MANY PASS EIGHTH GRADE EXAMINATIONS

An unusually large number of pupils completed the eighth grade this spring. There was a very small percentage of failures and nearly all of these will take the next state examinations given June 7 and 8. While some of these pupils will enter the small high schools in the county the indications at present are that the Grants Pass high school will receive most of them. A total of 74 were successful.

Interest in the high school work is growing very materially in the county, states Alice M. Bacon, county school superintendent. Very few pupils plan on quitting school on the

GIVE "OLD PEOPLE'S PARTY"

Iceland Young Folk Hold Entertainment Once a Year, and Call it Gamainnansamati.

What a word! Translated it means "old people's party"—an institution that is held once a year round Christmas in the little fishing town of Isafjord in Iceland. The party, which is given by a union of 90 young people, is the one big event in the lives of the old people of the place. They begin to talk about it in March, and it is their chief topic of conversation until December. Early in the year, too, the 90 members of the union begin to make preparations, for, as there are to be between 300 and 400 old people, much preliminary work is necessary. For example, the young men and women must see that good "party" clothes are provided for all the old people who need them; it would not do for them to go in shabby clothes. The party must have an air of prosperity as well as good cheer.

The festival starts at five o'clock in the evening and does not close until on the following morning. First there is a big tea. Then when all are satisfied and things have been cleared away comes a play, which the old people dearly love; then there is a concert, during which all the old Icelandic and Danish songs are sung. After the concert the young men and women play games with the old people, and then wind up with all the old-fashioned dances. And they must see that each old person has at least one dance with some member of the union.

During the war the old people would often ask anxiously: "Will there be a party this year?" For they realized that it was almost impossible to get fruit of any kind or the sugar with which to make the great variety of little cakes of which the old people are so fond. "Oh, yes," was the customary answer, "the party will take place at the usual time." And it did, for the 90 young members denied themselves sugar and fruit so that the old people would not be disappointed.—Youth's Companion.

USE OLD ROMAN RESERVOIRS

Sources of Water Supply Constructed Centuries Ago Employed by People of the Holy Land.

The Pools of Solomon—which have nothing to do with that monarch except that they are located near the gardens named for him—were constructed by Roman engineers to supply a population that must have been much the size of that which occupies the Holy land today. They consist of three large reservoirs with a total capacity of 40,500,000 gallons, and are situated about eight miles from the capital.

Two have been cleaned out, the leaks that have developed during centuries of disuse have been stopped up, and Jerusalem has waterworks as modern as the heart of an engineer could desire.

Even the surface aqueduct and tunnels that the Romans left have been repaired and are in use, connecting the pools with their source of supply, a large spring rising in the cavern called Bir Darash.

The Exception.

OLD CITY OF MAGENTA.

Before it was designated a color, magenta was—and still is—the name of a city in Italy. The red aniline dye was first produced in the Italian city, or obtained its name from the city in the country of vivid colors. At Magenta, which is 24 miles northwest of Pavia, a great battle was fought, in 1859, in which the Austrians were defeated by the combined French and Sardinians.
