SAVAGE TIRES

HISTORY OF THE RED MAN SERIES

THE ONE-WAY TRAIL

BY "INDIAN" MILLER

There is an old Indian trail that leads up and down, up and down, that they call the old Apache trail. Many Indians traveled that trail, and it was the cause of many wars; and the white bones that lay along it were pleasing to the eye of the buzzard.

Proud warriors of different tribes would meet on that trail; and neither party would step aside for the other to pass. There was no courtesy in their intercourse.

One would shout, "Get off the trail, dog of the desert!" and in a moment there would be a deadly fight. The vanquished would feed the buzzards, leaving bleached bones upon the trail. So white became the most pleasing color to the eye of the buzzard.

Then the wise men of various tribes held a powwow and made a treaty. By its terms the trail could only be traveled in one direction, so that all went in the same way on it and all meetings were thereby avoided. That is the way the wise men cheated the buzzards, which are deceived to this day by the white rocks along the trail.

The white men have now built a road on parts of the old Apache trail; and they have built it on the wisdom of the wise men of the Indians, for it is merely two trails side by side, leading in opposite directions, and each is a trail of one way. They always travel on the side next to the right hand.

There are no more wars on the trails; but the trails still hold the challenge. It is not a challenge to the foot or to the hoof—it is a challenge to the tire, and the weakest is left to the buzzard. The best alone can answer the challenge, and prominent among them is the Savage Cord. On the rocky trails of the mountains; on the smooth pavements of the cities; on the heated roads of the sandy desert; over the mud and stones of the land of forests; and over the broad highways of the plains, has this wonderful tire been tried and not found wanting. It is Built to Excel.
