Just running into small fortunes of values. This portion of the exposition held last week was particularly creditable, and the yellow lunks of wealth attracted much attention. The mineral exhibit could well be made a permanent one as soon as the building is completed as planned, and a most comprehensive showing of the ores of the district could be maintained for the daily inspection of visitors. Not the nuggets, of course, which would be a constant lure for the Gardner type of bandit, but the ore bodies that hold their fortunes for the mining man who has capital to develop them. Many comprehensive exhibits of Southern Oregon ores have been assembled in the past, but lack of permanent housing has allowed them to become dissipated and lost.

While there is complaint from many directions that men can not find employment, in the Grants Pass district there is no occasion for such complaint. Industry has been active during all the past year, and there is yet a demand that will give every competent laborer a job if he wants it. Another call has come from the Savage Rapids dam, and with the wage scale the equal of that in any other portion of the territory, local people who can should aid in hastening the completion of this work. There is a patriotic as well as a financial incentive for helping build this great dam.

Instinct of Birds. There is little reason to doubt that a migrating bird knows the difference between north and south, so that when the nightjar, for instance, is leaving Africa for England, it begins its homeward journey by going due north. Now it does not follow that any nightjar ever intentionally flew straight from Africa to England. He may easily make a mistake and find himself in France. But France, being just as suited to his purposes, the matter may be settled right there and he may drop down in the woods near Paris.

Just a Hint for Grandma. Hazel was spending a few days with her grandma. But grandma, not being used to it, forgot the good-night kiss when bedtime came, until she was reminded of it on the second night in this wise. Just as she turned away after tucking the little one in bed, a plaintive, homesick voice said: "My mamma always kisses me when she puts me to bed."

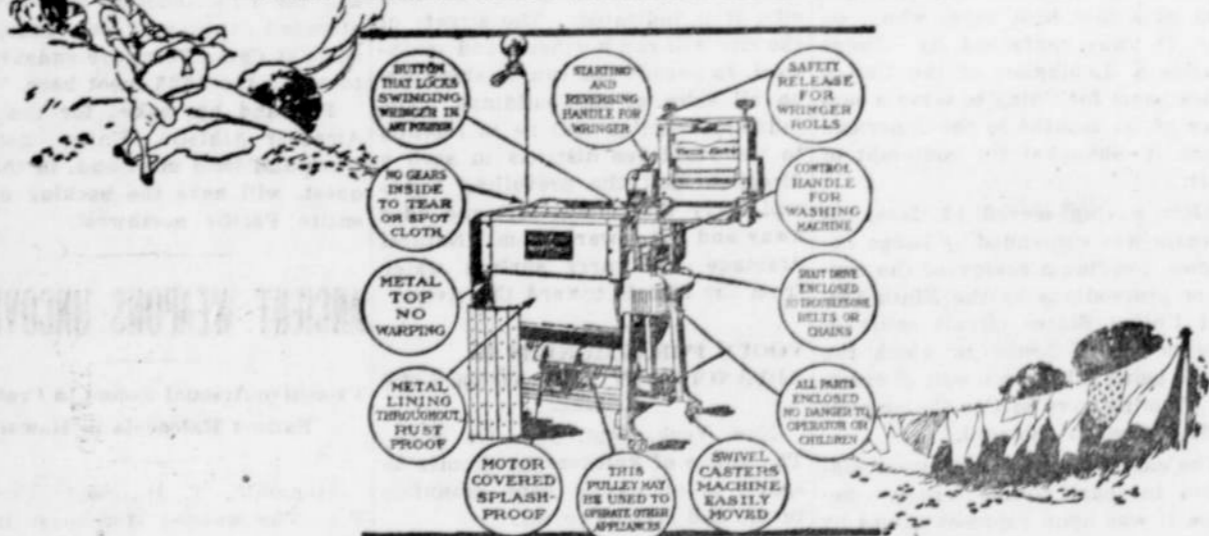

The Situation. "The widower says his poor children need a new mother." "He's going to have a hard time to convince 'em. The youngest of his children is eighteen, and the prospective new mother, I believe, is about that age."—Louisville Courier-Journal

For the Best Essay or Article Answering the Above Question

Letters must be short and concise, not over 300 words. They should be neatly written, simple in composition and easily understood by the average person. Letters are to be delivered to our store not later than October 1st and all are to become the property of Paul's Electric Store. They will be judged by a disinterested representative of the Western Electric Company of Seattle. In case more than one paper is deserving of first prize, the same award will be given to each.

Prizes Will be Given on October 3rd

During this campaign we are offering a special proposition on Western Electric Washers. They can be purchased for $5.00 down and 12 nominal monthly payments. Booklets with descriptive matter showing the 12 superior points of the Western Electric Washer may be had at our store, where you will also be shown this machine in operation.

This Western Electric Washer campaign will start September 19th and will close October 8th. During the three weeks special demonstration, we intend to show the exceptional features of the Western Electric Washer. We will prove that this washer while saving time and labor actually saves money too, paying for itself in one year. Come in before wash day and see the machine in operation.

WHEN you substitute electrical hands to wash your clothes in place of human hands, you'll find that it's the cleanest way and the quickest way. It might be added that it's also the surest way and the safest. No wear or tear on either you or your clothes.

Just put your clothes in the wooden cylinder of the Western Electric Washing Machine, and let it do your washing for you. It will even wring the clothes.

You'll want to see for yourself the superior points of this washing machine.
