the Rivoli For those who delight in a tense dramatic story, for those who love a good fight, for those who appreciate filial affection, and for all others who like strong, clean entertainment, a treat is being offered by the Rivoli theater in the showing of "Scrap Iron," starring Charles Ray.
It is a First National attraction and will remain at the Rivoli two more days.

Ray has done some of the most amusing stories that have ever been shown on the screen. In "Scrap Iron," however, he goes farther in portraying a role which abounds with strong pathos and tense emotional work. His performance of the role of John Steel is perfect, and between the dramatic situations there is enough of his peculiar droll humor to satisfy even the most ardent Ray enthusiast.

A special added comedy attraction on the same program features Larry Semon, in "The Stage Hand."
