TURNING BACK THE PAGES

50 YEARS AGO from the Democrat-Herald November 1, 1971

Sasquatch has finally been observed in Baker County. Saturday, a greatly excited hunter under extreme agitation stumbled into the Oregon State Game Commission's home office and blurted the fearful news that he had seen and nearly been attacked by a great hairy ape-like creature with glowing red eyes.

25 YEARS AGO from the Baker City Herald November 1, 1996

HALFWAY — The city of Halfway has received a $10,000 state grant to buy at least 21 recycling bins and establish a covered recycling center.

The first priority for Halfway's volunteer recycling committee is to buy the bins, which cost $50 each, said Margaret Durner, a member of the group.

10 YEARS AGO from the Baker City Herald November 2, 2011

Baker City Councilors occasionally winced in disgust as they heard experts talk about cryptosporidium during a special meeting on Tuesday.

Crypto is a parasite that can sicken people who drink water infected with it. People and animals can be afflicted with such symptoms as diarrhea, dehydration and nausea.

From April 2010 to March 2011, the city submitted 24 water samples to Seattle-based Lab/Cor Inc. for testing.

Although city officials have said in the past that crypto had not been found in the city's water, three of the 24 samples did detect crypto "oocysts" — the protective shell around the parasite.

ONE YEAR AGO from the Baker City Herald November 3, 2020

The new, less restrictive guidelines for returning students to their classrooms that Gov. Kate Brown announced Friday won't have an immediate effect on Baker schools.

Superintendent Mark Witty said Monday that the District will continue with its plan for Baker Middle School students to attend in-person classes one day a week beginning Nov. 9. Four separate groups of students will rotate through the schedule. The remainder of the time, students will continue their studies at home through comprehensive distance learning.

Baker High School also will continue with its plan to return about 100 at-risk students to in-person classes Monday through Thursday beginning Nov. 9. Most other students will continue online studies.

The preschool through sixth-grade classrooms will continue to operate in person as they have done since Oct. 14.

The District is planning for a possible return to in-person classes every other day for students in Grades 7-12 after Christmas break, Witty said.

United Way hosting photo contest

WALLA WALLA — United Way of the Blue Mountains is hosting a photo contest to commemorate the organization's work across the region as it moves into a new office in Walla Walla, Washington.

The photo competition is open now and will take entries until Friday, Nov. 19. The winners will have their photos displayed in the new Walla Walla office.

The two categories of the contest are focus areas and funding regions.

The focus areas category are successful students cradle to career; disaster recovery; and healthy people and thriving communities. The funding regions section encompasses Columbia and Walla Walla counties in Washington, as well as Baker, Morrow, Umatilla and Union counties. United Way of the Blue Mountains supports local nonprofit organizations and human services across the region.

A selection committee at United Way of the Blue Mountains will select the winning photos.

For full details, contact the United Way of the Blue Mountains office at 509-529-1183 or info@uwbluemo.org. To enter the contest, go to <https://woobox.com/xkusqw>.

Man arrested for drunken, reckless driving

Baker City Herald

A Baker City man was arrested on drunken driving, reckless driving and attempting to elude charges Friday afternoon, Oct. 29 after passing multiple vehicles at speeds estimated at more than 90 mph.

Robert Anthony Rigsby, 36, was arrested on Foothill Road near the Anthony Lakes Highway, northwest of Haines, according to a press release from the Baker County Sheriff's Office.

The incident started about 4:30 p.m. Friday when Deputy Talon Colton, who was driving south on Highway 30 near Chandler Lane, about halfway between Baker City and Haines, saw a northbound Toyota Tundra pickup truck passing multiple vehicles.

Colton turned around and pursued the truck, which Colton estimated exceeded 90 mph at times. Colton lost sight of the truck near the intersection of Pocahontas Road and Anthony Lakes Highway, about a mile west of Haines. Colton continued on the Anthony Lakes Highway.

Around that time, a resident called Baker County Dispatch and reported seeing a Toyota Tundra pickup truck with body damage on the right side driving past his home in that area.

Colton saw a truck matching that description and stopped it at 48540 Foothill Road. As he was talking to that driver, a 2000 Toyota Tundra with body damage on the right side pulled into the driveway of that address, according to the press release.

Rigsby was the driver of the second truck, and he told Colton he knew the deputy was following him and that he had purposely driven away when Colton, who had turned on his flashers, tried to stop him.

Colton drove Rigsby to the Baker County Jail, where a breath sample had an alcohol concentration over three times the legal limit of 0.08, according to the press release.

OBITUARY

Arlene Ingle

Formerly of Baker City, 1929-2021

Arlene Carnes Ingle, 92, a Baker County native, died Oct. 17, 2021, in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

A private burial for both Arlene and her husband Don will take place at a later date at Mount Hope Cemetery in Baker City.

Arlene was born on July 22, 1929, in Baker City to Hallie W. and Rozella (Hart) Carnes. The direct descendant of brave Oregon Trail pioneers, she grew up on the family ranch near Haines, where she was active in 4-H, became a skilled horse-woman, and graduated from

Arlene Ingle

Muddy Creek High School with honors.

While attending Eastern Oregon University she met Donald (Don) Ingle, who she later married in Boise.

With three young daughters in tow, Arlene and her husband relocated throughout the Pacific Northwest and Colorado in Don's capacity as a company representative for Standard Oil of California (later Chevron). The Ingles became long-standing entrepreneurs after moving to Durango, Colorado, in 1962 and established Ingle Oil Company. While active in her children's many activities, she was also a leader in Beta Sigma Phi and numerous other community organizations, all while helping manage the petroleum business in Durango and Cortez. And she and Don could "cut a rug" at Velma's Supper Club like no others.

Her early formative years were spent in the depths of the Great Depression and during World War II, where she was part of a loving, tight knit and merry extended family of grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins in an idyllic rural setting. She transferred that love and affection to her own children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Arlene and Don's home was the constant epicenter of fun and celebration with family and friends (and every possible brand of breakfast cereal and cookies). And wilderness horse trips, excursions to local lakes, and the houseboat at Lake Powell, Utah, had her serving as the ultimate planner and hostess. She and Don remained well connected to family and friends in Oregon through regular trips home in generations of family private planes.

Arlene is survived by her daughters, Donna (Dave) Webber of Grand Junction, Colorado, Deanna (Bob) Riley of Durango, Colorado, Debi (Dennis) Jones of Colorado Springs, Colorado; her son, Don Jr. (Karen) of Highlands Ranch, Colorado; seven grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Arlene was preceded in death by her husband, Don; her infant daughter, Deah Michele; her granddaughter, Hallie Webber; her sister, Audrey; and her parents, Hallie and Rozella Carnes.

Memorial contributions in honor of Arlene can be made to Eastern Oregon Museum in Haines.
