Plane for Every 1,000 Persons, Fokker Says

Cleveland, O.—There will be one airplane for every 1,000 people "in a very short time," and the airplane will be used as casually for intercity transportation as the taxicab now is for short trips within the city, Anthony H. G. Fokker, Dutch aviation expert, predicted before the Cleveland chamber of commerce.

Declaring that if planes are handled "by the right men" and are well made, commercial aviation is safe, Fokker said that the planes are available if suitable landing fields are provided. America, he said, instead of lagging in commercial aviation, should lead, because of its great distances.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

CHICKEN CHATTER

"Cluck, cluck," said Mother Hen, "It is the springtime and my little ones will soon be bursting out of their shells.

"Such dear little soft chicken pets as they will be. Cluck, cluck," said Mother Hen. "I am getting most excited.

"No one must annoy me. I want to give all my time and hen attention to the little brood."

In a very short time the little brood was following around after Mother Hen.

And a fine little brood she had! "Such soft yellow down coats as my darlings have," said Mother Hen. "And you're a beautiful Mother Hen," they said.

Mother Hen gave a funny hen grin as much as to say:

"I've never been famous for my hen beauty but I'm glad my chickens think I'm beautiful. That shows what love will do. They love me and want to stick close to me, and they think I'm beautiful.

"Oh well, oh well, it is nice to have some thing you're beautiful even if they're looking at you with eyes of love rather than eyes that see things just exactly as they are.

"My little darlings," Mother Hen said aloud. "So soft and dear you look, and you will follow me about and I will show you the things you must do.

"You must scratch in the ground for food. You will be given grain and seeds but always look for more.

"You must eat and grow strong.

"And you never have to think much beyond that. Run out of the way if anything seems to be coming dangerously near to you.

"The center of the road is never a wise place for any chicken to be, but I forget this rule myself very often. So probably you will, too.

"But stay near Mother Hen and she will help you."

"Peep, peep," said the little chickens, "we will do that."

"You don't have to study to be famous. You don't have to do much of anything.

"You can wander about, scratching the ground here and there, and always rushing to the farmer when he comes out with any dish or pan or pail that looks as though food might be in it.

"Life will be easy for you.

"Of course, when you outgrow your dear little baby looks you will be at the awkward age in chicken circles when you're neither cunning, nor big and handsome.

"But do not let that worry you."

"Peep, peep," said the little chickens, "we won't."

Cackle, cackle, cackle, cackle," said Mother Hen. "What a fine brood I have! Never could there be a finer brood."

And the little chickens stuck close to their mother and said:

"Peep, peep, mother, what a dear mother hen we have."

"Peep, peep, peep, peep, that's the truth, dear mother hen."

And Mother Hen thought the chicken chatter was very sweet, very sweet, indeed!

Orders Civil War Record on Tombstone

North Bergen, N. J.—When a tombstone is raised over the grave of James Lyon, who died recently, the inscription upon it will note the fact that he served the entire period of the Civil War as a member of the New Jersey Volunteers in the Union army.

The will left by Lyons, admitted to probate by Surrogate Norton, specifically mentions that the clause be the first carried out.

A Bald Fact

Bessie, age four years, who was downtown with her mother, caught sight of a bald-headed man.

"O, mother," she exclaimed in high shrill tones, "just see that man! He hasn't a hair on his head. Isn't it sad?"

"Hush!" replied her mother. "He will hear you."

"O," replied Bessie in subdued tones, "doesn't he know it?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Sour Skim Milk Given as Cause of High Production

Some time ago the Missouri College of Agriculture through the department of poultry husbandry started an experiment to determine the cause of the high production secured from laying hens that were given an abundance of sour skim milk. A study of the analysis of sour skim milk showed it to contain 90.77 per cent water, 0.10 per cent fat, 3.33 per cent milk sugar (lactose), 0.56 per cent lactic acid, 3.65 per cent protein and 0.79 per cent milk ash or salts. It was assumed that water alone was not the stimulating factor. The fat content seemed too low, and the distribution of carbohydrates did not point to milk sugar as a possible source of the problem. A comparison was made of rations containing lactic acid, milk salts, protein-free sour skim milk and sour skim milk. The results showed conclusively that lactic acid in the same solution as in sour skim milk is valueless for egg production. Besides both milk salts and ash entirely failed to stimulate increased egg production. The results all seem to indicate that it is the proteins or milk curd that is the valuable part of sour skim milk. For two years the protein-free sour skim milk has not given as satisfactory production as the sour skim milk.

