FERRYDALE

Miss Buelah Husay of Grants Pass was in Ferrydale Friday.

Mrs. Woodruff is helping Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hunt in their peach harvest.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitch of Lakeview Ore. and Mrs. Chausse and son and daughter of Grants Pass spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Whitford, returning to Grants Pass Thursday morning.

A. C. Ford is very busy harvesting his peach crop.

O. M. Lee was doing business in Merlin Friday.

Mrs. Charley Hevel and Mrs. John Hevel were visiting Mrs. Lester Brigg Monday afternoon.

His Misinformation.

They were dining at a fashionable restaurant, the Customers' Man and the Gossip.

"See that man over there?" said the latter.

"Yes."

"Well, he is James R. Smith from Peoria, Ill."

"Indeed!"

"Yes, he's just made $200,000 in the market."

"Well, dear boy," said the Customers' Man, "you're wrong four ways."

"Indeed?"

"Yes—his name is Howard R. Jones."

"Yes?"

"And he is from Springfield, Mass."

"Yes?"

"And the amount was not $200,000."

"No?"

"It was $20,000."

"Yes?"

"And he lost it."—Boston Globe.

TAILORED SPORTS COATS PRESAGE FALL STYLES

THE time is here again when the outfitting of young women and girls who are to be sent away to school must be attended to. This obligation comes along in midsummer, before the garments are actually needed, but not too early to pick fall styles, in essential things, like coats and dresses, already launched.

About the first purchases made are the substantial coats which must do constant service, the suits and dresses of like character, and utility hats. In coats manufacturers have provided lines that include garments for street or general wear, others for dress and certain distinct types for sports wear, but they have cleverly united in young girls' coats for all-round wear the tailored and sports styles, and we have the tailored sports coat. They are youthful, comfortable, stylish—one of them is shown here in dark blue color with an indistinct cross-bar in a deep orange color, to make it snappy. It is an appealing model which will please both the younger generation and the older people. The tailored sports coat is a safe investment for the school girl, or the young woman.

As to other coat styles for fall, the tendency is toward longer models. Aside from this present styles are carrying over. The straight-line silhouette, high pile fabrics and sturdy woolsens, neutral colors and fur trimmings are all present in the displays of new fall garments. Pile fabrics are somewhat finer in texture than they were and more emphasis than ever is placed on collar and cuffs of fur. There are numerous side-tie models and decorative silk stitching is made much of. Sleeves are very full and long and often finished with embroidery or a deep cuff, instead of fur. In dressy coats metal threads introduced in silk embroidery, done in self color, add a bit of sparkle to the design. On tailored sports coats, huge and handsome buttons for fastening with a single button on the cuffs, is the best of all finishing touches.

NEW KIND OF BEAR IS DISCOVERED IN OREGON!

Resembles Small Grizzly, United States Biological Expert Announces.

The discovery of a new species of bear was announced at a meeting of several hundred Department of Agriculture employees with Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, at Tacoma, Wash.

The new brain has not been officially named, but he probably will be called the Lava bear, his known habitat being the lava beds of southeastern Oregon. The discovery was reported by Director Jewett of the United States biological survey. Mr. Jewett said that about a year ago a settler killed the first of these strange bears and brought the carcass to him. The animal had a shaggy coat very much like a grizzly bear and despite that it weighed only 40 pounds it was exceedingly ferocious.

Mr. Jewett determined that the animal was full grown and that its characteristics were distinctly different from those of any variety of bear known to him. He sent the carcass to C. Hart Merriam, former chief of the biological survey and now director of the Rockefeller Institute. Mr. Merriam is the recognized world authority on bears.

Mr. Merriam confirmed the fact that the animal was different from any other known species but not much was made of the matter until two weeks ago when another animal of the same sort was killed by investigators of the biological survey. The experts' theory is that the Lava bear is a development from the grizzly in the district where it was found. Food is very scarce there and just as the huge Kodiak bear of Alaska is believed to be a grizzly developed to abnormal size by feeding on the salmon which abound in the rivers there it is thought the Lava bear may be a grizzly stunted through many generations of scant feeding.

Its characteristics, however, are so different from any known variety of bear that Director Merriam declares that it must certainly be classed as a new species.

AW, WHAT'S THE USE

A VACATION RIGHT HERE AT HOME IS GOOD ENUF FOR ME — ALL YEAR I'M AT THE OFFICE WORKIN' — I NEVER GET A CHANCE TO SIT ON THE PORCH, OR WALK OUT IN THE BACK YARD, OR SNOOP AROUND IN THE CELLAR.

YES — YOU'RE AWAY ALL DAY BUT WHAT ABOUT ME — ALL I DO IS SIT ON THE PORCH ALL DAY & MEND YOUR SOCKS, OR HANG YOUR SHIRTS UP IN THE BACK YARD, OR SWEEP UP YOUR TRASH IN THE CELLAR.

THAT'S ALL I DO — DAY IN & DAY OUT — YEAR AFTER YEAR — YOU GO TO BUSINESS — SEE NEW THINGS, MEET NEW PEOPLE EVERY DAY, BUT ME — ALL I SEE ARE THESE 4 WALLS & THE BACK YARD — ALL I MEET ARE POTS & PANS, AND BROOMS & JUST CLOTHES, AND SHIRTS WITH BUTTONS OFF & TRADESMEN & BILL COLLECTORS

— AND IT'S NOT FAIR — AND I'M NOT GOING TO STAND FOR IT — AND I'M MAD — AND I'M GOING ON A VACATION — AND I DON'T CARE WHAT BOO-HOO!
