Ferrell may have roots here, but Michael's on Main is his first business venture in the county and he sees it as a way to get reintegrated with his hometown.

"It's been a wonderful gig. I thought I was going to come here and be done, but after sitting up on Dunham Road for a year, I thought, 'This ain't cutting it. I'm not meeting new people.' So now I'm meeting all kinds of fun people," he said. "I'm not trying to prove anything. I'm not trying to burn down Enterprise. I've had five separate salons in Port-

FUEL

Angus Duncan, chair emeritus of the Oregon Global Warming Commission, said that a shift to electric vehicles and those that use hydrogen fuel is a longer-term solution to climate change.

"We need an interim solution that can show emissions reductions now," he said. "Renewable diesel appears to be that solution. It's a drop-in fuel. No adaptations needed, no warranties voided."

Aside from climate change considerations, proponents argued that petroleum diesel poses health dangers because it contains heavy metals and other toxic substances.

Breathing in diesel pollution laced with those toxic substances causes inflammation that leads to heart and lung disease, as well as certain cancers, said Sharon Meieran, a doctor and Multnomah County commissioner.

"Prevention is better than treatment," she said. "Cleaning up diesel pollution prevents some terrible consequences."

the game in that space."

Steve Moore, executive director of the M.J. Murdoch Charitable Trust, said the program "provides an innovative, sustainable solution that helps our natural landscapes thrive while simultaneously growing local business."

"Ranchers in the Pacific Northwest play a vital role in helping our region thrive but face a variety of challenges, including development, climbing costs, climate change and more," Moore said. "Organizations like Sustainable Northwest are doing important work to help support the individuals and families who run these spaces."

Kruse, with Sustainable Northwest, said the group plans to hire a new regenerative ranching program manager by the end of March. They will then get to work enrolling the first cohort of ranches in the program, mapping their properties and developing individual grazing plans.

"It's voluntary, it's incentive-based. For us, that's good conservation," Kruse said. "It's good for the community, and it's good for the economy."

HOROSCOPES

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 2022
YOUR BIRTHDAY by Stella Wilder

Born today, you are one of the most inventive individuals born under your sign, and you know how to take charge of something so that what you envision for yourself and others actually comes to pass. You are never afraid of hard work, and you are perfectly capable of balancing your home life with the needs of your career -- and yet it does not always seem so because you are so often off to work even when important things are happening at home.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) -- You can use almost everything that happens to you today as inspiration for something that you will soon be planning in detail.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- You can learn from your mistakes today, but you'll eventually want to stop making them at all -- and that lesson begins before nightfall.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- What comes your way today may not be entirely to your taste, but you may be able to make adjustments that improve its overall suitability.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Seek and ye shall find today -- but you must be sure that you are seeking the right things in the right places. Don't endanger yourself!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- You may be tired of all the bad news you're hearing these days, but take time to dig a little deeper and you'll find something to celebrate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Are you really giving your all to a project that demands nothing less? It may be time to stop and reassess your performance on the job at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- You should be able to determine what exactly is making someone behave in a certain way -- but you won't be able to stop it just yet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) -- You may be tempted to do something that goes against conventional wisdom. Think twice, and if you still want to do it, by all means do!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) -- You will benefit from narrowing your focus just a bit today and letting others take care of peripheral issues that don't involve you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) -- Your well-being must be at the forefront of your mind today, because if you're not healthy, you cannot help others who need your help.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- You may be nearing a "point of no return," but there's still enough time today to reach out to someone who may soon be out of touch.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) -- You may not understand yourself as well as certain friends or loved ones do right now, so there's no reason not to listen to their advice.
