NEWS EVENTS OF TODAY

The other day a man sought to buy land in the Rogue valley. He was first taken to look over some dry land outside of the Grants Pass Irrigation district where there was no possible hope for water. He refused to buy but later saw what he wanted in the Grants Pass district, land which he knew was assured of plenty of water. He bought the land and will bring his family to locate on it. The future prosperity of this city and the territory immediately adjacent depends upon the settling of the lands within the irrigation district. Efforts should be directed to the settlement of these lands first for they are the only places which are certain to have water.

The army fliers went over Grants Pass this afternoon, on the next to the last lap of their long journey around the world. These men are making history and their names will go down as the first to circumnavigate the world by air. They are deserving of every honor it is possible to accord, for their lives were in danger at many times during the long flight. And they made the United States the first to accomplish a feat which the whole world had set out to do.

Two more weeks of this kind of weather and the grape crop will be pretty well harvested in the valley.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

Indianapolis, Sept. 27.—(L.N.S.)—With constables in various parts of Indiana facing grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities in the conduct of their offices, a general clamor has started in the affected areas against "the atrophied appendage of a once useful organ."

What a letting down for the ilk of Du Quocsin! Armor plate to a tin badge! The constable was the glory of mediaeval France. As the head of the state, he led the warring hosts to battle. A professional fighting man, he sallied to the thickest of the fray, with axe and pike, striking ponderous blows at sanguinary foemen of his king.

From the right-hand man of a monarch he has fallen to the handy man of a justice of the peace—a mere process server, whose dangerous and valorous task it is to retrieve the diamond ring when Gertie misses the payments.

In no sense of the word a peace officer himself, the constable has found difficulty in enforcing his demands. Many complaints are on record that constables are in the habit of drawing a pistol to serve a summons. County prosecuting attorneys have sent out warnings that constables making a display of firearms in the conduct of civil cases are in direct violation of the law and that serious consequences will follow.

The ingenious mind of the constable, always alert for minor infractions of the law and ready to prance out on the slightest provocation, was demonstrated by an Indianapolis constable who probed state records for names of employers who had not complied with the state workmen's compensation law. Ten Wells county threshermen were the first victims. Incensed at the invasion of a Marion county officer, a former circuit court judge volunteered free service and obtained a change of venue for the men and an indefinite postponement of the case against them.

The same constable rode posthaste to Jackson county to serve a warrant on William Misch, a former blacksmith, only to flee from a severe reprimand. Misch had been chief of police at Seymour for two years and was in no mood to be arrested. The agent of justice hurried on to New Albany, where he held warrants for the arrest of 21 Floyd county employees.

Listening to complaints of irate citizens who were forced to make expensive trips to Indianapolis, Prosecutor William H. Remy of Marion county declared he would brook no "scheme for constables to collect revenues on technicalities."

The constable denied approaching his victims with a "warrant in one hand and an insurance policy in the other," offering choice of arrest or payment of a nice, fat premium.

L. D. Moore, a deputy Remy assigned to investigate constabulary activities, reported a constable serving five warrants in Brookville had assessed costs of $25 apiece on the five persons arrested, although he made all arrests on one trip.

During the 17th century the use of tobacco spread with great rapidity despite severe punishment.

FLEW INTO HISTORY. PITY A SAD "ARISTOCRAT." THE DAY'S BEST NEWS. PERSHING AND GRATITUDE.

The flight around the world is over, and six young Americans will live in history when everybody connected with this Presidential campaign is completely forgotten.

History will forever record, if only in two lines, the dates and names connected with the first human flight around the world.

Birds did it long ago, but they are only birds.

That the nation which invented the flying machine should be the first nation to send a flying machine around the world seems appropriate. More appropriate would be adequate flying machine defense for this country.

Mr. Grenville L. Winthrop, pleasantly described by the social reporter as a "wealthy, retired banker, philanthropist and ARISTOCRAT," is under the care of two doctors. His two daughters eloped, one with a chauffeur, the other with a young electrician.

For a "retired aristocrat" to receive such a blow is painful, but in his sorrow there is warning and comfort for other wealthy, retired American aristocrats.

