AMUSEMENTS

Blanche Sweet at the Rivoli Today "That Girl Montana," a pleturization of the novel of the same name by Marah Eilis in which Blanche Sweet is starred, will be the attraction at the Rivoli theater today and until tomorrow night.

Briefly, the store is of a girl who seeks to free herself from a life of crime she detests. In her efforts, she finds the man she had facred was not her father but tin horn gambler who had run away with her mother.

She finds her father, a just fate befalls the viliain and the girl and her hero are at last free to begin life

There are some real thrills in "That Girl Montana" and the action is! smooth and fast. It is rich in hamen interest and the love theme is tender and pretty.

The locale is laid in the Kootenal country, which extends for miles along the Canadian boundary line, with British columbia on one side and Idaho and Montana on the other.

HISTORY OF THE RED MAN SERIES

THE CONTEST BY "INDIAN" MILLER

In the olden days the different tribes of the Southwest were proud of the prowess of their braves. There was one tribe in those days which excelled all others. Their medicine man was a great prophet and a wise man. He said in the council, "We are few, but the great tribes shall fear us." "How can it be so?" asked the old men. "Leave it to me,"

He knew all the boys of his tribe. He had from day to day. He had chastised them when they needed punishment; and he had encouraged them when they needed sym-

With splendid judgment he picked three of the boys who were about fifteen. They were named Swift Eagle, Mountain Lion and Turkey Feather.

To Swift Eagle he said, "Every morning you must run around Thunder Mountain before your prayers." To Mountain Lion he said, "Every morning you must carry a stone to the top of Thunder Mountain before your prayers." And to Turkey Feather he said, "Every morning you must shoot an arrow into the target on Thunder Mountain before your pr: jers."

Each did as he told them each morning. To Swift Eagle he would say, "Now run faster," or "Now run twice around Thunder Mountain." For Mountain Lion he would select a heavier stone. To Turkey Feather he would say, "Stand back farther to shoot."

At the end of a year Swift Eagle was runplayed with them and made them pretty ning ten times around Thunder Mountain at things from the time they were babies; he great speed; Mountain Lion was carrying a had felt their muscles and watched them play stone as large as himself to the top of the mountain; and Turkey Feather was shooting the target on top of the mountain as far as he could see it. The medicine man was pleased. Then he challenged all the neighboring tribes to a contest in running, in strength and in archery. Confident in victory over this small village each of the tribes sent its best men, each boasting of their prowess.

> To their chagrin they were all badly beaten by Swift Eagle, Mountain Lion, and Turkey Feather. The little village enjoyed peace for many years, for other tribes feared the prowess of its warriors.

> Wise men of the Spreckels "Savage" Tire Company have decreed that no better tire shall be made than theirs. In their fabric D type tire they build with years of experience in that particular branch of tire construction. In their new Cord tire they have embodied the select of recent methods and the latest in cord tire improvements. And so Savage Tires are feared by the warriors of other tribes for their excellence and performance in competition with the pick of other
