BONUS WITHOUT TAX

When the soldiers' bonus was threatened the country was repeatedly warned that the bill would saddle an impossible burden on the backs of the people, and immediately the political glands in the Washington body politic were agitated to action. There were as many votes for the bonus as there were bids for the soldiers' vote. The legislation was passed over the will of the President. Now facing the inevitable Washington advises us that the bonus burden will be carried without any extra tax upon the people, that the cost will be met by taking up further slack in government wasteful expenditures. Probably it will work out that way. General Lord, director of the budget, has shown in two years how much can be accomplished along these lines. Recently addressing a body of business men he said "we will spend this year $2,000,000,000 less than we took out of the Treasury in 1921, the last year free from budget control. In three years we have cut the ordinary expenses of the government one-half."

This is a remarkable statement—a notable achievement. The saving of $2,000,000,000 means the saving of half the gold coin and billion in the United States. It embraces the entire savings of 12,500,000 depositors in the nation's savings banks for a period of twenty months. It covers the value of all the automobiles, motor trucks and motor cycles produced in the United States in the year 1922. It is in excess of all the dividends paid by all the railroads in the United States in five years. It figures up more than two and one-half times the value of the wheat crop for 1922.

Perhaps if the people come to consider saving in terms they understand, they will also see the wisdom of keeping partisanship out of the economic problem so effectively met by the budget system.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

Paris, Aug. 20.—(I. N. S.)—American advertising men recently on a visit to the French capital were surprised to learn that the French, and not the English, are responsible for the first advertisement printed in a newspaper. That was on July 4, 1831, when the sixth number of the Gazette de France contained the following passage: "From St. Germain-en-Laye, July 2, 1831—The dry season has greatly increased the value of mineral waters, among which those of Forges are here in general use. Thirty years ago Mr. Martin, a great physician, made them the vogue; the public approved them. Today M. Bonnard, the king's chief physician, has set them on the pinnacle of popularity which has great loyalty, skill and experience can give by recommending to his majesty whatever deserves the honor, and the king and nearly all the court are now drinking these waters daily as a precaution." Though written nearly 200 years ago, it is more than likely that this little advertisement helped to keep the water of Forges famous until the present day.

Only the young need apply, or words to that effect, make the gist of the advertisement for women assistants that are needed for the postal service of France. There are 1,200 places to fill in Paris alone. In all, 2,425 women clerks are needed. Lille is asking for as many as 700 and Chalons-sur-Marne requires 175. To obtain nominations for the vacant posts it is not necessary for the candidates to belong to the region. No preliminary training, no certificates nor diplomas are needed. But the applicant must be physically fit and, what is more, she must be young, that is between 17 and 25 years of age. And therein lies the rub, for most of the women who really need to work in France have unfortunately passed this age limit. The young girl in Paris has only to seek and she shall find some kind of employment. For the older women it is another story.

More people in France are eating meat than ever before, according to a detailed report recently laid before the academy of agriculture. The reason for this change in the frugal habits of the French is due to the very large meat ration served to soldiers during the war, affirms Rene Worms, who has made a close study of this subject. The wartime habit has been retained in civil life, that is for the industrial worker and the farm laborer, whose salaries have greatly increased during the last ten years. The opposite is true in the case of the farmer "easy" class, the bourgeoisie, who are now serving menat, and in small portions at that, but once a day. This is for financial reasons, but also for hygienic ones as well, it is said, for French doctors are more and more advocating less animal food for people who lead sedentary lives.

Where do the donkeys go? Fewer and fewer of the faithful four-footed friends are to be seen on the streets of France. The recent census of animals in fairs shows that in 1923 there were 233,769 asses returned, as against 291,110 in 1922 and 356,310 in 1913. On the farms motors have replaced horses and they in turn are putting the donkey out of business. There are now only a few districts where asses are bred, although the mountainous region of the south and center absorb a good number. In the gardens, of the Champs Elysees and the Luxembourg there are still a few little donkeys to make the children happy, and there are a few rag-pickers who still drive the patient little beasts. Recently the chair-menders have adopted the horse to carry their loads of crippled chairs, and at the Montmartre fair the only one belonging to the troupe is stuffed.

GRANTS PASS BAND TO PLAY

Local Organization Will Entertain During Jackson Fair

The Grants Pass band has been employed to play on Josephine County Day, Saturday, September 13, at the Jackson County Fair. They will play during the races in the afternoon and give an hour concert in the evening. Because of there being no automobile or motorcycle races, the element of danger has been removed and the band will be placed on a slightly raised platform in front of the grand stand.

It happens that National Defense Day, of which there has been considerable comment in all newspapers, comes during the week of the Jackson County Fair, Friday September 12, and the local military company will stage a sham battle in the evening of that day. It will be the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted here, in fact the "battle" will take the nature of an infantry attack on a line held by machine guns. Everything will be worked out just as it would be in actual warfare, flares, smoke screens, rockets and other adjuncts of modern warfare being used. Thousands of blank cartridges will add a realistic touch to the affair. This sham battle, together with the Dixie Synopaters will furnish the entertainment before the grandstand that evening.