One of the daughters was thirty-one years of age; she and her sister, twenty-four, had been kept secluded.

Beware how you keep daughters too secluded, especially after thirty, and MORE especially if they are rich in their own right, as are these two young women!

That's the warning.

The comfort is this: The Winthrop family, to which the "retired aristocrat" belong, may find

HAMPSHIRE HAS CONTRACT

"With a contract for $136,550 in his pocket, John Hampshire found that his two days in the city were not ill-spent," says the Morning Oregonian. "Mr. Hampshire, who lives at Grants Pass when he is not looking after his various road jobs, was yesterday awarded the work of grading three miles of the Roosevelt coast highway in Lincoln county, at Otter Rock. Mr. Hampshire is registered at the Hotel Portland."

The First Meistersinger

Heinrich von Meissen, who died at Mainz, Germany, in 1518, was the founder of the first school of Meistersingers. The women of Mainz, whose praises he sang, carried his body to his tomb in the cathedral.

itself improved, its energies increased and its life on earth prolonged by the addition of a chauffeur and an electrician to the family lineage.

Lieutenant Moffett flew 183 miles from Boston to New York in fifty-eight minutes, attended to his business, and finished the round trip in two hours and twelve minutes. We have the world's ablest fliers, tens of thousands of them not developed. But we haven't the flying machines. We TALK preparation better than we provide it.

The day's most important news for the future ages is this. Dr. Daly, senior professor of chemistry in the University of Liverpool, says he can manufacture sugar out of plain water and carbon dioxide. That's how nature manufactures it in plants, through the green leaves. It is a deep process, first making formaldehyde of the carbon dioxide and water, then applying ultraviolet light—a color invisible to our eyes—to make the sugar.

If science can imitate plants on a big scale, manufacturing sugar and protein from carbon dioxide in plants, through the green leaves, one food problem will be solved.

However, don't be in a hurry to sell your Cuban sugar plantation. It will make you rich for many a day.

Distinguished gentlemen gave a dinner to General Pershing in New York. It was a nice dinner. General Pershing's share must have cost sixty cents in the market and nine dollars delivered on the table.

As a dinner, it was a success. But as a reward for a general that commanded three million American soldiers in the big war, after serving faithfully for many years before that, it was not much. General Pershing is now retired on a salary big enough to get him a small flat in a cheap quarter.

The English do it differently. Their Imperial Government made their General Hague an Earl, and gave him a million dollars.

Of course, this country isn't rich enough to afford anything like THAT, but it might do SOMETHING.

There is nothing the matter with this country except timid imagination. What have we?

Gold, more than half the world's supply; peace, that will last if we keep out of European nonsense; Presidential candidates, not one of whom would do any harm if elected; good crops, good prices for crops; an annual income of more than fifty thousand million dollars a year, with the real wealth not even scratched.

Mine Is Working

About 34 miles out of Grants Pass on the Illinois river, the Oregon Gold & Platinum company is operating. C. A. McDermoth, president of the enterprise, is in the city on business and is registered at the Hotel Oregon. Mr. McDermoth says that the company is now employing about 40 men in the diggings. A large ditch is used with sluice boxes, and the gravel soil is being handled as a placer proposition. The region has long been noted in the mining world, for that section of Oregon produced millions of dollars in gold dust and nuggets in early days.—Oregonian.

Doem Uncle John

Since Ma's been nomenclated, she's commenced to show some speed; she can tell the errand voter what our country seems to need—she's a powerful fluent speaker, we are happy to confess—and she makes a splendid showin' while deliverin' an address. . . . An' she jes' dotes on politics—the worst you ever saw—and there's no two ways about it, we are goin' to vote fer Ma. Of course her coffee aint so good, an' the cakes aint quite so brown. . . . Of course our buttons aint sewed on—an' the house is upside down—and of course we're feelin' sorry fer our poor, old, lonesome Pa, but—we're goin' to vote fer Ma! We reckon she can show 'em what the world is waitin' fer, and, as to bein' "progressive" why, there aint no flies on her. We may be feelin' different when we eat our vittles raw—but we cant side-step our raisin'—so—WE'RE GOIN' TO VOTE FER MA!
