

Woman faces uncertainty in marriage, health and future

DEAR ABBY
ADVICE

for support. Could I be even more lonely if I leave? The thought of divorce feels overwhelming, but I feel like life is passing me by. Hoping you can point me in the right direction. — LIVING IN LIMBO IN MISSOURI

DEAR LIVING: I wish you had mentioned what it was nine years ago that created a rift between you and your husband. If it was your diagnosis, it is truly regrettable. In the interim, have you tried talking about this with a marriage and family therapist? If the answer is no, you should.

I am concerned about the degree of isolation you are feeling. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society (nationalmssociety.org) offers virtual and in-person support groups that might benefit you greatly. Divorcing one's spouse is not a guarantee that one's loneliness will end, as many divorced women and men can attest. The National MS Society may be able to provide what you need right now.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are expecting our first child. We are over the moon about it, and have lots of support from family and friends near and far. My husband's family lives in another state and would need to fly to visit us. His parents are separated, and elderly.

I love his mother dearly, but I have an issue with her best friend, "Myra." Myra has always been passive-aggressive. She makes things difficult and makes rude, snide comments. My mother-in-law plans to travel to meet our new baby, but she wants Myra to be her travel companion.

Abby, after the stress and exhaustion of delivering a baby and any postpartum aftermath, plus the desire to keep our circle small due to COVID, I do not want to see Myra in the first few months after delivery. I have no issues with my mother-in-law, and don't want to prohibit her from seeing her new grandbaby. But she refuses to travel alone. Am I going too far in saying I won't be up for visiting with her snide best friend? — PREGNANT IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR PREGNANT: I don't think you are going too far. You have the right to control who comes into your home. Tell your mother-in-law you would welcome her coming to see the new baby, but that Myra is not welcome in your home and will have to make other plans while Grandma is visiting your infant.

If she asks why, tell her the truth — that Myra is negative and snide, and you don't want to be exposed to that while you are in a vulnerable state. If she can't agree to your wishes, tell her you and her son will visit her when the baby is older, but you will make sure she has plenty of pictures and videos in the meantime.

NORTHEASTERN OREGON FISHING FORECAST

Fishing action in Oregon starting to pick up

EO Media Group

SALEM — The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife reports improving fishing conditions in several places around Northeastern Oregon.

The agency has also started stocking rainbow trout in several ponds and reservoirs.

Imnaha River

Steelhead fishing is open through April 30. Both bait drifted near the bottom and jigs fished under bobbers can be effective means of catching steelhead on the Imnaha. After rain or periods of warm weather, flows may increase and fishing may be more difficult. Hatchery steelhead smolts have been recently released, and anglers may catch some of these fish as they migrate downstream through the river, especially if they are using bait.

Anglers are reminded that bull trout may be encountered in the fishery and must be released unharmed. Anglers that hike down the Imnaha River and fish for steelhead in the Snake River must use barbless hooks when fishing for steelhead in the Snake River. Additionally, anglers fishing for steelhead in the Snake River need to be aware that the daily limit for steelhead in the Snake River is two hatchery steelhead this spring.

Grande Ronde River

Anglers can fish for hatchery steelhead on the Grande Ronde through the end of the season on April 30. However, fishing may be difficult during periods of elevated flows.

Morgan Lake

Opened for fishing on April 22.

Umatilla River

Due to very poor predicted returns, retention of steelhead on the Umatilla River between the Highway 730 bridge and Three Mile Falls Dam (TMDF) will be closed through April 30, 2022. From TMDF to the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation boundary is open for fishing and retention of steelhead. There has been a total of 1,133 steelhead counted at TMFD up to date for the run year, with an average of five fish per day over the past week.

The spring chinook season opened April 15. There is a predicted run of approximately 3,000 spring chinook returning to the Umatilla River. A total of 12 spring chinook have been counted at TMFD so far this run year. Fishing was slow for opening weekend, but there were anglers out trying to take advantage of the early fish. The flows in the Umatilla have come up in the last few days from the rain and anglers should start see fish moving because of this. Anglers should start to find success as the clarity of the river improves and the river starts to drop. Most anglers use egg set up with a slinky weigh bounced off the bottom.

Trout fishing on the Umatilla River, and its tributaries, is closed currently and reopens May 22. Bass and other warmwater species remain open all year.

Wallowa River

Steelhead fishing is open through April 30. Additionally, fishing for trout and whitefish can be good in the spring. Fishing conditions will be best when flows are lower, and fishing may be more difficult when the weather warms and the river rises.

Wallowa County ponds

Fish at Kinney Lake that overwintered will be available to shore anglers and anglers in nonmotorized boats (motors are not allowed on Kinney Lake). Kinney Lake and ponds throughout the county will be stocked with rainbow trout over the next couple months.

Wallowa Lake

Fishing has been good for rainbow trout near the south end of the lake. Anglers have had success using both flies and lures. Anglers can have good success wading out from shore and casting lures or flies near where fish are rising. Boat anglers will have better access to more of the lake and may find fish near areas where the depth drops off.

Brownlee Reservoir

Reservoir is 24 feet below full pool, and all boat ramps are usable except Spring Recreation Site at the upper end of the reservoir near Huntington. Anglers in the Powder River arm have recently had good catches of bass, and trout have been caught from shore with bait. There also have been some perch caught, and catfish are available.

Oxbow Reservoir

Anglers have been successful catching bass, and bass fishing will likely improve throughout the year as the water temperature increases. Trout fishing will probably be good in the coming months especially when water temperatures are in the low 50s.

Unity Reservoir

Reservoir is nearly full, and anglers have been successful catching 16- to 17-inch rainbow trout. Fishing from shore with bait has been a good technique, and fishing from a boat will probably also be a good way to fish the reservoir.

Thief Valley Reservoir

Reservoir is nearly full. The reservoir drained significantly last year, and there may not be many fish that survived through the fall and winter. However, the reservoir has recently been stocked with rainbow trout.

Phillips Reservoir

It will be stocked with trout throughout the spring. Fishing has been slow, and the reservoir is still very low, about 10% of capacity. The water has now reached the bottom of the Mason Dam boat ramp. There probably is enough water to launch small boats, but large boats may need a bit more water before they can use the boat ramp.

Remember that tiger musky and bull trout must be released unharmed.

Trout stocking schedule

Waterbodies slated to be stocked with rainbow trout this week include the Highway 203 Pond near Baker City, Murray Reservoir near Unity, Phillips Reservoir and Bully Creek Reservoir.