Divorced 5 Years,
Aged Couple Rewed

Los Angeles, Cal.—Divorced five years ago after forty years of married life, Hans and Caroline Erickson were remarried the other day by Superior Judge Thompson. After the couple, each of whom is past sixty years of age, were divorced Hans came to California. He settled down in Pasadena. One by one their four grown children followed their father and made their home in the Crown City. Three months ago the mother came to visit her children. The old love was rekindled and Erickson, she shyly told Judge Thompson, began a courtship. Then the happy pair sought the services of a magistrate to reunite them. The bride was given away by Lew Head of Pasadena.

Hard Test Required to Win Helicopter Prize

London.—World-wide entries have been received for the contest for a $250,000 prize offered by the British air ministry for a helicopter that will solve the problem of vertical and hovering flight. Fifteen to twenty entries have been received from some of the greatest American and continental authorities on this form of flight, including, it is reported, one from Henry Berliner, famous helicopter expert, who has produced some very remarkable machines of this type.

HUNT AMERICAN LORE
OF 3,000 YEARS AGO

Morley Expedition to Yucatan Has High Hopes.

New Orleans.—Bent upon solving the mystery which surrounds the history of America during a period dating back 3,000 years, the Morley archeological expedition, sponsored by the Carnegie foundation, has plunged into the primeval country in the vicinity of Yucatan, Mexico. During their stay the party will keep in touch with New Orleans by radio and obtain their supplies from this port.

The party includes Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, one of the leading archeologists of the United States; Earl H. Morris, excavation expert; Mrs. Morris, Monroe Amsden and Mrs. Alma Reed. The latter, who is a newspaper woman, was engaged to marry Felipe Carrillo, governor of Yucatan, when he was assassinated. She is making the trip largely because she knew Carrillo was interested in the expedition, which was planned long before his death.

Stay Indefinite. The Morley party will spend an indefinite period in Mexico and will endeavor to probe the secrets of America's earliest civilization. More than 100 Maya Indians, descendants of tribes which once dominated southern Mexico, will remove the soil which has accumulated over ancient palaces and tombs of kings in the last 3,000 years.

Doctor Morley believes that riches far more valuable than those found in the tomb of King Tut, and even more interesting to Americans, will be revealed before the work of the expedition is completed. Although only the surface has been touched, priceless ornaments of jade have already been found. The meager records of the Mayas indicate they were a powerful tribe, with a civilization which, in a measure, challenges the grandeur that was Greece and the glory that was Rome.

To Restore Cities. "It is of no significance whether we find gold or silver," said Doctor Morley. "Of course there is a romantic appeal in buried treasure, but we are going after something more important—and more valuable, too. Under our feet lie the buried cities of an almost vanished race. The Carnegie foundation will uncover and restore at least one of these cities, and perhaps two. "The scientific value of the work will be equalled only by the wonder of the American people when they realize what has happened on this continent before the white man came to the shores of America."

The Morley expedition is one of the best-equipped ever organized. While those who make up the party will be without some of the comforts of home they have an outfit which will make their life luxurious, as compared with the experiences of archeologists even in the last decade.

118,000 British Cattle
Slain in Mouth Disease

London.—The recent outbreak of cattle plague in England cost the country $16,000,000 and was responsible for the destruction of 118,000 head of cattle, according to Noel Buxton, labor minister of agriculture. Buxton announces that he is seeking powers to prevent further outbreaks by scientific research as to the root cause of the outbreaks and their origin.

Good Carp Bait. Marysville, Mo.—Friends of George Liston told him a carp had never been caught with a hook and line. Liston decided that it could be. He baited his hook with an egg yolk and caught a 20-pound carp with only one eye.

THREE ISSUES TAKEN UP

attack upon them (our constitutional principles) massed behind an aggressive personality, a heterogeneous collection of those opposing the existing order of things, the greatest section of which, the socialists, flies the red flag; and into what? Into reopening of war upon those fundamental principles of human liberty and inalienable rights of men which are giving in this country safe opportunity to the humblest."

"With the exports plan inaugurated," he said, "all Europe turns toward a new and peaceful life. The United States will be saved from the depths of an inevitable and great depression in industry and agriculture which the continued chaos and misery in Europe would entail. Indeed the whole world enters upon a period of peace and prosperity."

"In the propositions of President Coolidge in connection with the World Court, there is safeguarded the sovereignty of the United States and its interests."

Likening the World Court to a court-house, Mr. Dawes said: "Because we help build the court-house, we do not have to try cases in it, unless we desire to. But we must remember that sometimes when a house is built, it may be a very convenient thing to go into to avoid rain and lightning. Yes, and probably avoid the thunder-bolts of war."

Asserting that American citizenship will trust its representatives to uphold as ably and fearlessly the honor of the country and the flag in any conflict of peace as it trusts "its youth behind the flag in war," Mr. Dawes said:

"The Republican platform on foreign relations outlines a policy which carried out with the common sense, clear vision and courage of Calvin Coolidge, offers the American people a constructive course of honor, safety and progress. It offers the only policy which at this time means the possibility of accomplishment."

Mr. Dawes said that in his speech at Lincoln, Nebraska, August 29, he would discuss "the non-partisan and economic agricultural question."
