OREGON WEATHER Pacific Coast States: Considerable cloudiness and rain in Washington and Oregon and fair in California although local rains are probable in extreme northwestern California.

CONFIDENCE RETURNS

Now "a long, strong pull," and business revival will go over with a wallop. All economists, except the professional pessimists who live on disaster and hard times, are agreed that the country is ready for a boom.

The belief that good times are here, however, is based on more than sentiment. Comfort is found in the fact that there is a better balance between the prices of merchandise and agricultural income.
