Arrangements for transportation will be made at the meeting Monday evening.

Savage Rapids Irrigation

good enough—stick to it," he said in closing.

Bert Anderson, representing the state fish commission, briefly outlined the work of the commission, and urged the destruction of the old Ament dam, down the river from the new project, as it hindered the fish from going up stream to spawn. He finished with the remark that he was present to dedicate the new fishway to the perpetuity of the finny tribes of the Rogue.

Representing the Anglo London & Paris bank, of San Francisco, J. W. Harrison, vice president of that institution, spoke briefly. The basis of his talk was of the benefits to be obtained from irrigation. He quoted figures from California projects for the past 20 years, showing the rise in land values, increases in production and population under irrigation.

Nearly 150 invited persons were guests of the Shattuck Construction company for a lunch served at the company's mess hall at noon.

Many of those responding to requests for a few words by Wilford Allen, secretary of the irrigation district, who presided as toast master.

E. O. McCormick, of San Francisco, vice president of the Southern Pacific system, urged cooperation, both in tilling the soil and in marketing the produce. He also urged the community to put the Marble Halls of Oregon to work, that they might draw tourists to the community.

Others who responded were Fred Hesse, of Portland, who spoke of Southern Oregon as the playground of the west; L. Quinby, Portland, briefly described the engineering features of the dam; Jerome H. Fertig, who had charge of the Ochoho project in Eastern Oregon, told of the construction from his point of view as project engineer; E. S. Shattuck, of San Francisco, in charge of the construction, remarked that he thought everyone connected with the project was glad the "dam" job was completed.

Mayors of three cities, C. E. Gates, Medford, C. B. Lamkin, Ashland, and C. H. Demaray, Grants Pass, were called upon for a few words. Robert Howard, represented the Portland Chamber of Commerce, and told of the necessity of cooperation for success. Addison Bennett, veteran newspaper man of Portland, declared that in spite of his many years, he could not but remark of previous speakers, E. J. Carrillo, superintendent in charge, publicly thanked the members of the company who worked under him during the construction of the dam.

Selections by a local male quartet were given at various times during pauses in the speaking.

Three members of the board of directors of the district were introduced, and made a few remarks. There were Charles Smith, president of the board, George Hamilton and George Feldmaier.

Among distinguished out-of-town visitors at the celebration were to be seen M. R. McLeod of San Francisco, J. W. Harrison of San Francisco, A. J. Barnes of Portland, J. B. Ranson of Portland, F. G. Lewis and I. T. Sparks of Eugene, L. A. Williams of Portland, M. Montgomery of Medford, Robert Howard of Portland, Bert Groer of Ashland, L. C. Toas of San Francisco, W. L. Wither of Medford, O. H. Barnhill of Ashland, Dr. J. S. Moore of Portland, O. L. Clough of Portland, E. O. McCormick of San Francisco, W. J. Kerr of Corvallis, J. H. Mulehay of Portland, Percy Cupper of Salem, Fred Hesse of Portland, C. E. Strickland of Salem, J. A. Ormandy of Portland, Ben C. Sheldon of Medford, C. J. Buck of Portland, Addison Bennett of Portland, C. E. Gates of Medford, C. B. Lamkin of Ashland, L. Quinby of Portland, H. W. Webber of Crescent City and Mr. Gard and Turner from the Deschutes country.

Local citizens who were prominent in the celebration were Wilford Allen, Sam Baker, Charles Smith, Geo. Hamilton, George Feldmaier and C. H. Demaray.

CONDITION IN FAR EAST BETTER

Economic Situation Shows Improvement Says a Former Premier

Riga, Nov. 5.—(A. P.)—The economic position of the Far Eastern republic with headquarters in Chita has much improved lately, affirms A. T. Krasnotchekoff, formerly a Chicago lawyer, and until recently premier of that republic.

Interviewed in Moscow by the newspaper, Novy Put he said:

"Government undertakings are approaching the level of pre-war production. The republic has nationalized only industrial enterprises of state importance or owned by enemies. Private external and internal trading is legalized. Finance is based on the free circulation of gold and silver rubles, while 1,000 paper rubles equal 10 copeks, gold. (A copek normally was 1-100 part of a ruble).

"At the head of the foreign, war and home departments are communists. A powerful revolutionary army safeguards the republic's independence, assisted by red guerilla troops which combined, constitute a considerable force.

"The increasing number of applications made for gold and lumber concessions indicate the favorable opinion entertained abroad of our resources. Many proposals have also been received from Japanese capitalists seeking concessions, but the republic is disinclined to entertain them until its territory is cleared of Japanese troops."
