RECOGNIZING MEXICO

After years of waiting for the Mexican people to show that they can maintain a stable government and to come to some agreement with the United States, the Oregon government has finally been given full recognition and diplomatic intercourse will again be resumed. Ever since the republican administration has been in charge of the affairs of the nation, there have been negotiations pending. Secretary Hughes found the main point of contention to be the application of Article 27 of the 1917 constitution. This affirmed that the title to mineral and other subsoil deposits was vested in the people of Mexico and stipulated that only Mexicans and Mexican companies had the right to acquire concessions to develop mineral fuel in the republic. President Obregon last September declared this article nonretroactive, removing one of the greatest sources of misunderstanding.

Mexico is a highly fertile and productive country and furnishes an outlet for American capital. It is estimated that $500,000,000 is invested

To know how good a cigarette really can be made you must try a by Americans in mining alone while large sums are invested in the oil fields, which in 1920 produced 23.5 per cent of the world's petroleum supply. The country also produces one-third of the world's silver and 5 per cent of the gold.

Agriculture is the principal industry with stock raising a close second.
Although the country is marvelously rich, the land is barely scratched except on the larger places, 30,000,000 acres being cultivated. Grazing lands amount to 129,500,000 acres and forests 44,000,000 acres. The principal products are corn, cotton, henequen, wheat, coffee, beans, tobacco, sugar and molasses.

It can readily be seen that Mexico has a future, depending upon the manner in which her industries are developed. Through the recognition of the Obregon government and the fostering of a friendship between the two nations, it may be made possible for American capital to invest more heavily there and to be mutually beneficial to both nations.

Likes Caves Resort—R. Kent Beattie, pathologist in charge of foreign plant quarantines at Washington, has just returned from a week spent in the vicinity of the Oregon Caves. He collected over 100 specimens of the flora found in that region. The season this year is much later, he declares, than last year for he was in the same locality on exactly the same dates and plants are much later. He found the accommodations of the Oregon Caves resort excellent. On the days when the weather was 101 in the valley, the mercury stood at 76 at the Caves.

Forestry Officials Visit—L. P. Kneipp, assistant forester from Washington, D. C., and C. J.
Buck, who has charge of the recreational work in the national forests in the Portland district, are in the city for a short time. They made a trip to the Caves to look over the work being done in that section and report that they are well pleased with what they saw.

Trout Are Planted—
The state game commission sent a consignment of ten thousand Rainbow trout to Lake of the Woods Monday. A government truck was loaned to transport the fish and the men in charge, Harry Hosler was responsible for the transporting. The young trout arrived at the lake in very fine condition and very few lost.
Two weeks ago eight thousand bass were sent to the lake and another quantity of trout, eight thousand, is expected this week to be sent to the lake. Owing to the increasing popularity of the lake, the state game commission is doing all in its power to keep the resort stocked.—Ashland

Band Goes to Medford—The Grants Pass concert band has been notified that their offer has been accepted by the Jackson county fair board and they will play at the fair on Saturday, September 15. They will give two concerts, one at 1:30 in the afternoon and the other at 7:30 that evening. The band will also play at the Josephine county fair, making two appearances each day during the time the fair is in full swing.

Whose turn is it? Who is "next?" at the Gulbransen? The folks can hardly wait—everyone from Grand-Dad down to little Mary wants to play that splendid Gulbransen!
It's so easy to play—it invites playing. It makes you want to pour out all the music that has been locked up in your soul for so many years and which your untrained fingers cannot express.
You may play a Gulbransen for half an hour—or half a day—and the thought of effort in connection with pedalling never comes to mind.
Because there is no effort.
This leaves you free to concentrate on better playing of the Gul-bransen. The result is that within a few days, or a week at most, you can learn to play the Gulbransen, through the pedals, in such a way that the music cannot be distinguished from the finest hand-playing.
Gulbransen Instruction Rolls help you to understand and master this art of correct playing. They are simple, fascinating—show how to do things, through the pedals, that it would take years to learn by hand.
