HONOR THE FLAG

The anniversary of the birthday of the Flag of the United States, June 14, 1777, the date on which it was adopted by Congress as the National emblem, has been set apart as a fitting occasion for the American people formally to pay to the National Colors the honor and respect which is their due, and thus manifest their love and affection for their Country.

The commemoration of Flag Day by patriotic exercises was first observed in 1890, upon the recommendation of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.
The propriety of this custom was at once recognized by the several patriotic societies and the public generally. The celebration of Flag Day has since developed widespread popularity.

Among the objects of Flag Day are the crystallization of sentiment against the desecration of the Flag, and the promotion of public opinion in favor of the customary observances of respect due the national emblem. Many civic and patriotic societies have cooperated to these ends and all citizens should give every such effort loyal support.

The colors of the flag may be thus explained: The red is for valor, zeal and fervency; the white, for hope, purity, cleanliness of life and rectitude of conduct; the blue the color of heaven, for reverence to God, loyalty, sincerity, justice and truth.

The star (an ancient symbol of India, Persia and Egypt) symbolizes dominion and sovereignty, as well as lofty aspiration. The constellation of the stars within the union, one star for each state, is emblematic of our Federal Constitution which reserves to the States their individual sovereignty except as to rights delegated by them to the Federal Government.

The symbolism of the Flag was thus interpreted by Washington:
"We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we are separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing Liberty."

The American Flag is unique in the deep and noble significance of its message to the entire world, a message of national independence, of individual liberty, of idealism, of patriotism.

It incarnates for all mankind the spirit of liberty and the glorious ideal of human Freedom; not the freedom of unrestraint or the liberty of license, but an unique ideal of equal opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness safeguarded by the stern and lofty principles of duty, of righteousness and of justice and attainable by obedience to self-imposed laws.

Washington, June 14.—(I. N. S.)—
The Plight of the Farmer is an old song in the land.

Politicians have thundered over it, economists have pondered over it, bankers have shaken their heads over it, Congress has enacted laws and then still more laws—and still the embattled farmer is the one outstanding man in the United States of whom it truthfully can be said that he is not of the prosperity fruit which is dropping from the trees these days.

Remedial measures have failed to remedy, corrective steps have failed to correct—and yet, according to Senator Royal S. Copeland (D.), of New York, it is astonishingly simple how easy of solution the farmer's problem is. It can be expressed in three words:

"Eat more bread!"

"In normal times," said Senator Copeland, "the United States exports about 170,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. Since the war and the impoverishment of Europe, the markets to which the American farmer looked to absorb his surplus wheat and grains has been cut off.

"This is the problem—this surplus wheat. But it is remarkable how easily the problem of surplus wheat would disappear if everyone were to eat an extra slice of bread at each meal.

"If every man, woman and child in the United States—some 110,000,000—would so balance his daily diet as to include this extra slice of bread, the annual surplus of 170-

000,000 bushels of wheat would be absorbed at once."

One hundred and ten million slices of bread three times a day for 365 days equals 170,000,000 bushels of wheat, according to the good doctor.

And that is not all.

"To make the necessary yeast to prepare this vast mountain of bread would require 1,500,000 bushels of corn. An equal quantity of corn would be required to fatten the hogs from which the lard would come. The pastries made from the flour would increase the demand for corn starch, another corn product.
The farmer would be called upon for at least 3,500,000 bushels of corn for these purposes."

There's the corn angle.

"To bake the surplus wheat into bread would require an ocean of milk—200,000,000 pounds of milk powder or condensed milk if one of these products were substituted for fluid milk."

That takes care of the milk.

"A billion pounds of butter would be called for to spread on the bread.

"Sugar, jams, cheese and sauce would be demanded. Fruits would be used in greatly increased consumption.

"To carry all the flour made from this surplus wheat would require 40,000,000 yards of cotton goods to make the sacks."

And last, but not least, for the Senator is also a doctor, he declared the public health of the United States would be vastly benefited by an increased bread diet.

Thus, most of the ills which affect the American farmer can be cured, Senator Copeland holds, by the simple act of everyone eating three extra slices of bread a day.

How to make 'em do it is another matter—but there's the idea and Senator Copeland says his figures are of proven accuracy.
