Suspended Animation. Insects which spend most of their lives in a torpid or semi-torpid condition are seldom injured and never killed by being frozen. There are numerous instances of travelers in mountain regions having found beetles and butterflies above the snow line which were stiff, frozen and apparently dead. When carried down to the warmer air in the valley, however, they revived in a very short time.

BACK YARDS MADE BETTER

Contest Spurs Boys and Girls of Findlay to Beautify Their Home Surroundings.

More than 100 back yards of Findlay, O., now look better than most Findlay front yards as a result of an idea of Council President Frank J. Collingwood, whose hobby is attractive environments for the home.

Mr. Collingwood enlisted the support of the local Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce in what he termed a "better back yard" contest as a means of heightening juvenile interest in Findlay by improved yards and home surroundings, and at the same time bettering the community's outside appearance.

A list of eleven prizes was announced for the contest—one a grand prize for either a boy or girl, five for boys and five for girls. Mr. Collingwood himself furnished the money for the prizes, to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The Chamber of Commerce took charge of the routine of the contest and when the lists closed for entrants there were a score more than 100 in the race for the coveted awards.

The contest lasted a little over a month, in which miracle transformations were wrought in many back yards in the city, by the youthful contestants. Working entirely alone, boys and girls in many instances, the judges reported, had to start with nothing but dump heaps, rough, weed-covered plots and the like. But hoes, rakes and spades, coupled with a generous amount of energy and above all a desire to win one of the eleven prizes, brought results, which were remarkable, according to the judges.

In making the awards, it wasn't alone the neatness of the yards that counted, but the condition of the yard at the start was taken into consideration as well and the progress that was made had a great deal to do with the award. Gardens were a part of the required work.

"There must be some real value in yard beautification, or large concerns wouldn't spend thousands of dollars in it every year," said Mr. Collingwood in presenting the prizes. "In fact, I am told it does pay real interest on the investment in better satisfied employees who like attractive environments in which to work."

Patricia needed a town hall. Being only two years old, this was a problem to the infant village in the southern Alberta prairies. Ways and means were discussed. It was finally decided to build it with potatoes.

Twenty acres were plowed and planted to spuds. Breaking the land, seeding and cultivating were all done by volunteers. Everybody took a hand. The community potato patch now promises a heavy crop.

The entire town tends it. When the first potato plant peeped above ground it was a municipal event. The town fathers called a mass meeting to take action when a vagrant rooster scratched up a plant. Discovery of a weed that had escaped the community hoed caused as much excitement as a fire alarm. The potato patch is looked after as tenderly as if it were the town's baby.

Two years ago the entire country about Patricia was open prairie with not a human habitation in the round of the horizon. The first house was built in 1919. Today there are 20,000 acres under cultivation.

Seed Pearls Used as Medicine. For the low class of seed pearls there is a constant demand among Oriental physicians and apothecaries, who grind them into a powder and administer it to patients as a cure for many ills.
