Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt was in Baker City this morning and he needed to make a phone call.

Naturally he went to the Oregon Trail Interpretive

Babbitt, whose department manages the center, has visited it before. Apparently he is sufficiently familiar with the building that he knows where the employees' entrance is.

He walked through the door and asked if anyone was in the office.

Firefighters worked in temperatures of nearly 100 degrees to contain a fire that destroyed a home on Eagle Creek Road north of Richland Friday morning.

Firefighters were called to the home of Dave and Lynda Tofflemire at 10:25 a.m. Most of the couple's belongings also were destroyed in the fire, said Dave Kingsbury, Eagle Valley Rural Fire District chief.

ONE YEAR AGO from the Baker City Herald August 29, 2020

A committee appointed by the Baker City Council has awarded almost $67,000 in federal COVID-19 aid to several local organizations.

The Baker City Coronavirus Relief Fund (CRF) Committee had its first meeting Wednesday evening at City Hall. The Committee heard presentations from nine groups and awarded money to eight of them.

The five members of the Committee are City Councilor Doni Bruland; Robin Nudd, the city's human resources and community development director; Chris Knoll, manager of Umpqua Bank's Baker City branch; Andrew Bryan, a member of the Baker 5J School Board; and Dave Hunsaker, a Baker City resident.

The city has received $292,000 from the federal CARES Act, which Congress passed in late March.

The city has to spend the money by Dec. 31.

Wednesday's first presentation was by Joe Hayes of Community Connection of Baker County, which operates the Baker City Senior Center, Meals on Wheels, the Baker CityTrolley and several other services.

The Baker City Council in late July voted to award Community Connection $50,000 from the city's share. But the Council rescinded that decision after deciding to form the Committee and ask groups to make presentations.

The City Council has allocated $75,000 to the Committee thus far.

On Wednesday Hayes requested $10,000 to help residents pay for utilities, groceries and other necessities. The Committee granted the full amount.

ELKS

Fortunately for the Elks members' straining muscles, much of the currency was the paper variety rather than coinage, which adds much more to the weight burden.

Erickson said she enjoys the experience.

"It's fun to see the little kids run up and throw the money on there, and then turn around and salute the flag," she said.

Erickson said the Baker lodge will donate the $1,215.50 to the Oregon Elks Association Veterans Programs, which supports a variety of projects, including the Veterans Home in The Dalles and the Divide Camp in Enterprise.

Erickson said she and other Baker Elks members appreciate the "wonderful citizens" who donated, and they hope to repeat the feat in future parades.

"We would like to keep it going," she said.

George Ziermann Formerly of Baker City, 1938-2021

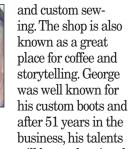

George Ernest Ziermann, 82, of Prineville, and formerly of Baker City, died Aug. 8, 2021.

Following George's wishes, there will be no services.

George was born on Oct. 2, 1938, at Armour, South Dakota. George started his working career logging at age 10, pulling one end of a crosscut saw with his father in the Black Hills of South Dakota. His greatest enjoyment in life was being out of doors. Whether he was hunting, fishing, logging or mining, it didn't matter — he loved working and being in nature.

In 1961, he moved to Eastern Oregon. In 1963, he would welcome the birth of his daughter, Melanie, while working as a mechanic for Garrett Freightlines in John Day. George was a master multitasker and had many projects going at any given time. While in John Day, he opened a secondhand store. In 1967, he opened his first storefront in Baker City, featuring outdoor supplies and gun repair and learned the trade of making boots.

Over the years, George had store locations in Harper and Pendleton. In 2016, he joined Melanie in Prineville. offering custom handmade boots, boot repair, leatherwork

Donald Francis Regan

Donald Regan

After sailing the world multiple times, he moved to Portland, where he became an iron worker and was a member of Iron Workers Local 29 since 1958. He worked on projects like the Portland Justice Center, paper mills, oil modules shipped to Alaska, and Oregon Health and Science University. He lived most of his years in Molalla, where he loved spending time with his family. He never asked for or needed anything extravagant, he simply enjoyed time at home with his family. He will be remembered for the way he enjoyed a good meal at the "fish house," his stories, the unconditional love and support he gave his family, and so much more. He is survived by his sons, Douglas Regan and Michael (Shannon) Regan; his daughter, Elizabeth Regan; his grandchildren, Kara, Danielle, Jason and Brianna; and many nieces and nephews who affectionately knew him as "Uncle Buster."

"Dad, this isn't good bye," his family said. "We'll see you when we see you."

Donald was preceded in death by his beloved wife, Carol Ann (Wilbourn) Regan; his granddaughter, Kendra; and his siblings Bill, Donald, Eddie, Francis-Anthony, Freddie, Josephine ("Pudgy"), Louis, Margaret and Therese.
