Flies Fault With Railroad

The S. P. is a poor location for Coos Bay. The company has been tried and found wanting, says the Coos Bay Harbor.

When the lumber market went off, the mills were forced down temporarily, which was the cue for a general curtailment in railroad service all along the line.

When the slides stopped traffic about six weeks ago, it was explained that the night train service would be abandoned for a few nights or until the slides were cleared away and traffic could be resumed. The night train has not been operated since, and now comes the announcement that it has been indefinitely postponed.

The week end service to Lakeside and Gardiner was taken off just because traffic did not meet operating expenses. The company seemed quite unwilling to maintain service along with every other concern operating on the bay. All expect a loss at one time or another, but we do not suspend.

Beginning Sunday the passenger train arrives on a new schedule at 2 o'clock, leaving Eugene 40 minutes later than before. The north bound train operates under the old schedule. That means it takes the only train the outside world has to reach Coos Bay just five hours and thirty minutes to make the trip from Eugene here, a distance of 120 miles. And it costs $6.15 to ride on this magnificent train.

We hear talk of soft track, dangerous curves and tunnels, slides, falling trees, etc., which collectively are the scarecrows that prevent both service and speed.

The facts are that those in authority are not sure of their step; that if they should venture out and show the least sign of giving people a service that would help the community, some higher-up railroad man would call them off their perch.

Coos Bay has enough to hold us back, let alone the tactics of a great corporation like the Southern Pacific. With the help of this concern, by giving service together with passenger and freight rates that were not at the peak, we could grow and develop. Every westerner remembers what the Hill line has done for the new territory tapped by that great system, and the minds of the optimist are rankled by the ever-depressing acts of the Southern Pacific Co.

YOU don't use as much Calumet as you do of most other baking powders. It has more than ordinary leavening strength. You save about half.

You don't pay a big price for Calumet. It's sold at a moderate price—that represents another saving.

You don't feel uncertain as to results. Baking never fails—because Calumet never falls below the proven standard of "Best by Test."

It possesses the highest quality ever put into a Baking Powder. Contains only such ingredients as have been officially endorsed by United States Food Authorities.

For weeks, for months, it keeps as fresh and full of strength as the day it left the Calumet factories, the World's Largest, most Sanitary and Modern Baking Powder plants.

Found can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powder cans are 13 oz. instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Calumet Gold Cake Recipe
Yolks of 8 eggs, 1 1/2 cups of granulated sugar, 1/2 cup of water, 1/2 cup of butter, 1/4 cup pastry flour, 3 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder, 1 tablespoon of vanilla. This mix is the recipe for wafers.

Then there is the Coquille valley trade, which is being neglected to the extent that local capital has established a jitney line, which by operating part way on a passenger launch, is now carrying on an average of 90 passengers daily. Does not this prove that the service between the bay and the valley is inadequate to even carry a very small proportion of the traffic? When the concrete road is fully completed the jitney traffic will increase several times, and there is no telling what will happen to the passenger traffic of the S. P. The facts are this great company is not meeting conditions as they exist to say nothing of stepping out and making a bid for business.

As for the week end train to Gardiner, that is lost sight of and will probably never be restored.

The severe storms on this coast last week are said to have brought to light more agates on the Newport beach than have been seen there in years.

The Gasoline of Quality

Red Crown gasoline has well earned the right to be called "The Gasoline of Quality."

Its continuous chain of boiling points insures all of the qualities of a good motor fuel—readystarting, rapid acceleration, and maximum power.

You can get Red Crown gasoline whenever you see the "Red Crown" sign. Look for it on gas pumps and service stations.

Items From Arago.

There was a large attendance of Myrtle Point pupils accompanied by Professor Noeler at the basket ball game last Saturday night at Arago. The rules of the game were closely followed. The score was 20 to 9 in favor of Arago. After the game the Arago boys treated their opponents to a nice funch. The proceeds, which were $27.90, are to be applied towards the Arago boys' uniforms.

Jay Clinkenbeard, accompanied by his sister, Miss Ada, visited over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clinkenbeard. Miss Ada remained over until Tuesday.

The change in the railroad time causes our Arago mail to be 40 minutes later.

L. E. Dole Freed Again.

When L. E. Dole, of Hecata, who was arrested here two weeks ago and taken to Portland to answer a charge of setting a forest fire on government land, appeared before the United States court he was treated very leniently. The court seemed to have an idea that it was only another attempt of the Savages up there to "get him" and although his bail was fixed at $1,000, he was freed on his own recognizance. The persecution that he is being subjected to by the land hogs who have been using the public lands up there in western Lane as their private perquisite, is something fierce. He is not very far off in calling them savages, (with a small s), even if some of them begin the word with a capital.

In Jail On a Serious Charge.

Will You Stick?

"This Farm Bureau thing costs too much," said a Nebraska merchant to several farmers gathered in his store. "County dues are all right, but putting up for a lot of state and national officers is different. You don't know how they'll spend your money."

"Let's see, don't retail merchants have both state and national organizations?" asked one farmer.

The merchant colored, but admitted they had. The farmer asked if he belonged to any of them.

"That's my business," sputtered the merchant.

"Yes, and I guess the Farm Bureau is my business," spoke up another farmer. "I hadn't joined it before, but I'm going to now. If a national organization is a good thing for merchants and bankers and manufacturers, it's a good thing for farmers, too."

This story has its lessons to farmers everywhere. There are some 400 national business men's organizations, all supported liberally, all doing effective work for their membership. Every big business has had a national organization except farming. Food speculators believe in organization for themselves, but not for the farmers. They hope you will quit the Farm Bureau.

Our advice to you is to stick to the Farm Bureau Federation. It is proceeding steadily and surely. It already has accomplished some fine results. It will accomplish many more if still more farmers get back of it and stay back of it. Take a tip from the members of the big national trade organizations—they are loyal.

The farmer needs a national weekly, too, just as much as the banker needs his financial journal. THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN fills that requirement. Its interesting and important news articles are gathered from all parts of the country. It presents a nation-wide view of farm problems and opportunities. There is a lot of good reading in it, too—splendid fiction, inspiring editorials, wholesome humor. Only $1 brings you 52 big issues.
