What's Available NOW On

"Movie: American Sicario"

From director/producer RJ Collins ("True Memoirs of an International Assassin") comes this 2021 actioner about an American gangster who schemes to get to the top of the Mexican underworld only to find himself making enemies out of powerful cartels and his own allies. Philippe A. Haddad, Maurice Compte, Maya Stojan and Danny Trejo head the cast.

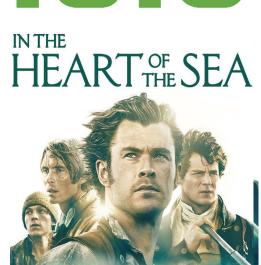

"Movie: Battleship"

The long-popular board game comes to life in director Peter Berg's 2012 adventure, sending naval forces into a fierce fight against alien invaders. Taylor Kitsch ("Friday Night Lights") and Alexander Skarsgard ("True Blood") play brothers who have different career approaches until the battle begins. Liam Neeson, Brooklyn Decker, music star Rihanna and military colonel Gregory D. Gadson — a double amputee — also star.

"Captive Audience"

This three-part documentary series follows the life of Steven Stayner and his family, diving into the family's 50-year journey to unravel the tale of two brothers, one deemed a villain and the other a hero. It also tells how the story gets told, looking at how the media's magnifying glass impacts the characters caught in the narrative. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: In the Heart of the Sea" In 1820, crewmen from the New England vessel Essex fight to survive after a massive whale violently attacks their ship, crippling it and leaving them adrift in the ocean in Ron Howard's handsome 2015 historical drama chronicling the real-life event that inspired Herman Melville's "Moby-Dick." Chris Hemsworth stars as first mate Owen Chase; the cast also includes Benjamin Walker, Cillian Murphy and Brendan Gleeson.