Guinea Quite Valuable Fowl to Have on Farm

So far, guineas occupy a back place in the poultry industry. Yet they are a valuable fowl.

When they are known they will come into their own with honor.

They are among the very best "bug rustlers" we have, living almost entirely on insects, doing very little damage to growing crops.

As for eating purposes, the guineas are claimed by some people to surpass the chicken in flavor and juiciness. Although having dark flesh, the young fowls are tender. The meat of the grown fowls is not as dry, when baked, as that of chicken or turkey.

The guinea hens are always known by their plaintive "potrack, potrack, potrack," while the rooster, when disturbed by a hawk or strange dog, lets forth such a shrill chatter that it puts one's nerves on edge.

Guineas begin laying the first of May and lay all through the summer, the eggs selling on the market for as much as hen eggs.

POULTRY NOTES

Do not feed the goslings until 48 hours old, but give them tender, finely cut grass and water.

Turkeys for breeding should be in good breeding condition; if fat the eggs are largely infertile.

Some geese will hatch two broods of goslings in a season if well managed. Goose eggs require 28 to 31 days to hatch.

The young are chicks until their sex can be distinguished or possibly even a little longer. A brood is a collection of chicks cared for by one hen or in a single brooder.

A constitutionally strong bird, one that passes through the molt quickly and easily, is a better layer than one that develops all kinds of ailments during this period.

Adult Geese Should Be Fed for Eggs Very Early

Adult geese should be fed for the eggs about February 1, or so that the goslings will be hatched by the time there is good grass pasture. Feed a mash in the morning of equal parts by weight of corn meal, bran and middlings, or low-grade flour, with 10 per cent of beef scrap, and give whole or cracked corn at night.

Corn for Fattening Geese.

Cracked corn is good for fattening geese but should be fed sparingly to breeders. Goslings should have only fresh young grass for the first day or two; after that three small feeds daily of mash or scalded cracked corn with plenty of green stuff. After six weeks goslings being fattened for market may have cornmeal, one part and bran one part.

Old Hens Seldom Pay.

Hens more than thirty months old seldom pay.

Individual hens with pale-colored shanks, in such breeds as the Rock, Wyandottes, Reds and Leghorns, are considered better layers than those with bright-yellow shanks.

Chicken Mineral Mixture Superior for Laying Hens

A mixture of salt, lime and bone-meal added to soybean meal or other vegetable protein nearly doubled its value in the feed for laying hens or growing chicks, in recent tests at the Ohio experiment station.

These minerals though making up only 4 per cent of the mash and costing less than 4 cents a year per hen, proved as necessary as any other part of the feed.

Grains and seeds are deficient in protein and minerals. These are supplied by the addition of meat scrap, skim milk or other animal supplement to the feed of grain and mash. Soybean meal, peanut meal, cotton-seed meal, and the like supply protein but are deficient in minerals.

When the mineral mixture was added to soybean meal at the rate of 4 pounds per hundred its value was doubled, making it almost equal to meat scrap or milk for egg production and growth.

The station mineral mixture is made up of 60 parts of bone-meal, 20 of limestone, and 20 of common salt.

Feeding Good Balanced Ration to Secure Eggs

Feed the chickens a good balanced ration. Feed scratch grain in the litter, mash in hoppers (available all the time). Green succulence is necessary for egg production and hatchable eggs during breeding season. Have fresh water always available; oyster shell, charcoal and grit in hoppers. Provide milk in some form either as a beverage in addition to regular mash or to take place of part of protein element; it contains vitamins which are essential for laying hens.

The above in brief is the advice of poultry authorities on care of laying stock. Some formulas for mashes for egg production are suggested below:

1 part wheat bran	1 part ground oats
1 part wheat mid-	1 part cornmeal
dlings	1 part meat scrap
2 parts cornmeal	1 part middlings
1 part bran	1 part meat scrap
3 parts cornmeal	1 part meat scrap
